BREAD MOBS RIOT IN VIENNA

CLASS AT LAST! MISS FORTUNA LUCK DISPENSER

Routs Toro from Cheer Business.

BY MISS FORTUNA.

[The Goddess of Something for Nothing.]

A mere king is dead. Long live the goddess, Miss Fortuna! I am mystic—O gosh! as mystic as a pale purple aura; as oriental as jade earrings and accidental perfume; as mysterious as black cats' hearts, country churchyards, as different as an Egyptian silhouette.

Tirador Del Toro is dead; passed out and on; a dud, a flivver, a blank. In other words, he's gone—gone back to Honderas. For some time, from my mystic heights on Mount Olympus, I have been suspicious of this bird with the Spanish accent and the athletic vocabulary.

Yesterday morning I got the hunch: 'Toro's double crossing me." So, triple crossing the third tree to the left, a good luck sign in my sorority, I hared my arms for revenge.

He Doesn't Seem Just Right.

Spanish? My long eyelash! That guy can't even mix a Spanish omelet, much less click his heels together without slipping. All the chips on the table he'd run away from a bull fight. The toreador song is "just pretty music" to his deceiving ears.

O, this mysterious myrmidon of mine is a lucky number for small town stuff: county fairs, costume balls, neighborhood card parties, church bazaars, and artists' studios.

But he's a prize blank when it comes to big stuff.

So, when I saw this little game of THE TRIBUNE'S distribution of $200,000 of Christmas cheer developing into an interplanetary riot of mysticism, mud, and mirth, I put my Olympian kitchenette apartment in order and prepared to get down to earth.

My Dears, You Should Know Her.

Out of the unfathomable into the openness of arc lights; from a region of crystal gazers to a city of spectacled individuals scanning the morning TRIBUNE; from ouija board experts to coupon shufflers; from ghosts, goblins and specters; from dream books, rabbit's feet and broomsticks, to judges, bankers, and motormen, I have come.

Sig. Toro. Umph! His was the bull primeval. Mine is the bunk ultimate.

I'm as mystic as Lenin and Trotzky; as open as the workings of a county sheriff. For I am Miss Fortuna, the great. To know me is—well, wait and see.

I guarantee to clean the city of adjectives, to paralyze the telephone service, to block traffic, to—but wait and see.

I catch 'em young, middle aged and old.

I treat 'em right.

I tell 'em everything.

I am Miss Fortuna.

A Drawing with Eclat.

The sixth day's drawing is now one with the ghosts of yesterday that drift about bumpy Mount Olympus. At 8:45 last night the fun began for the appetent crowd of mortals gathered in the courtyard of THE TRIBUNE plant at the Michigan link bridge. The wheel, as advertised by my worthless predecessor, was refined.

Mundane, but cheerful, lyrics were rendered by a jazz trio consisting of Lew Schneider, baritone; Tom Faxon, another baritone, and one Ted Koehler, great god of the harp lying down, all of them working under the god, Leo Feist, purveyor of music, in sheets.

From lyrics to luck!

Lewie Fezl, manicurist of the boulevards, in native costume of white, the symbol of purity, and the South park street cleaning department, mounted the scaffold. He wasn't absolutely unspotted from the world. An unconventional design of dust and mud kept Lewie's work sticking close to him, in spots.

Jet black also, and mystic as the misdeed, was the blind tied over Lewie's eyes. The light of the blazing arc lights shut out. Lewie stood, one hand fumbling with yellow slips, the other rummaging in blue slips.

A voice, the voice of "Big Steve" Cusack, the umpire, boomed through a megaphone and Lewie passed quickly from Italy to his street cleaning post at Dearborn and La Salle, from there to THE TRIBUNE contest. Let's go.

The Great Number.

P. for Patrick, 21-78253, and $1,000 went looking for a home.

Number Y-22, 97646 and $500 was tossed out into the rainy night.

Number T-23, 90612 and another $500 was almost alone in a big city.

And so the drawing went on.

The highest number drawn last

Here is one that would make warlike nations think twice.

LIMITATION OF HUSBANDS NEED OF THIS HELEN

For pretty Mrs. Helen Drexler of Waukegan, matrimony didn't lead to alimony, but it led to something just as remunerative and even easier to get.

As a member of the order of "Golddiggers" Mrs. Drexler no doubt considers herself a past grand mistress. After rifling the pockets of a dozen husbands she worked on Uncle Sam. What money she didn't get from the husbands she got out of him.

In brief Mrs. Drexler has the unique record of having married twelve men, divorced none, and got approximately $400 a month from the government during the last three years.

During her spare time she has been traveling over the country—at the government's expense—dodging secret service operatives and searching for husbands.

Denouement came yesterday in her arrest by William G. Harper and Gabriel Di Flore of the secret service.

At the federal building Mrs. Drexler admitted she had received government allotment checks from at least a dozen hero husbands.

NEGRO LODGE MEN HANG A MEMBER, BUT ROPE BREAKS

Sioux City, Ia., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Charging that Sam Jones, 31, had exposed secrets of a Negro lodge to which he belonged, fourteen members of that organization escorted Jones to a bridge on the outskirts of the city last night, bound his hands and feet, and, after adjusting a clothes line noose about his neck and attaching it to a bridge girder, threw him over the rail.

The mob then departed. But the clothes line broke and Jones landed in water waist deep.

The Rev. Dudley Smith, former pastor of a Negro congregation here, was arrested late today, charged with being one of the party that attempted to lynch Jones.

SECRET OF STAR BARED BY DEATH

Marie Dressler Romance Is Revealed.

Events following the death of James H. Dalton of Boston, in the Congress hotel on the evening of Nov. 29, yesterday revealed an interesting and hitherto unknown episode in the life of Marie Dressler, stage comedienne, who played to crowded houses in vaudeville here last week.

Dalton has been known for years as the husband of Miss Dressler. Information from Boston last night, however, revealed that he was never married to the actress, but had always living in Boston a wife who refused to give him up. This was admitted to be true by an authorized representative of Miss Dressler, speaking in Chicago.

Followed Her Twelve Years.

The Boston woman, Mrs. L. A. Dalton of 60 Brighton avenue, Allston, a suburb of that city, declared Dalton left her twelve years ago to follow the buxom comedy star across the country, and that he has been with her ever since.

Miss Dressler, through her representative, admitted this, but this is the story she told:

"I met Mr. Dalton in 1907. At that time he was in financial straits and I took him with me to manage my affairs. We grew in a few years to care a great deal for each other and decided we would like to be married. Then Mr. Dalton told me of his wife—confessed to me that he had a wife, for I did not know until then that he was married.

Begged for Divorce.

"We went to this woman and with Mr. Dalton's brother begged her to divorce him. They had never been able to get along and there was every reason why she should divorce him. She laughed at us and refused. Since that time Mr. Dalton has always been my manager."

"Miss Dressler gave up everything for Dalton and she is in deep grief over his death tonight," added the representative. "Dalton has always sent money to his wife and daughter, and Miss Dressler has always kept up a $10,000 life insurance policy for this woman."

Poses as Husband.

Dalton came to Chicago a little more than a week ago to join Miss Dressler. Officials at the hotel said he had been known to attachés there for some time as Miss Dressler's husband and that she had on a number of occasions spoken of him in affectionate terms. He was said to have been ill for some time before his death.

Miss Dressler last night accompanied the body of Dalton to Corning, N. Y. Her representative declared his brother, Benjamin Dalton, had arranged for his burial in the family plot there.

Mrs. Dalton, in Boston, admitted that her husband had sent her a sum of money each week and that neither she nor her husband had ever attempted to have the marriage annulled.

JAPANESE DENY HAVING MADE NAVY "DEMAND"

10-10-7 Ratio Was Only Discussed.

BY GRAFTON WILCOX.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Official denials came today from the highest American and Japanese sources that Japan had made a formal demand in the arms conference for a naval ratio of 10-10-7 instead of the 5-5-3 ratio proposed in the American delegation.

ADMIRAL KATO. [Photo: Harris & Ewing.]

Admiral Baron Kato, the Japanese delegate most vitally concerned with the limitation program, also denied published reports that he had laid the 10-10-7 demand before Secretary Hughes and Mr. Arthur Balfour, representing the United States and Great Britain.

Not So Instructed by Tokio.

Admiral Baron Kato went further and declared he had never received instructions from Tokio to demand the 10-10-7 ratio from the conference.

The Japanese delegate also volunteered the statement that he was deliberating the ratio and would announce his decision at the proper time and that he was thinking over the limitation of armament proposal independently of the question of naval bases and Pacific fortifications.

These denials do not mean that there is no talk about the 10-10-7 ratio on the part of Japan. There is. It comes from the Japanese naval experts who base their claim on a calculation which eliminates from consideration the ships under construction in each of the big three navies.

Suggested Only in Subcommittee.

If ships under construction are eliminated the existing ratio of capital ships for the United States, Great Britain, and Japan is approximately 10-10-7. But such a basis of calculation is erroneous, unsound, and impossible from the American and British standpoint. That it will never be admitted is certain.

Outside the conference of the three principal naval experts the 10-10-7 ratio has never been suggested, and should it be formally proposed by Japan it would be regarded as a violation of Japan's acceptance of the Hughes limitation proposal in principle as a basis for negotiation. The inclusion of ships under construction in the calculation of naval ratios is regarded by the United States as part of the limitation principle already accepted.

Talk of Deadlock Discredited.

Talk of a deadlock over the naval ratio is not regarded seriously by the conference leaders, who were more emphatic than ever today of final agreement on the 5-5-3 basis. An American spokesman, talking to correspondents, said:

"In affairs of such vast importance optimism is a good policy. But it is well also to have good basis for your optimism. When you have confidence in the merits of your proposals as a basis for your optimism you are on solid ground. That is our position."

When the naval experts of the powers resubmitted the ratio question to the conference itself yesterday the question was put squarely back to the heads of the American, British, and Japanese delegations. Thus the "big three," Hughes, Balfour, and Kato, have the issue before them for determination.

"Big Three" Do Not Meet.

They did not meet today, but probably will tomorrow. The discussions likely will continue for several days and there is a general belief now that Japan is holding back until Shantung and other eastern issues are disposed of before giving final word. In that event final action on the ratio may be held up for some time.

It is not the naval ratio that is bothering Japan so much, delegates declare, as the eastern issues which are now absorbing so much of the conference's attention.

Nest of Doves Slow Up University Time

Faces of the large clock which graces the administration building tower at Northwestern university differed some fifteen minutes in telling the time yesterday. Investigation showed doves nesting in the mechanism of the clock. They were removed to the tower of the First Methodist church and the students' best alibi for late attendance blasted.

Loot Hotels and Shops; Rob Americans

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]

VIENNA, Dec. 1.—Damage estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars was done and scores were injured during serious rioting in Vienna this afternoon. The disturbances followed a workers' demonstration against the rising price of bread. There was looting on a large scale.

Many Americans were subjected to indignities and robbed. Furs and clothing were taken from the wife and daughter of Col. Hand, U. S. A. An American flag raised above their heads saved Col. and Mrs. Miller, U. S. A., when the mob burst into their room.

Overwhelming the police by sheer numbers, mobs broke into the leading hotels, where they demolished fixtures, mirrors and furniture and even broke into guest rooms, throwing trunks and other personal effects out of the windows.

A Seething Mass of Rioters.

Workers hurling stones smashed windows in the hotels up to three or four stories and likewise broke plate glass windows in the fronts of many stores. Looting took place wherever stores, in which windows had been broken, were not protected by iron screens.

Vienna tonight is a seething mass of demonstrators and rioters. Numerous women are marching in processions in all parts of the city. Many mobs are committing depredations simultaneously in various places, adding to the difficulties of the police.

Rioters tore fur coats from women, snatched purses and took the earrings from the ears of fashionably gowned women. Persons showing signs of prosperity were beaten regardless of their race or nationality.

Stock Exchange Wrecked.

The entire side of the Stock Exchange building was smashed out and the furniture chopped into kindling wood by mobs shouting imprecations against profiteers and speculators. Every mirror and window up to the fourth floor in the New Bristol, one of the finest hotels in Europe, was smashed and the entire hotel office was destroyed. Other hotels were wrecked by the rioters.

The police and storekeepers had not expected the trouble, although anti-Semite demonstrations are common on Sundays, when mounted patrols and extra police are on duty. The shops are closed on that day to prevent damage.

The first indications of today's trouble were processions from the four corners of the city. The paraders, carrying red banners, gathered at the Ringstrasse and began their march toward parliament to demand effective control of food, seizure of foreign securities, and a halt in money speculation.

Looting Continues at Night.

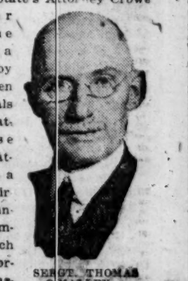

The route of the marchers led past the Bristol and other hotels. As the angry crowds swung past, howling derisively at the police and profiteers, the guests became panicky. Some damage was done when the mob first passed, but the real destruction occurred on their return.

Tonight the crowds are everywhere, scrambling to loot what is left from the stores wrecked. I saw at least twenty places, including two big cafés, ransacked to such an extent that the owners gave up trying to salvage anything and let the looters pass in at will. The hotel lobbies look like an earthquake had struck them.

CROWE ASSAILS CITY HALL OVER O'MALLEY TRIAL

Board Holds Chief Can Recall Police.

What was regarded as the final break between State's Attorney Crowe and Mayor Thompson came last night after a day marked by clashes between city hall officials and the state's attorney. These clashes culminated last night in a letter to the chairman of the council finance committee in which the state's attorney directly assailed the city hall administration.

SERGT. THOMAS O'MALLEY.

In the letter Mr. Crowe declared the actions of the city hall officials during the day "make it manifest to me that the city administration does not intend to close certain vicious dives and breeding places of crime and does not propose to permit the state's attorney of Cook county to close them if it lies within its power to prevent it.

Again Busts the Board.

It was not the first time the state's attorney had assailed the city administration. In a statement based on the conflict with the chief of police made on Nov. 5 and published Nov. 6 he had directly criticized the mayor. However, the breach between the two appeared to have been walled up later on. His letter of last night again destroyed the entente.

The events which led up to the addressing of the letter to Chairman Richert of the finance committee were:

Mayor Thompson's civil service commission, after a trial replete with personalities and a bitter repartee, yesterday ordered Chief Fitzmorris' charges of insubordination against Sergt. Thomas O'Malley of the state's attorney's office dismissed.

O'Malley Ordered Back to Police.

Reports flew about that the chief would resign in a few hours.

Fifteen minutes after the decision, Chief Fitzmorris, after a conference with Mayor Thompson, recalled O'Malley from the state's attorney's office and ordered him to report to the Lawndale station for ordinary police duty.

The chief acted under a paragraph of the commission's order which declared he had power to recall O'Malley "at any time he [the chief] may see fit."

Then the state's attorney wrote the letter to Chairman Richert. In part, it follows:

"This finding that the chief of police had power to recall Sergt. O'Malley was absolutely not necessary to a disposition of the case, and in my opinion was deliberately written into the decision in order to give the chief of police power to punish O'Malley, whose only offense was that he had, at my direction, raided and closed gambling houses and houses of prostitution.

Sees Peril for Others.

"If O'Malley may thus be punished it is apparent that the other thirty-nine policemen remaining in my office will be similarly treated if they close these vicious resorts at my command.

"This conduct on the part of the civil service commission and the chief of police makes it manifest to me that the city administration does not intend to close certain vicious dives and breeding places of crime and does not propose to permit the state's attorney of Cook county to close them if it lies within their power to prevent it.

"Your committee has before it the Shaffer ordinance, which, if enacted into law, will make it impossible for the chief of police or the city administration to interfere in a tyrannical or despotic manner with the police in my office, and which will make it possible for me to use these officers to clean up these breeding spots for crime without imperiling their positions.

Would Not Imperil Police.

"I have no desire to imperil the positions of these policemen, nor any desire to give the chief of police, backed by the city administration, an opportunity to make the lives of these police officers unbearable.

"I have advised Sergt. O'Malley, in order to protect his position and not to lose his rights to a pension that will go to his widow and children upon his death, to report back to his station as directed, and that when his rights under the new pension law become fixed in January, or when the council passes, if it does, the Shaffer ordinance, he may return to my office and continue to aid me in my efforts to rid Chicago

REPORTS HOLDUP, THEN CONFESSES HE WAS ROBBER

Leslie Vivian, 4543 North Western avenue, a salesman for Heil-McClimans company, 202 South State street, walked into the detective bureau yesterday.

"I've been held up and robbed," he told Lieut. William O'Connor.

"Well, well, tell me all about it, my boy."

Vivian told all about it. The officer made him tell it again. Then he asked for another relation. The police officer's eyes were half closed.

"Aw—say—where do you get that stuff?" asked the policeman finally. "What are you trying to tell me—you stole that stuff yourself—didn't you?"

Vivian hesitated a moment. Then he told the whole story. He had pawned $5,000 worth of jewelry, he said. The police recovered $2,000. Vivian is married.

of the gambling hells and dens of iniquity.

"May I again appear before your committee on Monday when it meets to urge personally a favorable report upon this ordinance, to the end that I may be able to enforce the laws against vice unhampered and unhindered by the general superintendent of police and the city administration?"

On issuing his order canceling O'Malley's assignment to Mr. Crowe's office, Chief Fitzmorris said:

"I am still chief of police and still chief of all the police. The board's decision did not change that one particle."

The chief and Mr. Crowe engaged in a half dozen bitter tilts before the merit board. Once the chief practically challenged Mr. Crowe to indict him. The challenge followed Mr. Crowe's remark that he did not want the chief to talk to O'Malley "in fear that the chief will tell him not to raid gambling houses."

Bitter Verbal Tilts.

Each verbal tilt was more bitter than its predecessor. The chief heard himself referred to with elaborate sarcasm, "the greatest chief of police America ever had," "the boy wonder," "the youthful chief," and lastly as "this colossally ignorant young man."

One verbal passage at arms, during which the chief appeared to challenge the state's attorney to indict him, was as follows:

MR. CROWE—I object to the chief's repeated demands that O'Malley obey him when he is under my protection. I am afraid the chief will tell O'Malley not to arrest gamblers.

CHIEF—You wouldn't dare say that.

MR. CROWE—I have said it. I do say it. I repeat it.

CHIEF—Then why don't you take appropriate action? You have the power.

MR. CROWE—I will perform my duties at the proper time.

CHIEF—And so will the chief of police.

Stirs Ire of Prosecutor.

In demanding over and again of O'Malley when on the witness stand whether he was willing to obey orders of the chief of police and by ordering him to report to the chief's office, Chief Fitzmorris provoked the ire of Mr. Crowe.

"I am merely trying to save O'Malley from himself," said the chief. "I'm trying to give him a chance to obey me if he will."

"O'Malley doesn't need protection from himself as much as the monumentally egotistical chief of police needs protection from himself," replied Mr. Crowe.

"The chief of police isn't on trial," retorted Chief Fitzmorris.

"It appears to me that the chief of police, more than O'Malley, is on trial before the bar of public opinion."

The chief continued to smile and bore in with his one demand that he be allowed to ask Sergt. O'Malley whether he would obey the chief of police or the state's attorney in a pinch.

Mr. Crowe objected to the question and Commissioner Charles E. Frazier upheld his objection.

"Sergt. O'Malley, I order you to report to me some time today," the chief shot out before Mr. Crowe could object.

Before reading the decision President Frazier said that "the talk about vice and gambling has not been considered" and that "the commission considered only the evidence bearing on the guilt or innocence of the defendant."

Mayor Thompson when told of the decision said he had no comment to make.

"I'm still a peacemaker," he said.

Eat for Energy

In the old days they prescribed iron tonics for the tired and run-down people. Now doctors know that this iron is contained in certain foods which are easily absorbed, effective and natural.

Of these iron-foods, raisins are the richest; and one should eat them every day. A famous Battle Creek sanitarium serves stewed raisins for breakfast. There is luscious raisin pie, delicious raisin bread, and rich, sweet cluster raisins.

You need but a small bit of food-iron every day, yet this need is vital. So remember

LAND ARMAMENT TO BE LET ALONE BY THIS PARLEY

Has No Place, Says Briton; "Up to U. S."—Italy.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—The expectation that this conference would not attempt to effect a reduction and limitation of land armaments was confirmed tonight by one of the principal British delegates.

"Few of the nations with large armies are represented in this conference," he said. "Conscription is the root of the problem of reducing the size of armies. France and Italy have conscription, but Britain and the United States do not, and, moreover, have small armies. Consequently neither Britain nor the United States is qualified to take the lead in the matter of reducing land armaments. That would have to be done in a conference representative of the nations having large armies and conscription."

Italy Leaves It to United States.

It is for the United States to decide whether it will be useful or not to call another conference to deal with the questions of land armaments and the European economic situation, according to a spokesman for the Italian delegation.

Italy will not take the initiative, and no other European country is likely to do so, it was pointed out, because none could issue such a call without having its motives suspected.

"We have perfect confidence that anything which might be thought useful to get practical results from this conference will be done by the American government and Secretary Hughes," said the Italian spokesman.

Briton's Submarine Views.

The British delegate also discussed the submarine. The delegation, he said, had not decided whether it would present formally its suggested proposal that a limitation be imposed upon the size of submarines.

"The submarine," he said, "is an instrument that can hardly be used without being abused. While it is legitimate to employ the submarine against battleships, it is practically impossible to employ it legitimately against merchant ships because of the impracticability of the submarine complying with the rules of visit and search and removal of noncombatants.

"I doubt the validity of the claim that the submarine constitutes an effective defense of a weaker against a stronger nation. My view on that point, however, does not appear to be the one prevailing in the conference."

SECRET BARED

Marie Dressler, stage favorite, whose affair with married man was revealed by his death in the Congress hotel.

U. S. FAVORS SUBMARINES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[By the Associated Press.]—Four reports dealing with submarines, land armament, aircraft, and new weapons of warfare, including poison gases, were adopted today by the American advisory committee to the arms conference, but pending their approval by Secretary Hughes no indication as to the specific questions discussed was forthcoming.

Prepared by experts at the request of Secretary Hughes, Chairman Sutherland of the committee declared the reports contained a mass of information bearing vitally on the big problems of the conference. But whatever the viewpoint set down by the experts, Mr. Sutherland emphasized that the committee of twenty-one stood solidly behind the American proposal for limitation of armament.

SINO-JAPANESE AGREEMENT ON SHANTUNG NEAR

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Japan is holding back her acceptance of the American naval limitation program until Shantung and other Chinese problems are disposed of, it was admitted tonight by a spokesman for the Japanese delegation.

"Baron Kato knew on Nov. 13 that he would accept the Hughes plan," it was stated, "but Japan's safety as a nation through free access to the Asiatic mainland and the maintenance of her legitimate rights there must be established by the conference before she can act in the naval matter."

Focus on Shantung Problem.

One of the greatest advances made by the conference outside the naval situation is the opening of conversations today between Chinese and Japanese representatives over the vexing question of the return of Shantung to China. The method of procedure for these delicate negotiations was outlined in secret committee.

Secretary Hughes and Mr. Balfour acted as observers. They may end as mediators. They were accompanied by J. V. A. MacMurray, head of the far eastern bureau of the state department; Edward Bell, former American attaché at the American embassy in Tokio, and Sir John Jordan and Miles Lampson for the British.

These four will act as observers in place of Mr. Hughes and Mr. Balfour at future sessions. Another meeting will be held tomorrow.

Both Sides Optimistic.

The opinion was expressed by Chinese and Japanese that an agreement would be reached. Wellington Koo, Chinese delegate, said he was "not willing to talk compromise at this stage."

In view of the former attitude of the Chinese that they never would compromise and never would recede an inch from their demand for "unconditional surrender," this is hopeful. The Japanese have the Versailles treaty to rest their case upon. Anything they give up that was given them at that time is regarded by them as a distinct concession.

There is already agreement on many points. Where the chief disagreement rests is over the railroad and over the question of the return to Chinese owners of property and business acquired by Japanese under their military regime in Shantung.

Chinese students, failing to understand the nature of the agreement to meet in conversation under American and British guidance, gathered at the Chinese headquarters on Massachusetts avenue this afternoon and hissed Dr. Koo and Minister Sze as they came out to attend the Shantung meeting.

"Traitors!" yelled the students.

The delegates spoke to them from the balcony in Chinese, explaining that they had not entered direct negotiations with Japan and that they would stand firm for China. It is expected that similar demonstrations may be made in China, where the feeling has been high against taking the matter up at all with Japan. Japan tomorrow will renew her offer to withdraw from Shantung if she is permitted to retain her legitimate commercial rights there.

721 PERMITS FOR NEW BUILDINGS ISSUED IN MONTH

NINE ROBBERS GET $60,000 IN GOLD AMALGAM

Jackson, Cal., Dec. 1.—Six armed men overpowered two employés, blew open the safe of the famous Argonaut mine, and escaped in automobiles today with more than $60,000 in gold amalgam.

The loot, which was a month's clean-up for the mine, weighed 455 pounds and was in the form of balls of ore mixed with quicksilver. Sheriff Lucot led a posse in pursuit into the San Joaquin valley.

Among the owners of the mine, which is one of the richest in California, are the Harmon estate of Chicago and M. D. Adams of Milwaukee, Wis.

WOMAN FANATIC SLEW CHILD AND SELF, POLICE SAY

Scientists Hold She Had Religious Mania.

Did Mrs. Rachel Penses, religious fanatic to the point of mania, obey the commands of a mysterious "voice" which told her to brutally murder 3 year old Margaret Coughlin in her home at 1126 North Avers avenue?

This theory was advanced last night by one of the most noted psychiatrists in Chicago. It was advanced after a detailed examination had been made of Mrs. Penses' body and of the history of her family.

The fact that Mrs. Penses was the slayer of the little girl whose body, dismembered, scalped, and charred, was found gruesomely concealed in the Penses home, was held by the police last night to be too self-evident to afford contradiction. The suicide of the woman immediately after the hammering of a policeman's fist on her door apprised her that she was suspected is pointed to as positive proof of her guilt.

Then it was learned that some time ago the whole Penses family had been characterized as dementia præcocci in an examination at the municipal psychopathic laboratories.

Was Religious Fanatic.

Facts gleaned from relatives and acquaintances of Mrs. Penses all pointed to insanity as the motive for the crime.

She was a highly religious fanatic. She had changed from Catholic to Protestant and back again and finally to the creed of the "free thinkers" within half a decade. She was nervous, irritable, accustomed to outbursts of violent anger over petty trifles. She could magnify small incidents occurring about the house into the wildest of imaginary tales.

She was enamoured of little Margaret Coughlin, the daughter of Policeman Edward Coughlin who lived across the street. At every opportunity she would take her into her arms to kiss and hug her. Mayhap she was thinking of three of her own babies who had died in infancy. No one knows. Physicians point to incidents in the past where mothers have been known to slay their own offspring in bursts of violent insanity. This killing, they say, is similar.

Not New in Psychiatry.

"The voice" which prompts crime is not new to psychiatry. Dozens of patients appearing at the various lab oratories tell of these "voices" which come to them. It is especially true of the religious fanatic that these visions occur, and after the obeyance of the "order," the recipient of the "vision" generally returns to normal living.

So Mrs. Penses, as she watched her daughter Josephine, 11 years old, playing with little Margaret in the Penses' parlor shortly after noon on Wednesday, might have heard a voice bidding her to slay. She sent Josephine to the drug store on a useless errand. The slaying could have been committed within the hour's time it took the girl to run the errand.

"Dementia præcox hebephreniacs," the doctors call some people of this type. When her daughter, returning, asked for her little playmate she found her mother apparently normal—emotionally indifferent. This state of mind lasted through the night—it enabled her to visit the Coughlin home, to mask her feelings, to sympathize with the grief-stricken mother and father even while she laid plans for the disposal of the body of the little one the next day.

Return to Normal.

It enabled her to act and talk naturally to her [illegible] her own children. It gave her the strength and callousness necessary to take the cold body of the baby into the cellar and there, with ax and saw, dismember it and then to attempt to cremate it to cover up the evidence of her crime.

Caught fairly in the act of burning the body, she probably looked out of the window and saw the morning light reflecting on the silver of the policemen's stars and helmets. Then came panic. There was only one way out—suicide. She took it. Thus the reconstruction of the motive and subsequent happenings from the medical viewpoint.

And if she had succeeded in this crime, they say, it would have been only a space of time until it would have been repeated—probably with her own family as the victims.

Penses, held in the Austin police station, reiterated his innocence of knowledge of the crime last night. He, too, is slightly mentally disordered. His glib speech, his vacuous smile as he tells of his actions on the night before and the early morning of yesterday are plainly indicative. His daughters, exhausted from grief, weep and repeat "Our mamma couldn't kill her—she couldn't do it—she isn't dead!"

And at the Coughlin home a red-eyed man sits with the 18 months old brother of little Margaret in a creaky rocking chair—talking in a low tone of his dead baby's charms. And in the next room the mother lies in coma on a bed—the coma of hysteria; a doctor watches—her case is very serious.

The inquest on both bodies probably will come today.

DETROIT'S CITY CARS TO RUN ON PRIVATE TRACKS

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 1.—Detroit's traction problems were disposed of for a time at least, by an agreement today between the city and the Detroit United railway for exchange of running rights, and universal transfer between the D. U. R. and the Municipal Street railway. Both the city and the company agreed to pay 20 cents a mile on car, for the exchange of running rights, which will place city cars on the greater part of the privately owned lines.

Negotiations are to be opened within a few weeks for lease by the city of the entire Detroit United system. Mayor James Couzens has announced he would submit a purchase proposal to the voters at the next election.

DEATH LAID TO "MOONSHINE."

Heart disease superinduced by drinking "moonshine" whisky is believed to have caused the death of Justine Anthonowicz, 56 years old, 1719 Ellen avenue, a former saloonkeeper, who was found dead in his room by his wife when she returned home last night.

MRS. OBENCHAIN NAMED IN TRIAL OF ARTHUR BURCH

Hotel Man Says She Visited Defendant.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 1.—The name of Mrs. Madelynn Obenchain, indicted jointly with Arthur C. Burch for the alleged murder of J. Belton Kennedy, was brought into Burch's trial today for the first time. Deputy District Attorney Asa Keys announced the prosecution expected to prove Mrs. Obenchain and Burch "conspired to commit this crime." Mrs. Obenchain's trial is to follow that of Burch.

ARTHUR C. BURCH.

The room clerk of a large downtown hotel identified Mrs. Obenchain's signature on the hotel register under date of July 6 last, and testified she remained in that hotel until Aug. 5, the date on which Kennedy was shot to death while in her company at Beverly Glen.

Tells of Madelynn's Visits.

Thomas M. Haley, proprietor of a hotel about two blocks from where Mrs. Obenchain registered, testified Burch came to his place on July 24 and asked for and secured a room overlooking Broadway. A woman Haley declared was Mrs. Obenchain visited Burch in this room on several occasions, he said. Haley also stated he saw Burch on several occasions looking from this room window across the street toward the offices where Kennedy and his father conducted a brokerage business.

Haley said Burch went out on the night of Aug. 5, carrying a long package wrapped in newspapers, which had the general appearance of a gun case. Burch checked out the next day, the hotel man said, leaving behind him newspapers containing accounts of the death of Kennedy.

Says He Informed Sheriff.

Haley said he informed the sheriff's office of Burch's movements and an examination was made of the room. Burch was arrested late the same day at Las Vegas, Nev., on a train bound for Chicago.

R. J. Sanderson, a sleeping car porter, testified that Burch came west from Chicago with him, leaving there July 21, and that Burch's baggage, which Sanderson had frequently handled on the way, included a shotgun case. Kennedy was slain by a load from a shotgun, and when Burch was arrrested he stated that he had no such weapon while in Los Angeles.

Thirty telegrams were produced by the prosecution and ordered marked for identification. The district attorney indicated he would endeavor to have the messages read into the record in their effort to prove that Burch conspired with Mrs. Madelynn Obenchain, indicted jointly with him, to take Kennedy's life. Names of the senders or recipients were not put in evidence or given out.

MILLIONAIRES OF I. R. T. REJECT IMMUNITY OFFER

New York, Dec. 1.—August Belmont Cornelius Vanderbilt, and four other directors of the Interborough Rapid Transit company refused to waive immunity today when summoned before the state transit commission, which sought to determine whether they had impaired the capital of the company by authorizing large dividend payments from 1917 to 1919. They were then dismissed.

CORNELIUS VANDERBILT.

The commission maintained that if the directors were found to have impaired the corporation's capital their responsibility would be not only civil but criminal. The directors offered to answer any pertinent questions if granted immunity, but the commission would not have it so.

The directors felt themselves trustees who might jeopardize interests represented by them on the board if they signed the waivers, Mr. Belmont said. This feeling was shared by Mr. Vanderbilt, Daniel G. Reid, Edward J. Berwind, F. De Courcy Sullivan Thomas De Witt Cuyler, and Morgan J. O'Brien.

CALL STRIKE OF MEAT CUTTERS MONDAY MORNING

Packers Face Walkout of 45,000 Employes.

An order for a strike of employés of the packing plants throughout the country has been issued, effective Monday, Dec. 5, at 6 a. m. The order is signed by Dennis Lane, secretary of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America.

DENNIS LANE.

The walkout was ordered after a conference yesterday between Lane, Cornelius J. Hayes, international president, and Patrick E. Gorman, international vice president. They had been given the power by a strike vote of the men which, they announce, resulted in over 35,000 voting for strike, as against 3,000 against.

Authority was placed in the hands of the union executive committee to call a strike at any time they saw fit. The shop representation plan and the approximate cut in wages of 10 per cent which took effect last Monday are the direct causes of the strke order.

Packers Unafraid.

Representatives of the big packing plants last night said that but few of the men would respond to the order to strike. They said only a small part of their employés were organized. They anticipate no trouble in maintaining operations, they declare, and say they do not regard the strike as serious.

Dennis Lane issued the following statement:

"All attempts to negotiate a fair adjustment of wage rates by offering an agreement providing for arbitration between the packers and the employes have failed. The joint executive committee representing all international unions affected do now advise in accordance with the strike vote of the rank and file that all packing house employés in all plants where wage reductions were arbitrarily ordered into effect Monday, Nov. 28, or any date thereafter, cease all work at 6 o'clock Monday morning, Dec. 5."

20,000 Workers Here.

In Chicago about 20,000 men will walk out, according to union officials. The total of 45,000 includes about 8,000 members of allied unions, which include stationary firemen, steam and operating engineers, car repairmen, coopers, carpenters, blacksmiths, electrical workers steamfitters, sheet metal workers, and machinists.

The principal cities in which the strike will be effective are: St. Paul, Chicago, Milwaukee, Sioux City, Ia.; Omaha, Neb.; Nebraska City, Neb.; St. Joseph, Mo.; Kansas City, Mo.; Wichita, Kas.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; Fort Worth, Tex.; East St. Louis, Ill.; St. Louis, Mo.; Albert Lea, Minn.; Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Austin, Minn., and Dubuque, Ia.

JOBLESS OVER A MILLION FEWER, HOOVER REPORTS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—The number of the nation's unemployed has decreased by more than a million during recent weeks, according to an estimate of the national conference on unemployment, announced today by Secretary Hoover.

The commerce secretary said that while some of the unemployment decrease might be only temporary, reports to the conference from all parts of the country indicated considerable improvement.

He cited as an instance reports from St. Louis of approximately 15,000 unemployer, compared with previous official figures of 65,000.

Unemployment estimates at the time of the unemployment conference placed the total throughout the country at somewhere between 3,500,000 and 4,000,000.

BURLINGTON PAYS YEAR'S DIVIDENDS FOR N. P. AND G. N.

Declares Extra 15 Per Cent.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad yesterday came to the financial aid of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads, which jointly own 97 per cent of the Burlington's $170,692,200 capital stock, by declaring cash dividends aggregating 20 per cent, or $34,138,440.

This disbursement is equivalent to almost a full year's dividends on the capital stocks of both proprietary roads and removes all doubt that both the Northern Pacific and Great Northern will maintain their dividends at the regular 7 per cent annual rates.

Their respective directorates will meet within the next six weeks to take action on quarterly dividends.

Extra Dividend $25,603,830.

The directors of the Burlington declared a semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent, which was established six months ago, and an extra dividend of 15 per cent, both payable Dec. 27. The regular dividend is equivalent to $8,534,610 and the extra dividend to $25,603,830. Of this amount, the Northern Pacific and Great Northern will receive $33,114,287.

The Northern Pacific has $248,000,000 capital stock and the Great Northern has $249,477,150 of capital stock, all preferred. As both pay dividends at the rate of 7 per cent, a full year's dividend for the Northern Pacific would require $17,360,000 and for the Great Northern $17,463,400, or a total of $34,823,400 for both roads. Thus, the dividends to be received through yesterday's declaration by the Burlington will fall short by only $1,709,113 of paying a year's dividends for both roads.

Able to Make Disbursement.

That the Burlington is amply able to make the disbursement ordered yesterday is demonstrated by the fact that at the close of last year its surplus was $214,129,391. Last February the directors declared a stock dividend of slightly more than 54 per cent, which reduced surplus about $60,000,000, but even now the surplus is estimated to be around $160,000,000.

TOKIO PROPOSAL QUICKSAND FOR U.S. NAVY: REILLY

Luxury of Naval Bases Means Superiority.

BY GEN. HENRY REILLY.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—The Japanese counter propos als—that justice requires a tonnage allowance for them in the ratio of 7 to our 10—ignores the fact, which also has escaped the general notice of the American press, that the strength of navies in ships is not an accurate measure of the total navy strength that can be exerted during war.

The luxury of ample naval bases which Japan now actually enjoys in and near the waters about Japan and the Philippines, compared with our great deficiencies in base facilities in those areas, results in changing the Hughes ratio of 5-3 against Japan in ships, to about 6-5 against us in total naval strength.

It must be remembered our fleet will have to operate across the broad Pacific ocean, while the Japanese navy will remain close to its home waters. This is the fundamental condition under which a war with Japan would have to be fought.

Japs Fight at Home.

If she fought a purely defensive war, her navy would have no occasion to cross the Pacific, since her aims can be accomplished in the orient and the mid-Pacific, and would be jeopardized unnecessarily by crossing to America.

On the other hand if our objects related to oriental questions, the "open door" and the defense of the Philippines, we could never attain them without incurring the burden of crossing 7,000 miles of ocean.

The mere getting of our fleet across will be a huge task, involving the transportation of tremendous quantities of fuel, which the fleet can take on board readily only in the smooth waters of harbors, and few will be available to us. Guam, practically undefended, is certain to be found in Japanese possession; so that we will have to fight for all stopping points between Hawaii and Manila.

Shore Defenses Hold Out.

Operations by ships against shore positions is a slow and usually a costly process. The small island positions available for base uses in the Carolines and Marshalls are of such character as to be easily defended by a small force on comparatively short notice. Moreover, during an attack against one of them, assistance may be given to it with submarines, destroyers, and aircraft, from neighboring islands.

By the time our fleet could reach Manila, after fighting its way through the Japanese archipelago, which is 1,600 miles in breadth and 2,000 miles in length, Manila also would probably be in Japanese hands and our fleet probably would have lost many of the ships that started from America.

Meantime the Japanese fleet can keep up to full strength, since bases already prepared are close at hand, not only in Japan proper, at Sasebo, Yokosusa, and on the inland sea, but also at advanced points such as the Pescadores islands, close to Manila, Tsingtao, Bonin, and various other places more advanced into the Pacific.

Useless to Destroy Forts.

Our case would not be much improved, even if Japan destroyed the fortifications at these places now, in return for a similar destruction by us of the defenses of Hawaii and Manila, and an agreement not to fortify Guam in the future. Some such suggestion has been made from Japanese sources already.

It would materially increase their naval strength, because of the much shorter distances the Japanese fleet would have to go. She could seize and fortify them before our fleet arrived on the scene.

DEFENSE BEGINS LAST APPEAL TO SAVE ARBUCKLE

Film Star's Witness Is Poison Victim.

BY EDWARD DOHERTY.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—After thirteen days of testimony, arguments by counsel began today in the trial of Roscoe Arbuckle, accused of manslaughter as the result of the death of Virginia Rappe. Deputy Attorney General Leo Friedman made the first address for the state. Gavin McNab, chief of the Arbuckle counsel, began the argument of the defense. He will close tomorrow, to be followed by District Attorney U'Ren, and the case then will go to the jury.

The crowd in the courtroom—the place was jammed—was startled by the announcement that Miss Irene Morgan, who was one of the witnesses for the defense, had been found poisoned in her room at the Clift hotel. Miss Morgan, who testified that she had nursed Miss Rappe and whose claim that she was a war nurse in France was attacked by the state, is under the care of two physicians.

Were Followed for Weeks.

Both Miss Morgan and Miss Pearl Leushy, who was called as a witness in the Arbuckle case, but who did not testify, say they had been followed by "a man with an official bearing for days and weeks."

Last night the two women were visitors at a dance hall which figured in the recent "gangsters'" case. Miss Morgan says the man came to her table every time Miss Leushy left to dance, and that he talked to her. She did not reveal what he said.

Later Miss Morgan talked in her sleep, saying, "I must meet him at 8 o'clock," according to Miss Leushy. She did meet the man, both declare. He gave her candy. She became dizzy and went into a drug store. She drank some orange juice. She asked to be taken back to the Clift hotel.

"Go to hell; you're done for," she quotes the man as saying. "You have made others suffer; now suffer yourself."

Was Given Opium.

She made this statement to Dr. Julian L. Waller and Dr. Fred Zumwalt and others. Dr. Waller says she was given opium, and that the effect of the drug was aggravated by an opiate.

Another sensation of the day was the charge by Deputy Sheriff McGovern that district attorney office detectives were following the jury from the hotel to the courtroom trying to talk to at least one of them.

Then Mr. Friedman began his appeal to the thirteen jurors, while "Fatty" leaned his head against his plump left fist and gazed down at the table where he had formed a little mound of torn up paper.

"We are not trying Roscoe Arbuckle, the hero of a thousand laughs ladies and gentlemen of the jury," Friedman said. "But we are trying Roscoe Arbuckle, the man, the calloused man, who could stand in the face of suffering and smile; who could see a woman writhing in agony, screaming in pain, and laugh; who could think only of getting this poor dying woman out of his rooms, so there might be no trouble, and who could not think of getting her medical aid.

Calls "Fatty's" Testimony False.

"We believe we have proved that the injury which caused the death of Virginia Rappe could have been caused by no one else than Roscoe Arbuckle.

"You have heard Roscoe Arbuckle's testimony on the stand, and you and I know it was false and well fabricated to meet the facts brought out by the people—facts he could not deny."

Mr. McNab demanded to know why the prosecution did not summon Bambino Maude Delmont, the complaining witness. Miss Zeh Prevon Prevost, defense witness, had been "terrorized," he said.

"It must be presumed," he said, "that she would not favor the prosecution. Instead of presenting her, they give you a weird, ridiculous, incantation of spooks.

"The state says the defendant is a monster who attacked and killed a woman. Yet Arbuckle is not a strong man. He tried to carry this young woman down a stretch of corridor. And he had to be helped. She weighed but 140 pounds.

"This is the most infamous and most absurd case ever presented by a district attorney to insult the intelligence of a jury or affront the dignity of a court."

ACCEPTANCE OF NEW RAIL SHOP RULES FORECAST

Union Head Hints Fight on Wage Cut.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A somewhat cryptic utterance by B. M. Jewell, head of the railway employes' department of the American Federation of Labor, last night was interpreted to mean that while the 450,000 workers in the shop crafts probably will accept the new working rules which went into effect yesterday, it will be with a notice to the carriers that wage deflation has trimmed the pay envelopes more than enough.

Mr. Jewell said a meeting of the executive committee would be held in Chicago to vote for acceptance or rejection of the new rules, and in a typed statement argued that the carriers, by the labor board's various decisions, have now trimmed a potential $750,000,000 a year off their labor bill under normal conditions.

"The decision of the labor board today," he said, "is believed to be the most far reaching yet rendered. The future of approximately 500,000 shop craft employés is wrapped up in this decision.

All Serious Objections Removed.

"It is believed that every serious objection which railroad management offered against the federated shop crafts national agreement has now been acceded to and removed by the labor board. To any one reasonably familiar with the technique of rules governing working conditions it is clear that if the remainder of the railroad employés are to be treated as the shop crafts were treated, then the earnings of all railroad employés will have been reduced considerably in excess of the $300,000,000 a year demand of railroad management by the labor board's action on rules governing working conditions.

"To this must be added the approximately $450,000,000 which the board's decision No. 147 took away from the employés in reduction of their wages, which was effective July 1.

"Added to this is also the further reduction in earnings which thousands of railway employés have suffered because of reductions in force for many months past."

Doubt $50,000,000 Saving.

Both the roads and the unions appear to express doubt as to whether the new shop craft rules will save the roads as much as $50,000,000 a year, the estimate of the labor board statisticians. But the decision undoubtedly makes for great saving by kicking out rules that were onerous and piled up the labor bill for the carriers without any compensating benefit.

Last year the roads argued they would save at least $300,000,000 a year if all the national working agreements were scrapped. The new rules trim off much of the dead timber so far as the shop crafts are concerned. If the saving is only $40,000,000 a year, it is pointed out that it is all in the direction of essential economy and efficiency in transportation service. The board's experts insist that $50,000,000 a year is not an overestimate.

The unions themselves made no bones last year about conceding that some of the rules were oppressive, the result of the war period stress, and the majority of changes effected by the new rules are in the classification of work to be performed by individual crafts.

Charge Millions Wasted.

Under the old lines "jurisdictional" lines were so finely drawn that the roads said millions of dollars' waste resulted. For example, take the case mentioned by the Baltimore and Ohio during the hearings last winter.

An engine was in the shop for stayboits. First the pipefitter and helper removed injector and other pipes. Then machinist and helper removed both injectors; then sheet iron worker and helper removed jacket; then carpenter removed lagging and running boards, after which the boilermakers removed and renewed the stayboits. In the old days the machinist and boilermakers did all this work.

Changed by New Rules.

Under the new rules the machinist working on running repairs may disconnect or connect any wiring, coupling or pipe connections necessary to make repairs, this work having previously been assigned to electricians and sheet metal workers. Under the new rules, too, engineers and firemen and cranemen are not prohibited from making repairs to equipment on the line if they are qualified to do it.

Such are a few typical changes. Of the new rules, ninety-nine are lifted from the national agreement almost word for word, while only thirty-seven have any marked changes. The new rules, which supplant the national agreement on shop crafts, are to be applied where the carriers and their employés have failed to agree on new rules. The labor board figures that about 60 per cent have already been agreed to between managements and men, some lines running as high as 80 per cent and some as low as 20 per cent.

Not Bothered About "Open Shop."

The "open shop" principle as recognized in rule 35, while regarded as of great importance, is not considered the real meat in the decision. The employés are not disturbed over it. As a matter of fact, the railroads have never been a closed shop. Employment has never hinged upon whether a man belongs to a union or not. McAdoo's order No. 8, in February, 1918, said no discrimination must be made because of membership or nonmembership in any labor union.

As the machinery evolved, however, grievances were dealt with through organizations on both sides. The union leaders handled grievances both of union and nonunion men. The unions growing in force, became the instruments through which the collective bargaining was done, but the men profiting by the bargaining could be [illegible]on or nonunion.

RADICAL ULSTER LEADERS FIGHT SINN FEIN PEACE

British Rush New Plan of Settlement.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The British members of the Irish peace conference are working at high pressure to complete the details of a new offer which Ulster has demanded by next Tuesday. The Sinn Fein is now in possession of the main outlines, but the plan itself probably will be handed to the delegates tomorrow.

Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins are crossing to Ireland tomorrow night. Robert Barton went tonight and the week-end will be spent in conferring with the leaders of Ireland in preparation for the fateful meeting of the British cabinet which probably will be summoned for Monday.

Ulster Extremists Fight Peace.

The principal features of the new plan are said to include dominion rule for Ireland with a two chamber parliament, Ulster having the right to reject any features it does not approve, and a possible plebiscite in Ulster. New boundaries for Ulster also are being discussed.

The Ulster extremists are doing all in their power to wreck the settlement. William Coote, a member of the imperial parliament and the leader of the opposition in the Ulster parliament, addressing Orangemen in West Belfast today, said that the Orangemen would insist that only Protestant workers be employed on the farms and in the shops and business places, and that they would insist that the employers of Ulster clear out every Catholic, adding that the "Catholics were all blackguards trying to make trouble."

Sinn Feiners "Burrow In."

He declared that the Sinn Feiners were coming over the border and burrowing into Ulster like rabbits, accepting work at any price to get in and then "giving the loyalists sauce." He said the Orangemen must improve their organization, building up a perfect espionage system.

"Do you know where O'Duffy (the Sinn Fein liaison officer) is tonight?" he asked. "Well you ought."

FAIL TO OBTAIN JUROR IN 2 DAYS OF CHURCH TRIAL

Fifty men have passed through the jury box in Judge John R. Caverly's courtroom since the trial of Harvey W Church for murder started Wednesday morning. When court adjourned yesterday not a man had been accepted for service. Today another special venire of 100 men will be called.

The defense prepared by Church's attorney is still a mystery. No revelation has been made in any question asked jurors as to what arguments will be produced. Each juror was asked if he would give due consideration to any defense that might be made.

Church is on trial for the murder of Bernard J. Daugherty and Carl Ausmus, automobile salesmen.

CIVIC BODY SAYS IT SAVED PUBLIC $32,500,000 TAX

Credit for saving the tax payers $32,500,000 in unnecessary assessments is claimed by the Civic Federation of Chicago in its biennial report made public at a meeting in the Hotel La Salle late yesterday.

The organization asserts its activities have been directly instrumental during the last year alone in reducing the tax bills of individual citizens payable in 1922 from $9.50 to $10.25 per $1,000, depending upon the locality of the properties.

"The aggregate saving in 1922 tax bills," says the report, "between what was proposed by the tax-spending bodies and what was finally granted in increases by the legislature, after the civic federation had aroused citizens to organized protest, throughout the taxing districts will average more than $32,500,000."

Henry G. Zander was elected president for two years.

TWO MEN SLAIN; ONE OVER DRUGS; ONE OVER MONEY

In a room at 1260 North State street, in a block in which live a number of the city's socially prominent families, the body of Samuel Rexford Storer, 45 years old, a drug clerk, was found by the owner of the home. It is believed he was strangled with a towel which was found near the body. Every drawer and possible hiding place in the room had been ransacked. A gash in the back of his head showed he had been attacked from the rear. His arms and feet were bound.

Three men are known to have called on Storer in his room at 11 o'clock Wednesday night. Police believe they wanted him to give them morphine or some other drug, and that when he refused they killed him and searched the place in hope of finding a hidden package.

Benjamin Dannenberg, 52 years old, 1604 South Trumbull avenue, owner of a shoe repair shop at 2605 South State street, was slashed across the throat in his shop by a shabbily dressed white man. Dannenberg stumbled after his assailant until he reached the sidewalk, then fell and died as Policeman M. A. Murphy of the Cottage Grove avenue station reached his side.

Humidity and Health

The leading health authorities of America emphasize the importance of having moisture in the air we breathe. In winter, when one spends many hours indoors, this is especially important. In homes and offices you may now have proper humidification by means of a simple, economical device which will do its share to promote comfort and health. A gallon of water evaporated in a room each day should keep it sufficiently moist, and that is exactly what this efficient contrivance does.

The Flobun may be used on any radiator that is not closed at both ends and that has a space between the coils of one-half inch or more.

The FLOBUN Humidifier

An Air Moistener That Is Efficient and Economical

There are many humidifiers (or air moisteners), but by actual test the Flobun Humidifier is the only one that keeps the air sufficiently moist to assure the maximum of health and comfort. The Flobun is automatic in action and requires only the refilling of its glass reservoir with water twice daily. The reservoir is transparent, enabling you to see at a glance when water is needed.

Saves Furniture

We find furniture of all kinds, from the largest piano to the smallest chair, shrinking, warping and cracking from the effects of dry, warm air. By properly moistening the air the Flobun preserves the furniture and prevents expenditures for repairs.

Easy to Install

The Flobun is easily installed. The evaporating pad fits in the opening at the end of the radiator, while the reservoir is easily accessible. The Flobun Humidifier is finished in brass and will not corrode. It may be painted to harmonize with your decorations.

The FLOBUN Humidifier

Complete and Ready to Serve You

A Fuel Saver

As an investment the Flobun Humidifier will pay for itself in a very short time by the saving of fuel. Experts declare that 25% of the cost of heating a room is expended in raising the temperature from 62 to 72 degrees. With a Flobun the temperature may be held at 62 degrees with the relative humidity at 50, and thus a saving in fuel cost is effected.

Henrici's for Sunday Dinner

In olden times the household arts were more esteemed than they are now—and for good reason.

Time was when every home was a factory in miniature, with diversified products—shoes, clothing and many other necessities were made in the home as a matter of course.

Home cooking still is held in sentimental regard—and it is a wholesome sentiment—but nevertheless the growing practice of taking Sunday dinner in a good restaurant has much to commend it..

Showed True Greatness.

One of the two outstanding figures in the history of this land, and one whose deeds are known to all men, is George Washington, "the father of his country," as he is called.

Early in life his force of mind and excellent character seemed to have made a deep impression on his associates, for when only 16 years of age he was given a responsible position as a surveyor.

In the French and Indian wars he manifested his courage, daring, and bravery in the various and dangerous tasks which he so ably accomplished.

At the time when our country was fighting for her very life Washington was prominent in aiding her. Whatever he did for the country was what in his judgment he thought best, and when war came the people placed their confidence in him and made him the military commander. Here in performing his duties he showed his true greatness. In all the poverty, the bitter and agonizing times and positions through which he had to pass he made apparent his remarkable courage, bravery, self-control, and, greatest of all, his faith in God.

Then, when he had led his army to victory, he was again chosen to help organize the new republic which, in a great part is, through his excellent character and ideals, what it is today.

Children Know Him Well.

George Washington, although born Feb. 22, 1732, is as well known to all American children as one of their own playmates, and because of his sterling qualities he emulated and made an example to follow. In fact, George Washington is to American idealism what the Bible is to the religious. He was known as the father of his country. He died in 1799.

Fought for the Right.

George Washington! How we are stirred by the name! Why? George Washington was the man who braved the trials and temptations of the early days and came out victorious. George Washington was the man of sterling character who, when in the right, fought for the right until he won. He was a man of a broad mind, weighing both sides of the question upon the scales of justice and then determining which pan was the heaviest.

If one would study the portrait of the "father of our country" what would he find? In the eyes there is a light that glows with love of liberty, justice, and freedom. About the mouth are the sterner lines which show the character of the inner man, lines of sacrifice for humanity and country.

When the colonists' rights were being infringed, he said, "I will raise 1,000 men, subsist them at my own expense, and march myself at their head for the relief of Boston." He was the great general because he was firm, resourceful, and unselfishly devoted to the cause of his countrymen. He could calmly bear great responsibilities and he had the courage to meet and overcome those who misrepresented him.

One of his greatest and most remarkable characteristics was his patience. Thus he is marked, because of his strong character, full of sincerity as the greatest of American ideals.

George Washington died 122 years ago, but his name and great deeds cannot die from the memory of American people. First in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen was George Washington, father of our country.

When he had won the war for liberty did he wish to become ruler or king over our country? No! He went home to his farm on the banks of the Potomac, little thinking of the deeds that he had done or what the people had planned on doing till they came to him and told him he was to become the President of the United States.

Many years have passed since that time and he is dead, but in every memory lies a picture of our first President and the greatest man the United States has ever known.

Had to Be a Thinker.

Who was George Washington? George Washington was the greatest and most lovable man in American history. He was a general, a statesman, and, most of all, a man who thought for himself. He was truly "First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen." He was the man who started this great republic on its way to prosperity.

George Washington, the first president of the United States, had to be a real thinker. Why? Because this was a new form of government, and he had no customs of that form of leadership to follow. Therefore he had to take steps carefully, for his form of leadership would be tested for many years to come.

George Washington understood his task and carried it to completion faithfully. Only by honesty, faithfulness, tireless working, and the love of your country can a task of this kind be completed. What a great asset it would be to this country if a man of this type could live and work in this age!

George Washington will be honored in all history as the "father of his country."

GRAND JURY WILL SIFT NEW ANGLES IN SMALL CASE

Blackmail and Jury Fixing Attempts Alleged.

Another sweeping investigation by the Sangamon county grand jury into Illinois' newest political sensation in connection with the Small case probably will be made in the near future, according to an announcement last night by State's Attorney C. F. Mortimer.

This inquiry promises to have two phases. First it will sift to the bottom reports of alleged attempts to corrupt the grand jury which voted the indictments against Gov. Small, Lieut. Gov. Sterling, and Vernon Curtis last July.

Blackmail Charges Made.

At the same time the grand jury will thoroughly investigate the charges of attempted blackmail made by C. H. Jenkins, director of public welfare in Small's cabinet, against William D. (Buck) Evans, a member of the July jury, as set forth in a sensational statement issued by the governor yesterday.

The governor's statement contained letters from Evans to Jenkins purporting to show that the juror offered to trade certain damaging evidence against the prosecution for a job under the Small administration. In the statement both Small and Jenkins charged that the reports of jury fixing were circulated as part of a plot to ruin the governor. Gov. Small also indulged in an attack upon certain newspapers which printed the jury fixing story and against Attorney General Brundage.

Brundage Issues Statement.

Just before leaving Springfield for Chicago Mr. Brundage issued the following statement:

"In answer to the statement given the press over the governor's signature I will say that I know nothing whatever about the grand jury matters referred to, except what I have read in the newspapers. I am not responsible for the publication, neither do I run a press bureau. The only propaganda I know of is that put out at the expense of the taxpayers of Illinois by the press bureau maintained in the caipitol building.

"This cry of 'outraged justice' is but a repetition of the thought that 'the king can do no wrong,' which defers consideration of the merits of the charges and questions the legal technicalities of the matter in which they are set forth."

Mortimer Tells Small of Charge.

Mr. Mortimer declared that he informed Gov. Small's counsel three weeks ago of the charges of attempted jury fixing which had reached him and that he told them no grand jury action would be taken in the matter until after the Small trial.

"I have nothing to say for publication," he said, "other than that on the night of Nov. 11, 1921, at the Congress hotel in Chicago, I had a conference with Mr. Le Forgee and Mr. Schroeder with relation to the cases pending in Waukegan and I then told these lawyers, in confidence, the story I had heard and which had been reported to me concerning some corruption of the grand jury.

"I told them that I would take no official action about it until after the Small trial was under way, because I did not want to be in the attitude of prejudicing his situation in any way. Up to this hour I have said nothing about the matter for publication."

State's Attorney Mortimer said he would have nothing further to say in the matter at this time, as he is bending all his energies toward the trial which starts in Waukegan on Monday. The prosecution let it be known semi-officially, however, that it feels Gov. Small's lawyers have not gone through with the "gentlemen's agreement" whereby the governor was required to furnish the state the real inside of the motions attacking the indictments. The state is prepared to insist that it be furnished with definite specifications on the general motions to be presented Monday morning.

BERLIN "PAPER" FORTUNES FLIT AS MARKS CLIMB

Rumors on Moratorium Cause Stock Panic.

BY GEORGE SELDES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—Reports are being spread in Berlin that a moratorium on the payment of German reparations has been assured as a result of action taken in London, where Dr. Walther Rathenau, former minister of reconstruction, has been carrying on conversations with British officials and financial leaders.

One report says a moratorium of two years has been secured and another that it will be for three years. Also, it is stated, the moratorium is to begin immediately after the January reparations payment is made.

Panicky conditions existed on the stock exchange today when marks went up to 180 for the dollar. Stocks fell until some were 600 per cent below their Monday value. As a result many fortunes were wiped out.

PLAN LOANS TO GERMANY

[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Dr. Walther Rathenau today continued his conferences with the British financiers and business men, discussing plans for the rehabilitation of Germany and the eventual payment of the reparations debt. Many British bankers do not look with favor on the moratorium idea, it is stated, but they are willing to help Germany by means of short loans in paying the January and February installments and then later to work out a comprehensive scheme for restoring German finance and trade.

All of this, however, is conditional on German home reorganization and the scrapping of the printing presses, which are turning out paper marks. It involves also the reorganization of Russia, in which it is hoped that France, Great Britain, and Germany and even the United States, will participate.

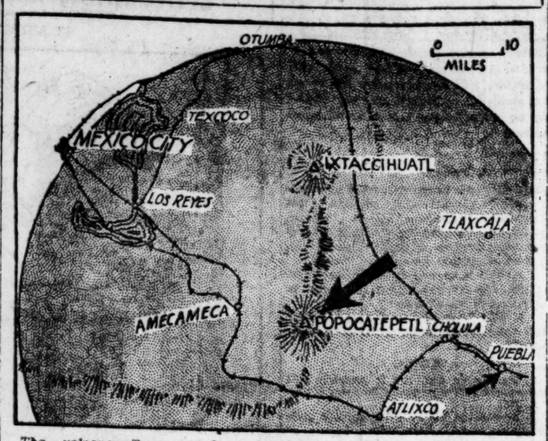

The bankers desire to have a definite plan ready which Prime Minister Lloyd George can discuss with President Harding when he goes to Washington. It will be necessary to obtain French consent and for this purpose every effort will be made to induce Premier Briand to consent to a meeting with Mr. Lloyd George early next week.

There was no formal cabinet meeting today, but there was a conference at 10 Downing street, attended by nearly all the members, at which the German situation was exhaustively discussed.

M. Krassin, the Russian trade envoy, has not yet been summoned to Downing street, but it is expected that he will go there tomorrow, after which it is said that the prime minister will receive Dr. Rathenau.

There has been a remarkable rise in the value of the mark on the London market. Yesterday the rate dropped from 1,050 to the pound to 930, and today it dropped to 710.

OLD POPO ROCKS, HURLS ASH AFAR; MEXICANS FLEE

BY J. H. CORNYN.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

Mexico City, Dec. 1.—Popocatepetl, the giant snow-crowned mountain overlooking the valleys of Mexico and Puebla, which has been throwing out smoke and ashes for the last two years, is again giving signs of unusual activity. The internal rumblings of the volcano are heard and felt far down into the numerous fertile valleys at the foothills; and ashes from the crater are being thrown or carried by the wind far beyond the usual range of such explosions.

People Flee to City.

Generally the inhabitants of the foothills of Popocatepetl take philosophically the sudden fits of Old Popo; but in the present unwonted activity they have fled from the mountain sides and the foothills; and hundreds of them have crowded into the city of Puebla.

The government seismical station at Tlamacas, close to the snow-line, lately covered more than once with several inches of ashes from the volcano, is to be moved to a cave.

Government reports from Tlamacas indicate the volcano seems trying to throw off a vast internal accumulation, which makes it, at times, vibrate and tremble as though moved by an earthquake. This is felt on all sides at a distance of from thirty to forty miles from the crater.

Emerald Lake Vanished.

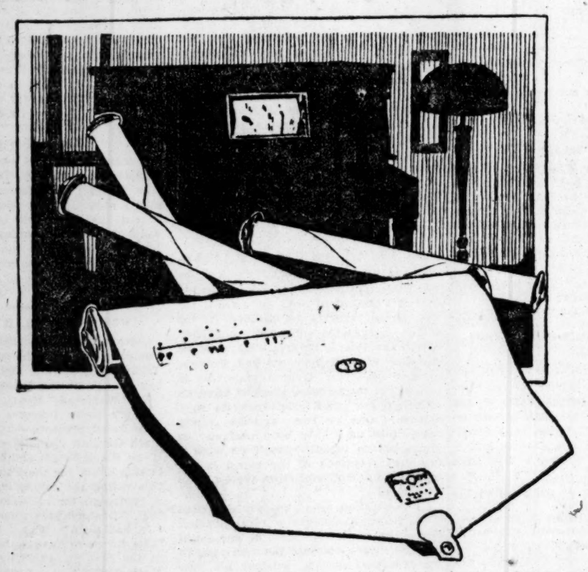

Employés of the seismical station at Tlamacas, who make frequent trips to the mouth of the crater, report that the Emerald lake, which was one of the notable features of the crater, has disappeared, and that in its place is a cone-like elevation, through an opening in the top of which rush explosive gases, ashes and cinders.

This cone seems to be unstable; and it is feared it may blow off at any moment and leave exposed the great throat of the crater which is more than two miles in circumference. This might be followed by disastrous activity such as took place several times in prehistoric ages, as the strata of the adjacent valleys show.

MR. WELLS PROPOSES.

Observation of the pacifist temperament long ago convinced us that the most bellicose of mortals are our pacifists. We are made conscious again of this in reading Mr. Wells' article on "Tact at the Conference." Mr. Wells is for calling a spade a spade, regardless of one another's susceptibilities, and he seems to fear that polite reticence will defeat the objects of the conference.

Now, this seems to us a theory most characteristic of pacifists who on the average, we believe, would lose their tempers considerably sooner than a top sergeant or cavalry major of the old school. If we get Mr. Wells, his notion is that if every one at the conference is as unpleasant and provocative as possible, a friendly agreement will grow like a thornless white rose from a briar bush. Certainly Mr. Wells and his countryman, Lord Curzon, seem to have the courage of this opinion, but somehow, as in the case of other theories of the pacifists, we cannot think that the interests of international peace and accommodation are going to be furthered by the rioting in Italy, which was the result of the mere untrue report of a tactless remark by Mr. Briand. We cannot hope that Mr. Wells is helpful in harping on the French use of Senegalese troops, while overlooking the fact that his own government uses to sustain its empire armies of native troops of various hues.

In short, if the tactful Mr. Balfour had not kept his temper after Mr. Briand's speech any more successfully than Mr. Wells did, the conference would have immediately taken on the appearance of a pacifist convention and gone up in the flames of angry recrimination.

But Mr. Wells' appeal for release from the bonds of amenity is entirely unnecessary in the case of his discussion of how far America ought to go in adherence to such "schemes for the permanent adjustment of the world's affairs" as may be arrived at by this or succeeding conferences. We are becoming inured to the point of view of European internationalists who, like Mr. Wells, seem always somewhat more anxious that America should rise to a suncrowned eminence of self-abnegation than concerned with the contributions likely to be made by their own governments to the sacrificial foundations of world peace. When Americans look back upon their history and compare it with that of Europe, when they survey America and then the European scene, when they look over the proceedings of the present conference and note the respective contributions of the various nations, we must confess that the anxieties of Mr. Wells and others as to America's inclination to sacrifice and compromise appear rather strange. When Mr. Wells' government and the governments of other powers begin to tender their sacrifices instead of haggling to enlarge America's, Mr. Wells will be justified in beginning to worry about us.

Mr. Wells' starting place for any "scheme of permanent adjustment of the world's affairs" seems to be the British status quo, granting the British empire any navy essential to the defense of her communications, but rebuking France for her fears of German aggression by land and of possible aggressions of any power by sea.

However, let us pass by the sturdy and commendable nationalism which always breaks through Mr. Wells' theoretic internationalism whenever the vitals of Britain are exposed, and let us consider what he wants of us.

Mr. Wells wants a treaty, signed, sealed, and delivered, which shall put America "unequivocally side by side with Great Britain and France in framing and sustaining a definite system of guaranties and prohibitions in eastern Asia."

Now, Mr. Wells has a sense of humor, though it is intermittent, and this proposal is not an indulgence in irony, though a prayer to America to stand "unequivocally side by side" with the possessors of Hongkong and Tonkin seem to us the height of unconscious humor.

But waiving all that, the net of Mr. Wells' proposal seems to be that America shall engage to support pacifist China against militant Japan and, probably, internationalist Russia against nationalist France or other aggressors. We are to assume assistance in this noble endeavor from powers whose inclinations in that direction we somehow don't yet discover. But suppose it is available, is a "permanent adjustment of the world's affairs" to be hoped for from such a scheme?

Our study of the outline of history does not encourage us to expect success. And why should it succeed? Russia is in an abyss of famine, economic demoralization through the blunders of fanatic internationalists. America is invited to contrive some means by which it can be saved in spite of itself. Nationalism, as represented by us and Great Britain and France—with whom we are quaintly urged to stand unequivocally side by side, as if they were the sole champions of self-abnegation in world affairs—must come to the aid of the bolshevik régime, its most deadly enemy. Pacifist China, which under the most persistent provocation has refused to make the sacrifices necessary to self-defense, is to be saved from Japan by us, who must make such sacrifies as are necessary to save her.

In short, the two greatest empires in the world, internationalist Russia of untold resources and 150,000,000 people, and pacifist China of perhaps even greater resources and twice that population, are to be bolstered up in spite of themselves by a self-sacrificing alliance of America, Great Britain, and France, especially America.

Well, we don't think life is like that or ever will be. The trouble with Mr. Wells, when he gets away on the wings of theory from the actual conditions of British security and vital interest, is that he hasn't learned to respect the homely warning that the Lord helps them that help themselves. Very ingratiating and often acute are Mr. Wells' comments on the waste and folly of passionate competitive nationality and upon the comfort and good sense of moderation and coöperation.

But Mr. Wells' proposals for the management of human affairs ignore the actualities of human nature in men and nations, especially that force of self-affirmation and self-preservation which he himself so naïvely reveals on occasion. Touch a vital English interest and Mr. Wells reacts very like Horatio Bottomley. It is when he is arranging hypothetical schemes for the "permanent adjustment of the world's affairs" that he takes leave of experience and the solid realities it presents.

THE STRANGE CASE OF MR. HEARST.

William Randolph Hearst has made his newspapers adopt a policy of simultaneous opposition and enmity to both Great Britain and Japan. If he had sufficient influence and if his policy got results he would drive Japan and Great Britain together and force them to fight the United States.

The world today has three first class powers, the United States, Great Britain, and Japan. Just before the period of Roman emperors the Roman world had three rulers, Crassus, Pompey, and Cæsar. Cæsar and Pompey united to eliminate Crassus and then Cæsar eliminated Pompey.

Mr. Hearst would have Japan and Great Britain unite to eliminate the United States. Mr. Hearst calls this Simon-pure Americanism, unsullied by the decadence of Europe or the almond eyed trickery of Asia.

Mr. Hearst wants the United States to stand alone and to make its stand hostile. He wants to outbuild the British navy. He wants to break the Panama treaty and give American shipping a subsidy. He wants to break faith with the British. He abuses them furiously and scurrilously. He wants to threaten Japan. He wants the United States to be truculent, unscrupulous, and alone.

He would break up the Washington conference and send the British and Japanese home to unite their navies and attend to the case of the United States before it had a chance to get its great reserve power, the greatest in the world, into the form of defense. His idea of Simon-pure Americanism is to force a war and to make as sure as possible that it is a lost one before it is begun.

He would not give us a chance to escape this. He would not give the British and the Japanese an out. He would make them unite against the United States. He would have the Japanese on our neck in the Philippines and Hawaii and the British in the Atlantic and the Caribbean and the Panama canal, and we'd be in the greatest luck if we could keep them off our coasts and out of our big cities.

How does an American get that way? The case is referred to a psychiatrist. It needs Freudian treatment. If Mr. Hearst would tell Dr. Jung his dreams the psychiatrist might find his complex.

Hearst is of English stock. His Anglophobia cannot be explained by Irish blood still running in protest against English cruelties in Ireland. That is not his complex. There is not the ghost of an Irish martyr in his visions. We do not know what his complex is, but we might make a guess at it.

Mr. Hearst's father was a United States senator and the little boy Hearst at times was in Washington taking an interest in the touches and splashes of the old world there to be seen. Possibly the little boy Hearst in his Fauntleroys rolling his hoop one day in Lafayette square encountered an Englishman, some such an Englishman as the Earl of Pawtucket, who spoke to him.

The child, looking up, may have seen a walrus with one great glass eye. The Englishman, speaking to him, would not have been understood. No American child, especially a westerner, could understand the Earl of Pawtucket. The ogres of the fairy stories would pop into the mind of the little boy. He would stand for an instant petrified in fear. Pawtucket would speak again, possibly asking how the little man was or where Senator Hearst lived. In the deep haw of his voice little Master Hearst would hear "fee, fo, fie, fum."

Pawtucket then may have taken his glass out of his eye. The boy gained an ecstasy of physical strength which overcame his mortal terror, and, abandoning his hoop, he fled. He fled with a fixed terror in his mind. It was so terrible he would not even tell the nurse. It grew into his soul. It entered his dreams. Even now it overpowers him at times. He shuts himself in his room and bolts the door and presses his hands over his eyes to shut out the vision of this man-eating walrus who took a glass eye out of the middle of his forehead and said "haw haw." Then he writes articles for his papers and signs them "Americus."

This may be the Hearst complex and in it some less vivid experience on the Pacific coast might be found, some twilight terror of a Japanese grape picker with a hooked knife. We are not endeavoring to take the place of Dr. Jung and Mr. Hearst has not revealed his dreams to us, merely his writings. They manifestly require examination by a psychiatrist.

Therefore Mr. Hearst wants war, war between the United States and Great Britain and Japan combined. He would not be content to join the British to fight the Japanese first even if then he were permitted to fight the British. He wants to take them on both at once and dispel if he can in one purge the glass eyed walrus and the squinting demon with the hooked knife.

Mr. Hearst himself is a little too old to fight personally in this war and his sons are a little too young for the time being. But if Mr. Hearst perseveres and if he can gain many Americans to his way of thinking the time may come when one of his fine sons up a few thousand feet in the air with a Japanese plane on one side of him and a British plane on the other, or on top, will not thank papa.

CHEESE TO SWEDEN.

[Waterloo, Ia., Evening Courier.]

Sweden likes American cheese. Proof of that is contained in statistics compiled by Swedish and American government agencies as well as private investigators. Out of 3,575,885 pounds of cheese imported by Sweden in 1919, 2,039,341 pounds of it came from the United States. Last year's shipments from our shores were even greater than that.

The Scandinavian taste for American made cheese leads the way to a discussion of possible relief for two of this country's sorest sore spots. One of them is the poor market for American agricultural products and the other is the inadequacy of the transport system that will let American agricultural products from its great agricultural center, the middle west, get to ports and thence to those alien peoples whose taste for American grown products is whetted and not satisfied.

Sweden likes our cheese and is getting it—after a fashion. Isn't it reasonable to expect that Sweden would also like Iowa beefsteak, Illinois pork chops, Wisconsin condensed milk, Minnesota butter, Indiana eggs, and a host of other middle western products if it had a ghost of a chance? The time is ripe for filling the Swedish and every other foreign pantry via the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence river ocean outlet; the time is overripe for building that outlet, and the middle western farmer's pocketbook is on the verge of collapse unless that outlet is made a reality and that soon.

DYSPEPTIC.

(After Dad had spent an evening entertaining prospective customers.)

Same old morning, same old night,
Same old victuals, same old plight,
Same old Christmas (likewise June),
Ditto for the sun and the old blue moon,
Same old bromides from the friends you know,
Whether at the opera or the movie show,
Same old pills when you take to your bed,
Same old platitudes when you are dead,
Same silly relatives secretly in doubt
On whether they are in your will
Or whether they are out,
Same old lawyers—sardonic brutes but deft—
Egging on the fight for the shekels you have left—
And while we rant at the silly old race,
The world teeters on in the same old space.

At Trinity church, Wednesday morning (St. Andrew's day) at 7, Holy Communion will be administered.

No trace of the missing bootleggers was discovered, up to mid-afternoon, today.

IF you, too, have passed sleepless nights with the problem of how to rid yourself of Canadian dimes, quarters, and halves, and plugged coins of U. S. mintage, consider it solved. Try the top of any motor bus at night. The conductor can't see, and by riding long enough you can palm off any amount.

Wars may cease and armies scatter,
Tanks and battleships won't matter.
The dove of peace may flutter and the world may cease to maim.
They may scrap the tools of battle,
Give each warrior a rattle,
But our relatives keep knocking, ever knocking, just the same.
They may junk our naval stations,
Even join a league of nations.
They may burn the tails of gen'rals with their oratoric flame.
All the world may love its neighbor
As they hock the trusty saber,
But the relatives will hammer, ever hammer just the same.
Tho' they greet us with effusion,
It's a far, far fetched delusion
That we fall for all they hand us in the rather Chesire game.
One may just as well forget 'em,
If they want to hammer, let 'em,
For what the hell's the difference—
we will get it just the same.

"TRIBUNE Prints 700,000 Copies of This Paper." The Iliad of modern journalism is yet to be written. In eighteen years of newspapering we have witnessed many sights, but none has thrilled us quite so much as has this circulation race. Or should we say, runaway? It seems to have ceased to be a race. We shall not be surprised any day to see up in that page one ear, "More Than A Million."

COUGH SEASON IS HERE.

THE great public health problem of the present day is the pneumonia problem. In spite of our gain in almost all other fields, we are losing ground when it comes to pneumonia.

Likewise, the great personal health problem is the prevention of colds, coryzas, sore throat, coughs, and pneumonias. This group of diseases causes more sickness than does any other. It keeps more men away from work and causes more aches while at work, and, finally, brings about more deaths.

The man who wants to keep fit and goes to some trouble to carry out a personal health program is at sea when it comes to the prevention of colds.

And now we are entering on the season of coryzas and coughs. Men, women, and children will suffer more and more from these disorders, and finally we will pull up with an old-fashioned death orgy from pneumonia about next February.

We are getting wonderfully wise about everything else, but when it comes to dodging colds we are a pack of babes in the woods.

George T. Palmer made a study of the progress of the "cold" waves among school children in New York City. The mild colds were at their highest rate of prevalence during the week of Nov. 24. They then receded in prevalence slightly until the week of Jan. 5, after which they rose slowly until the week of Jan. 19. The rise was not as rapid nor was it as high as was the curve of rise for November, as it appeared on the chart.

The chart for colds severe enough to keep the children from school showed a different curve. It rose during November and reached its maximum in the week of Dec. 15. Then followed a slight drop until the week of Jan. 10. After that there was a slow, gradual rise.

The deaths from pneumonia followed a somewhat different curve.

There were slightly more than 500 in October, slightly more than 600 in November, slightly less than 1,000 in December, and more than 2,000 in January. Mild colds were at their worst about Thanksgiving, severe colds just before Christmas, whereas fatal pneumonias mounted steadily and reached the top well after New Year's.

The wave starts in the early winter with mild colds, continues in December with severe colds, and ends after New Year's with fatal pneumonias, a regular sequence of happenings, all related—in fact, close kin.

Of the sickness found in winter time among children in the schoolroom, 62 per cent was coryza, 20 per cent was bronchitis, and 10 per cent was laryngitis. All other sickness together made up 8 per cent.

PRESSURE BELOW NORMAL.

E. M. S. writes: "1. Will you please tell me what is normal blood pressure?

"2. Is 110 normal for a woman of 39 years?

"3. What are the symptoms of goiter?

"4. Will goiter cause palpitation, irregularity and intermittency of heart action? When the rapidity of pulse is not increased but about normal, irregularity and intermittency has been almost constant for two months. Before that, it was off and on for several months.

"5. Will a change of climate, for instance, Los Angeles, affect the goiter in any way or its activity?

"6. Will there be any danger in crossing the mountains—to go over the divide?"

REPLY.

1. Depends on age; 128 is generally held to be normal for a person of 39 years of age.
2. No.
3. Depends on the kind. Question 4 gives symptoms found in some kinds.
4. It may, though rapidity of pulse is far more typical. An examination would settle the cause of the symptoms in this case.
5. Probably not.
6. No.

HE IS OVERFED.

G. G. writes: "I am a young mother, also live out in the country and would like to know a few things about my 8-months-old boy. He weighed 8½ pounds when born and weighs 17½ now; has six teeth.

"1. At 6:30 a. m. I give him a bottle of half oatmeal gruel and half goat's milk. Is this all right?

"2. And at other feedings, I give him a bottle of goat's milk, pure. Should I dilute this? I feed him every four hours.

"3. Can I give him graham crackers and meat broth?

"4. He wakes up at night for a feeding. Is this right?

"5. Also, his bowels move five times a day. Is this right? Does lime water check this, or what does? He does not sleep much.

"6. Also, what makes his urine smell like ammonia?"

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. Yes.
3. Yes, as to the crackers, but leave out the meat broth until the diarrhœa and ammonia urine symptoms disappear.
4. No.
5. No.
6. You are overfeeding, probably feeding too much fat. Until you correct the diarrhœa and ammonia urine, give five feedings of milk a day—at two of these add cooked cereal. The milk should be thirteen parts boiled milk and seven parts boiled water. Soon thereafter, give fruit juices. Before long, give four feedings of milk a day—two with cooked cereal, and one feeding of mashed vegetables, toast and meat soup—five feedings a day, not counting the fruit juice.

IS IT RINGWORM?

A. E. D. writes: "Please give a remedy for ringworms appearing in a mild form all over the body. They seem very persistent and hard to cure."

REPLY.

First, be certain the trouble is ringworm. In most locations, painting with alcoholic iodine cures. In others, Whitfield's paste does. In others, it is advisable to use X-ray. Therefore, second, take the location into consideration, and finally, use the germ killer properly.

EXEMPTIONS ARE $400.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—My wife and I have been occupying an apartment here for more than four years. There was no written lease. We now find ourselves unable to pay each month promptly and today the landlord notifies us we must move in a week. Can the landlord hold personal belongings consisting mostly of wearing apparel, and not much of that? A. M

Your exemptions are $400. If your property is worth less than that the landlord is not entitled to hold it.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CAN'T HOLD MINOR.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A minor agrees to fill a contract and later decides not to do so. 1. Can he or his parents be held legally responsible? 2. If he should be brought into court proceedings, but establishes his status as a minor, would he be held liable for court costs? J. B.

1. Not on the contract. He may be required to return what he has received, if he still has it, or to pay for the goods if "necessaries."
2. Not if he establishes a full defense.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DON'T LET HIM "SPOOF" YOU.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Two years ago I bought out a grocery store. The lease has never been transferred and the landlord accepted me as a tenant. Now he wants to raise my rent and the lease does not expire until September, 1922. Does the lease renew itself by the landlord accepting the first month's rent on the new year? B. H.

In absence of rebutting circumstances the lease would renew from year to year, so that neither party could terminate it or alter its terms except by serving notice sixty days before the end of the year. The rental named in the lease stands if notice was not given before lease expired.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

AS TO DEED.

De Kalb, Ill., Nov. 27.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—If a deed conveys a piece of property to John Jones and Mary Jones would it be in "joint tenancy" or "tenancy in common"? If the former, would the survivor of the other take all or would the children inherit a share? R. B.

It would be "common" unless it contained express wording making it "joint." If common, the share of the deceased descends to his heirs. If joint, it goes to the survivor. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PLACE HAS BEEN FILLED.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—[Friend of the People.]—There is a pool of water in the alley between 78th and 79th streets on Union avenue, east. It has been standing there for about two months and is near my bedroom window. Isn't this dangerous? E. F.

The place in the alley complained of has been filled with cinders.

THOMAS H. BYRNE,
Superintendent of Streets.

Melrose Park, Ill., Nov. 27.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—About five years ago several people began to drive through a lot I own. I now wish to close up this "road," but they claim that as they have used it for so long the drive is public property. What is the law regarding this? Can I prevent them from driving through without my permission? B. H. K.

The adverse use must continue twenty years in order to give them a permanent easement. Yes, you have the right to prevent them.

TAKING MR. WELLS TO TASK.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—Mr. H. G. Wells reveals his deficiencies as a historian and as a prophet at the same time when he predicts the collapse of civilization from fiat money. He has forgotten about the assignats, continentals, greenbacks, and confederate notes—none of which dispatched civilization. Debt repudiation has never proved fatal either, and when Europe repudiates the harm will be slight, the relief immense.

If civilization is in danger today, the peril is not from paper money nor from the war. It is rather from the socialist cult or psychosis which Mr. Wells has done his bit to inculcate. Religious fanaticisms have destroyed civilizations and socialism is only a recurrent phase of the slave cult that has attacked every civilization and proved attractive to decadent minds who revolt from the competitive nature of life, because they realize that they are unfit.

Is it not a fact that the bulk of Europe's and the world's ills today are the result not so much of the war as of the orgy of state socialism that accompanied the war? The war would have cost billions less and would have ended far sooner had it not been for the weakling acts and weasel words of politicians who bribed men to work or bribed capitalists to function, when they should have conscripted everything needed as well as soldiers.

If we had had a military peace dictated by Foch to Hindenburg, as Grant dictated one to Lee, we would have had settlement. Europe would have gone to work, under military taskmasters, it is true, but she would have gone to work.

Mr. Wells has been busy discovering deadly perils in capitalist civilization ever since he pictured an invasion from Mars. The only civilization that collapsed was the one where Mr. Wells' comrades got control in Russia. Instead of telling the world how it ought to conduct its affairs, Wells really ought to tell the world why his own outfit failed to deliver the goods.

SAYS MR. WELLS HAS BAD LIVER.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 29.—All the articles written by Mr. Wells that have appeared in THE TRIBUNE so far I have read. In one of his articles he alluded to his rather precarious physical condition within the last few years. He must be suffering from a very marked disturbance of his liver. Only a man who is possibly in the advance stage of sclerosis of this organ could possibly write such articles. One or two articles along these lines may have been perfectly in place, but to repeat himself on such a pessimistic outlook of the world is out of place and can only come from a man who is ill.

My suggestion would be, the next time THE TRIBUNE engages a correspondent during an important crisis of our country, to at least look into the man's physical condition—that is, whether his liver is functioning physiologically.

C. H. B.

ON CANCELLATION OF WAR DEBTS.

Momence, Ill., Nov. 29.—After reading the last two or three papers by Wells, much as one may admire his ability, it strikes one very forcibly that in spite of himself he writes as an Englishman for England. Always is there a recurrence to the matter of the cancellation of the loan we made to our "co-belligerents"; we saved England from military disaster and defeat, and saved her economically and financially as well. Now she asks us, through her propagandists, in and out of our country, to cancel or "forgive" the debt incurred. If we had not helped her, where would the British empire be now?

E. F. G.

AMERICA FIRST.

Waterloo, Ia., Nov. 18.—You probably get baskets full of this sort of letter, but in these days of moral hysteria I could not help exclaiming after reading today's and yesterday's editorials in your paper relating to the conference, "Good old Chicago Tribune!" Most of the editorial comment of the country seems to many of us childish mush. Fickle, simple minded American public opinion needs the sort of counsel you give. American opinion stands ready to surrender the opportunity to be the dominant power. If properly flattered it would be just as ready to shoulder the entire war debt of England. All that would be needed would be a few more writers of the H. G. Wells variety to shout to us that we are a "very moral people." How we do like to be fawned upon? How we do like to be flattered by England. How is it that England has recently come to love us so much? Do you think there is any relation between this growing affection and our increasing strength? Yet it is just possible that America's naval supremacy might do more for the peace of the world than any attempt to make the powers evenly matched.

We hope that you will have the courage to write in such fashion that the real friends of America at Washington will have a chance—the real thinkers whose minds are not befuddled by the desire to wear a halo. If we are to have a limitation agreement let it be only after mature study by those in a mood to face the facts of this crafty old world.

EX-SERVICE MAN.

CAR MEN'S PAY.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—I was interested in reading an article in THE TRIBUNE of Nov. 30, 1921, in reference to street car men's pay. If the fare is reduced to 5 cents again we will receive about 28 cents an hour, and work six hours a day. If Mr. John Davis can exist on that rate of pay he can have my cap and uniform and go to work.

I. MINWORM.

"TO 'KAMERAD' RYAN."

Chicago, Nov. 29.—Referring to County Commissioner Ryan's letter in today's TRIBUNE, about the German cannon, I beg to submit the following:

To "Kamerad" Ryan.

Is the forest preserve the sixth German forest preserve—like Chicago is the sixth German city? If so, why not call it the Black Forest and be done with it? Is this a bid for the Potsdam vote? Is this ruling the connecting link between a campaign for reelection and the city hall Wilhelmstrasse support?

In bad taste! Was it not also in bad taste for us to have captured the cannon in the first place? Why not carry the "sob stuff" a step further and ship the cannon back to Essen—of course sending the freight bill for same to the "Kamerad" Kounty Kommissioners for payment? If it is wrong to display the cannon, it is equally wrong to retain them. Bearing the name he does, Mr. Ryan must also be in favor of doing away with the celebration of the Fourth of July and Jan. 8 (Battle of New Orleans), etc. Help! Murder! Police!

Why not either "scrap" the captured trophies of all previous wars, in G. A. R. Memorial hall, Chicago Historical society rooms, Independence hall, Faneuil hall, war museums, etc., throughout the country, OR do not do the "goose-step" as the last war?

CONTEST OF WILL OF MRS. KIMBALL DENIED BY COURT

Charges that undue influence was used when more than $2,000,000 of the $3,000,000 estate of Mrs. Eveline Kimball was left under her will to Mrs. Eva K. Salisbury, 1100 Lake Shore drive, were made by Attorney Maclay Hoyne, representing the heirs who contested the will before Judge Thomas Windes yesterday.

MRS. EVA K. SALISBURY.

Mr. Hoyne also demanded that Mrs. Salisbury be produced for cross-examination, but her counsel, Orville J. Taylor, objected, and was sustained by the court. Judge Windes then affirmed the order of the Probate court in admitting the will to probate.

Mrs. Salisbury is the niece of W. W. Kimball, organ and piano manufacturer, who left the fortune to his wife. Besides the bequests to Mrs. Salisbury and her famous $750,000 art collection to the Art institute, a $200,000 trust fund was created by Mrs. Kimball for her brother, Irving S. Cone of Los Angeles, and minor bequests made to heirs and to charity.

The contestants of the will are Mrs. Kimball's brother, his son, George Cone; two nieces, Geneva and Marguerite Barnes, all of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Josephine Noble of 4802 Dorchester avenue, also a niece.

Mr. Hoyne filed a motion for an appeal to the Supreme court, which was granted.

JOHN T. CLOOS, 30 YEARS ON CHICAGO POLICE FORCE, DIES

Patrolman John T. Cloos, a member of the Chicago police department for thirty years and for all of that time detailed at one station, East Chicago avenue, died yesterday at his home, 4125 North Ashland avenue. He had not been well for three months and two weeks ago suffered a stroke of paralysis.

Patrolman Cloos was loved and respected by every officer and policeman who ever was detailed to the station. For a number of years he had been assigned to ambulance duty and many stories of his kindness to unfortunates in his district are told by his fellows.

He is survived by a widow, Mary, and four sons, Gregory, who is studying for the priesthood in Rome; Norman, Vincent, and Raymond, all of Chicago. Funeral services will be held from the family residence at 10 o'clock Saturday morning to Our Lady of Lourdes church.

Francis Wilson Improving in St. Louis Hospital

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 1.—The condition of Francis Wilson, the actor, who is at St. John's hospital here, has shown continued improvement, it was announced today. An operation may be necessary, it was added. Mr. Wilson was taken to the hospital Nov. 23, while playing here in "Erminie."

'DOUBLE CROSS' ON LANDIS AWARD, KEARNEY CHARGE

Certain members of the citizens' committee for the enforcement of the Landis award were charged last night by Thomas S. Kearney, president of the Chicago Building Trades council, with attempting to undermine the award while pretending to support it.

THOMAS S. KEARNEY.

"Many members of the committee are themselves violators of the Landis award," Mr. Kearney declared. "While proclaiming that their purpose and that of their associates is to support the unions and the associations which have accepted the wage award, they, through their own firms, have violated it from the beginning. As a matter of fact, their firms are notorious for refusal to recognize labor organizations.

"The building craftsmen who are employed by these men do not and never have received the pay provided for in the Landis award. In respect to other trades employed by these firms their establishments are nonunion from cellar to garret and have been for years.

"These facts are well known to our men and as a result great numbers of them have come to the conclusion that the citizens' committee has been organized for the sole purpose of mis a 'smoke screen' from behind which leading the public and inaugurating a general attack upon the rights of organized working people is to be directed.

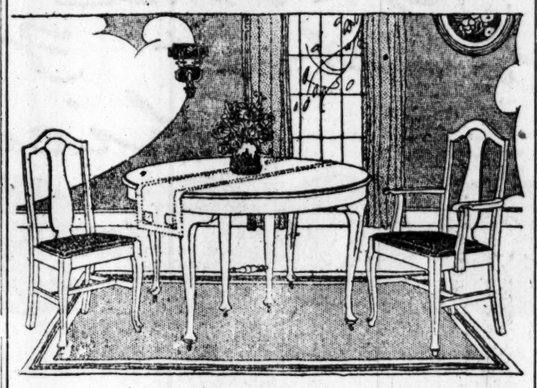

"Judge Landis certainly never intended his award to be used for such purposes. There is a riot of suspicion, too, that the citizens' committee's propaganda is shrewdly calculated to influence the decision of Judge Landis in the cases in which he has granted rehearings. However, I feel confident the judge would not permit himself to be influenced in that way.

"There is a constantly growing feeling of irritation which is reaching even members of organizations which have supported the award from the start and the situation now is more acute than ever.

"The citizens' committee is responsible for these increased difficulties."

SHOWER OF GOLD

See Sunday's Tribune for winning Numbers in Greatest Free Cash Distribution in Chicago History

$200,000.00—Shoot it ALL!

Tribune Circulation Has Hit the Roof

A month ago The Tribune had a survey made of its mechanical facilities. They were certified to be ample to handle any growth that could be anticipated for years.

One week ago today The Tribune offered to distribute $200,000.00 in cash FREE by lot (since the authorities and public approved of that ancient but questionable circulation-building scheme as operated by our morning contemporary). We frankly imitated them, but improved on their technique by offering real money in large chunks—publicly conducted drawings—and announcements alphabetically and numerically arranged. And—being sincere believers in advertising—we ADVERTISED our offer.

Within the past seven days our circulation has increased more than 200,000. Yesterday we had 550,647 circulation in Chicago and suburbs alone. This is vastly more than any other paper ever had.

Every press was taxed to its utmost capacity and they printed more papers than were ever turned out in one day for any morning daily newspaper in America—but it wasn't enough. We couldn't supply the demand.

We are not going to cut down our prizes just because Tribune circulation has hit the roof. On the contrary, ever larger slices will be cut from the $200,000 melon every day.

Tomorrow's drawing, to be announced Sunday, will be the most stupendous FREE distribution of cash ever known in Chicago.

MEDILLIANS TOLD OF NEW TYPE OF NEWSPAPER BOSS

He's Promotion Man, an "Editor with Sense."

In this day of competitive journalism people buy the kind of newspaper they want—the kind of news they want and the kind of editorial expression in which they have confidence and which measurably conforms to their own habit of mind. The editor, quickly perceiving the trend, builds his newspaper accordingly.

The people are his co-editors.

Thus the day of individual journalism definitely passed when the day of vast circulations dawned.

LEONARD R. BROOKS,
(To the Joseph Medill School of Journalism.)

BY EYE WITNESS.

Glad tidings for the young were released at Medill School of Journalism of Northwestern university last evening!

In the bustling, crowded, intensely competitive realm of American business there remains a calling not crowded, well paid, and very interesting.

This new calling is that of a kind of basement to attic—and back again—newspaper man. Leonard R. Brooks, "promotion manager" of the Chicago Evening American, is one.

He was the lecturer of the evening, defined the new type, boosted for it, and said he was sorry the new Medill school had selected the old name, "school of journalism," for itself. He would prefer "school of newspaper" because in such a school there would be a place for the training of the new type.

Just Growing Now.

At present the type just grows. Mr. Brooks says that this process is slow and expensive, especially as "some American newspapers are today in desperate straits for a competent specimen of the type."

A curious comprehensive type!

Not a printer, but must be able to talk convincingly to printers—the most difficult people in the world to talk convincingly to unless you know what you are talking about. Not a reporter, but should have a reporter's relishing sense of news. Not a writer, but should have been one. Not an editorial thunderer, but should know the trends and currents of things.

"Old Time Editor Plus Sense."

He is the pulse man—finger on the public's reaction to everything from armament conference to the latest out in motion pictures. In short, the old-fashioned publisher plus a wider culture and the old-fashioned editor plus much practical sense. They call him "business executive" and "editorial manager," and this, that and the other. His job is so new that it still lacks a specific title.

Often a small town publisher comes to the big city and, because of the all-'round newspaper contacts he has had, makes a capital business executive.

Measure of Influence.

All this about the new type in the changing world of newspaperdom led Mr. Brooks to weave in many a fact probably unknown to most newspaper men, they being too close to the proposition to sense the changes.

He said that by its circulation was a newspaper's influence measured now. It was not so in the days when the most influential editor America ever produced was writing for Alexander Hamilton's Federalist, which had a circulation of only 1,500, though it was considered immense. And Greeley's Tribune, 15,000; Dana's Sun, 15,000; Medill's TRIBUNE, 50,000, during his life. But in those days it was—all over the country—"Greeley says." Now, Mr. Brooks told us, a newspaper's influence is pretty much confined to the zone of its circulation. Hence the cry is, "Get circulation." And all, the lecturer said, that saves the situation from vulgar commerce is the fact, which stays true from generation to generation, that you can't get circulation without journalistic excellence.

WABASH BETWEEN ADAMS AND JACKSON

NATION SEEKING CHARLES MORSE, ON WAY ABROAD

May Be Turned Back for Inquiry.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—Aroused by the departure of Charles W. Morse, New York shipbuilder, from the country just as the government is about to place before a federal grand jury its investigations of his transactions with the shipping board, officials of various departments are considering tonight what means may be taken to bring him back to the United States.

CHARLES W. MORSE [Copyright: U. & U.]

It is hoped, department of justice officials said, that word can be sent to the French government in time to permit Morse's detention at Havre tomorrow, when the French steamer Paris, on which he sailed from New York, is due to dock.

Can't Use Destroyer.

Early in the day the justice department called on the navy department to send a destroyer to meet the vessel outside of Havre and take Morse off the ship. Secretary Denby said he could not have taken him off a foreign ship if he had been asked to do so.

Erwin A. and Harry F. Morse, sons of Mr. Morse, through their attorney, Wilton J. Lambert, issued a statement declaring their father had sailed on the Paris under a passport issued to him in his own name and, without knowledge of the government's intended action before the grand jury. It was their belief that the government knew Morse had sailed before this contemplated action became known.

His Spectacular Career.

Mr. Morse has had one of the most spectacular careers of any of the big figures in American finance. For years a power in banking and shipping circles, he faced his first serious clouds in 1908 when suits were filed against him for more than $200,000 on promissory notes. Mr. Morse then was abroad.

On his arrival here he was arrested and later convicted of having misapplied the funds of the National Bank of North America in this city. In November, 1908, he was sentenced to fifteen years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta. His wife began a fight for her husband that attracted nationwide interest.

On Jan. 13, 1912, President Taft commuted the bankers' sentence on the recommendation of the attorney general, based on a report from the surgeon general of the army, which read in part:

"In my opinion the prisoner's duration of life will be in all probability less than one month if he is kept in confinement, and in the event of his release under commutation of sentence it is not probable that he will live as long as six months."

Mr. Morse, however, upset this prediction. He spent some time abroad recovering his health, and in 1916 resumed business in New York by organizing a shipping combine for service with Europe and South American ports.

In 1920 he again encountered a federal grand jury, being indicted on a charge of having unlawfully sold an American vessel.

BANK OF KINDNESS

Draw a Check on It for the Unfortunate.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

To carry the campaign of the United Charities for a million dollars to success the women have formed an organization with Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank as general chairman. Next Monday at 12:30, at Hotel Sherman, members of the executive committee, district chairmen, and workers will hold a luncheon to open the campaign. At 1:45 David R. Forgan will speak at the Ambassador hotel and a meeting for final instructions will be conducted by Mrs. Walter Brewster. The women will conduct a house to house canvass from Dec. 5 to 16 for funds. They also will place a full quota of workers in every store, bank, theater, church, club, and restaurant outside the loop.

MRS. KELLOGG FAIRBANK. [Photo: Campbell Studio.]

"Making money? A hundred thousand men are not. Share yours with their children." This is one of the slogans adopted by the women. Campaign headquarters are at 227 North Michigan avenue.

"The United Charities is an ideal agency to handle the acute situation brought on by the unemployment of 100,000 men," said Mrs. Fairbank yesterday. "This is so because it is already established at ten strategic permanent relief headquarters in Chicago where trained people devote themselves to the problems of work among the poor. The question is pressed upon us: What will happen to such families this year unless they are helped across the gulf of unemployment?"

BEAUVAIS HUNTS WITNESSES FOR MRS. STILLMAN

Montreal, Que., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Fred K. Beauvais has enlisted for the duration of the Stillman case to help Mrs. "Fifi" Stillman combat the charges against her. The Indian guide whom James A. Stillman named as co-respondent, charging him with the paternity of Baby Guy Stillman, was today disclosed as an agent in rounding up witnesses.

FRED BEAUVAIS.

It is alleged thirty witnesses who will swear that the banker's famous "ladder and keyhole" witnesses errred in their testimony have been found by Beauvais. In addition the former guide has accumulated photographic evidence to be incorporated in the hearings to be held here next month.

Fifi's Lawyers Arrive.

In order to look over the ground and prepare for the presentation of Mrs. Stillman's Canadian evidence her chief of legal staff, John F. Brennan, and John Mack of Poughkeepsie, guardian ad litem for Guy, arrived in Montreal late last night.

At the Montreal court house today five of the witnesses found by Beauvais were questioned by Mrs. Stillman's attorneys.

According to one source they flatly contradicted the evidence which Harry Grenon, a painter, and Ferdinand Paige, a carpenter, gave at one of the hearings last June in Poughkeepsie. The painter and carpenter, when they took the stand before Referee Daniel J. Gleason, testified that on July 1, 1919, they had been working on a scaffold raised against the Stillman lodge at Grand Anse, known as Camp Saint Illman.

"No Scaffold There."

Both of the witnesses said that in their work they passed the room occupied by Mrs. Stillman, testifying that they saw Mrs. Stillman and Beauvais in a room together. According to the new witnesses the scaffold mentioned by Grenon and Paige was not against the Stillman lodge on July 1 and had been removed during the first week in June, at a time when only Beauvais was at the lodge.

HARDING TO URGE TARIFF REVISION IN NEXT MESSAGE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—President Harding's message to the new congress next week, it was declared in high official circles today, will deal principally with two subjects—the tariff and the merchant marine.

Of the tariff Mr. Harding is expected by those close to the White House to say that its revision and passage at the earliest possible date is urgently necessary and that it should be stripped of such provisions as would endanger or unduly delay its passage.

Concerning merchant marine questions Mr. Harding is expected to take a definite stand for the granting of some sort of ship subsidy, probably in the nature of preferential rates and routes, as supplementary to the granting of free tolls to coastwise shipping through the Panama canal.

Mr. Harding went into the details of the legislative program at a dinner tonight attended by Senators Lodge of Massachusetts, Republican leader; Curtis of Kansas, Penrose of Pennsylvania, and Watson of Indiana. It was understood that the president requested and the senate leaders agreed that the allied debt refunding bill should be taken up immediately and rushed to passage.

Gifts of Silver and Gold

WHEN one comes through the Washington Street Entrance of our Wabash Avenue Building it is to enter a fascinating world of silver and gold and precious stones—wrought in a vast number of different ways to achieve a vast number of varying purposes. And of all the things here arrayed, not one would fail to be a gift of beauty and fine quality. They are things, too, which will last and continue to give pleasure to their owners for long periods of time. Among the more moderately priced are:

Gifts Enjoyed by Everyone

Are of Sterling Silver and Silver Plate

WHILE Candlesticks, Casseroles and Sandwich Trays are usually presented to just one person, they give pleasure to many more. The Candlestick is 8 inches high, of sterling silver, nicely finished, and priced at $6.75. A pair is priced at $13.50.

The silver-plated Sandwich Tray rests on a firm base. The wide pierced border contrasts pleasingly with the broad plain surface it encircles. The price is $4.75.

The Casserole, also silver plated, has a Pyrex lining and cover and is well constructed with ball feet and firm handles. The price is $5.50.

Necklaces $10

of French Pearls

THE opalescent glow of these French Pearls gives them a joyous beauty which is particularly appropriate to the blithe season of Christmas. They are most carefully constructed and fasten with a very attractive gold clasp.

Arrow Pins

Are Scintillant

THESE Veil Pins are set in brilliant white stones and some have black rows of onyx through their centers. They give a charming touch of smartness to the bright, small hats of Winter. Price, $5.

Pearl Earrings

Are Delightfully Sophisticated

LARGE Oriental Pearls of iridescent lustre are mounted in gold and dangle from little chains of sterling silver. A smaller pearl placed higher up is intended to peek from the shining tresses of a smart coiffure. Priced at $5 a pair.

Pie Plate, $4

Sugar and Cream Sets, $12.50

PIES have always been toothsome, but it was left to such Pie Plates to make them artistic as well. They are silver plated, handsomely pierced, and have a Pyrex lining.

Sugar and Cream Sets have octagonal bases and octagonal sides which are Colonial in style. The interiors are finished in gold.

White Gold Filled Wrist Watch, $30

NO gift could be more valued and appreciated than a fine Watch. This one is 18k white gold-filled, exquisitely engraved, in cushion shape. The movement is 17-jewel and most dependable. And the final, but not least gratifying, element is its price. The same Watch in green gold is $29.

A Wrist Watch

To Delight a Boy

IT is of sterling silver on a leather strap which looks very military, and has a 15-jewel movement of splendid quality. The hands and numerals are luminous and very distinct, while the case is cushion shaped. The price is $12.

A Slender Gold Watch Chain

SINCE, from the masculine point of view at least, a watch isn't altogether complete without its Chain, this would be a much appreciated gift for a young boy—or for a man who wishes something new. It is made of long, slender links and priced at $12.

Studs and Links

for Semi-Formal Wear

THREE Studs and a pair of Links of smoked pearl with platinoid metal rims are most appropriate for wear with a Tuxedo. They are both conservative and smart. The price for the set is $1.75.

These Cuff Links

Are of Hammered Sterling Silver

THEY have borders chased in an Etruscan design —which is another reason for their artistic appearance — and are very modestly priced at $1.

Pocket Knife

for a Man

THIS slim Knife, which slips so easily into a pocket, is of sterling silver decorated with an engine turned design. It has one blade and a file of Wostenholm steel. Price, $5.

Silver-Plated Mesh Bag, $12

THIS Mesh Bag is of the distinctive looking type of purses, which can be carried with any costume. It is pouch style, with a sapphire in its clasp, and a pannier handle. All the little links are carefully soldered. A similar Bag with links not soldered is $6.

Silverware for Dining Room

Is Enticingly Priced

UNUSUALLY capable is this Vegetable Dish of plated silver. When the handle is removed—as it easily can be—the cover will serve as a separate dish, thus making receptacles for two vegetables. It is priced at $10.

The Bread Tray, which is decorated with a pierced design and gracefully shaped, would be appreciated by any hostess. Price, $3.75.

Gold Pencils

Are Much Desired

WRITING becomes vastly more interesting when it is done with a Gold Pencil, for every word takes on a new glamour. These Pencils are 14k, either plain, or decorated in engine turned patterns. The price is $8.50.

A Bottle

for Fragrant Perfumes

A PERFUME Bottle of cut glass has a bright stopper of sterling silver and colorful enamel. It would be a gracious addition to a dainty Dressing Table. The price is $6.50.

Cuff Links

of Gold Are $5.75

IT is always quite safe to give a man cuff links, for he couldn't possibly have too many. When they are of green gold in engine turned designs, and may be had in attractive shapes, their desirability as gifts is most apparent.

Bar Pins, $6

BAR Pins of sterling silver set with sparkling white stones give a very decorative finishing touch to a costume, and never forget to fulfill their useful purpose. They would be gifts of excellent taste.

Bonbon Dishes

For Candies or Nuts

VERY expressive of the festive spirit are Bonbon Dishes to hold some of the Christmas "goodies." One of sterling silver—with a pierced border—has a broad spoon to match and is priced at $6.75.

The other is silver plated with a beautiful finish and has a pierced decoration. Price, $3.

Ye Greate Astonishments, by Eleanor Hallowell Abbott, is the best Christmas story I have ever read.

Edna W. Currie
Editor of The Ladies' Home Journal

It is a novelette—the story of a want-ad guest and the quest for a Christmas crinkle.

"Christmas Light," by Ethel Calvert Phillips, is a beautiful story of the first miracle as it was performed by the Baby Jesus in the manger.

And "There was a Boy who Lived on Pudding Lane," by Sarah Addington, is the true account—if only you believe it—of the life and ways of Santa, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Claus. Grown-ups and youngsters will love this biography.

Also Zane Grey's serial, "The Call of the Cañon," stories by Albert Payson Terhune and Herbert Quick, and three beautiful Christmas pictures in full color.

On page 118 there are the jolliest Christmas cakes you ever saw—gingerbread postcards, snowballs, a jack-in-the-box, funny Noah's ark animals, and Santa himself with his reindeer on a glassy lake.

Did you ever think of giving little pies? Then page 124 will suggest something new to you.

Everybody wants lots and lots of candy for Christmas—to eat and to give away. The recipes on page 127 are unusual because they make really enough.

And nuts prepared as described on page 121 will give variety to the holiday table.

The women's club or ladies' aid society that wants to raise money for Christmas charities will find a splendid bazaar in Claire Wallis' "Brite and Fair," and the money may be happily spent as described by Edith Barnard Delano's "Christmas in our Town."

VEECK, KILLEFER PLAN TRADES TO BUILD UP CUBS

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Bill Veeck's Cub office was a busy spot yesterday. There were indications of big things being on the fire. A protracted conference between Veeck, Bill Killefer, the Cub pilot, and his brother Wade, who manages the Los Angeles club, hinted at a possible transaction, and there were rumors floating around that the Cubs had sent out "feelers" to several big league magnates with the idea of swapping athletic talent.

BILL KILLEFER. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

In the absence of any information from the feed box it is safe to presume that the man the Cubs want from the Los Angeles club is Arnold Statz, one of the best fly-chasing prospects in the coast league. Veeck bid for this fellow during his recent visit in California, but couldn't land him.

Statz a Heavy Hitter.

Statz started off last season batting right handed and didn't enjoy much success. After a layoff he was returned to the lineup as a left handed swatter, and he hit better than a .300 clip for the rest of the season.

Outside of his batting there is no question about his ability, and Veeck is confident the youngster will wallop big league offerings if given the chance. The deal will be discussed further at the minor league convention in Buffalo next week.

From Buffalo Veeck, accompanied by Manager Bill, will trek to New York to look after the Cubs' interests during the big league sessions Dec. 13 and 14. Some important trades may be consummated at that time not only by the Cubs but by a number of other big league clubs which need a little help for their 1922 campaign.

Expect Ruth Decision Soon.

White Sox headquarters yesterday denied making an attempt to get Joe Harris, the former Cleveland Indian first sacker, who is under suspension because of playing outside organized baseball. Should the athlete apply to Commissioner Landis for reinstatement and receive it his services would revert to the Cleveland club, which now carries him on the ineligible list.

Judge Landis yesterday announced that he expected to have his decision in the "Babe" Ruth case ready by this week-end. Further than this the judge has nothing to say in regard to the home run slugger's offense against O. B.'s laws.

KRONE SEEKS TO MATCH PLESTINA, ZBYSZKO ON MAT

Doc Krone announces no further effort will be made by him to rematch John Pesek and Marin Plestina for a wrestling bout at the Coliseum. Marsh, Plestina's manager, has wired Krone that information he has obtained leads him to believe Pesek was working under orders when he fouled Plestina at Madison Square Garden two weeks ago, with the result that Pesek was barred for life by the athletic commission there.

JOHN KRONE. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Marsh adds that under no circumstances will he permit Plestina to meet Pesek again, fearing that a return match would leave the public impression that Plestina was in some way connected with the proceedings and was a party to a plot against Tex Rickard.

Seeks Pole for Match.

With the Pesek match an impossibility, Krone says he has again started negotiations for a Zbyszko-Plestina bout for the Coliseum and he adds that he believes the Pole will be glad to meet the legitimate contender for the heavyweight championship laurels he has been wearing for several months.

"I am somewhat pleased Plestina refuses to meet Pesek," Krone said last night. "The New York match left the sport in bad odor, not only there, but everywhere.

Has Zbyszko Any Patriotism?

"Let us hope Zbyszko is willing to set himself right by wrestling Plestina for charity. The War Veterans of America passed resolutions against him when he refused to wrestle for them this fall and I am offering him a chance to prove he is a better man than they declare him to be."

WANTS TO QUIT

PETE HERMAN.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Pete Herman, former world's bantamweight champion, in a letter to a friend, received here today, said he intended to retire from the ring after meeting Johnny Buff and Sharkey.

Herman said that he wanted to get Buff into the ring at all costs, between now and New Year's, and then to take on Sharkey, after which he will quit the squared circle and study engineering.

FREEDMAN TO BATTLE 2 TOUGH 'UNS IN 8 DAYS

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

"Sailor" Freedman, west side lightweight, started training yesterday for two important eastern bouts. "Sailor" will meet Johnny Dundee in a twelve round contest at Jersey City on Dec. 9, and one week later will step fifteen rounds with Lew Tendler in Madison Square Garden, New York.

After the Tendler match had been made Freedman wanted to call off the bout with Dundee. The Jersey City boxing commission took the matter up with the New York body, which ruled Freedman must go through with the Dundee match to meet Tendler in New York.

Freedman then consented to take on Dundee and Tendler in eight days. He will leave Monday afternoon for Jersey City. Barney Furey, well known trainer, will handle the local fighter in both bouts.

After calling off his proposed eight round bout with Carl Tremaine of Cleveland at Memphis on Monday night Pal Moore, local bantamweight, matched to meet Johnny Buff, bantamweight champion, at Milwaukee on Dec. 15, has decided to quit training until Monday. Moore asserted he is in fair shape and with nearly two weeks remaining before the contest will have ample time to get on edge. The Naval post of the American Legion yesterday ordered fifty ringside seats, while Moore's personal friends have requested him to secure seventy-five of the choice tickets. Local handlers of tickets are making reservations daily and Al Bloom yesterday announced he will dispose of over 1,000 seats.

Detroit promoters want Moore to box Joe Schwartz on Dec. 18. Manager Hockstadter said he will take the match providing terms are satisfactory.

Sammy Mandell, Rockford featherweight, resumed training yesterday for his ten round clash with Sammy Frager at Omaha on Monday. Mandell and Jack Eile boxed a ten round draw in private last Tuesday night. Herbie Schaeffer of Chicago and Bud Taylor of Terre Haute will meet in the semi-windup to the Mandell-Frager match.

Frankie Schaeffer settled down to hard work at the Arcade for his ten round bout with Frankie Callahan of Columbus aboard the U. S. S. Commodore on Dec. 9. Callahan will be in the city on Monday to complete training at a local gymnasium.

Mike Dundee of Rock Island and Gene Watson of Chicago will trade punches in the main event of the boxing show to be conducted by Dick Curley in Dundee's home town tonight. The main event will be supported by an eight round semi-windup and two six round preliminaries.

Boxers who won first places in the amateur boxing tourney at the Arcade on Thanksgiving day will be presented with belts at the gymnasium on Sunday afternoon, when a number of prominent fighters will complete training for coming contests.

Woods and Waters

THE RED BIRD FROM THE NORTH.

WE are now playing host to a number of bird friends that come down from Canada about this time every year, and the bird lover who keeps his eyes open may see several winter visitants. James Ballon in Dixon, Ill., has spotted one of these winter visitants and wants to know what kind of a red and brown bird it is that has come to town.

Judging from the description given us it is the pine grosbeak, which, like the Canada jay, chooses as its home the pine forests that stretch across North America from Maine to Alaska. But little is known about the habits of this finch, and especially its summer home. It apparently leads a very quiet and retired life in the gloomy recesses of the coniferous forests, and then when winter comes and food grows scarce it travels down this way and elects to stay with us until spring.

The grosbeak is ordinarily very tame and unsuspicious, and unless persecuted is a fine subject for the bird student who may want to watch a small flock of them as they feed in the forest. Unfallen berries such as the clusters on the sumac are eagerly eaten by these birds when they come to this part of the middle west.

The crossbill is another friendly little bird that drifts down into the middle west during the winter, and of all the finches this fellow takes the cake when it comes to traveling around and ignoring all the rules of migration. The crossbill climbs about like a parrot and is easy to identify because of this characteristic.

It was also decided to use the regular scoring system instead of the new method evolved by Dr. Meanwell of Wisconsin university, which was suggested at a meeting early in the year.

TABLE OF POINTS

BY FRANK SCHREIBER.

Winning four events and placing in two others, New Trier High school's swimming team won the fifteenth annual interscholastic meet at the Illinois A. C. last night with a total of 43 points. Lane finished second with 25 points, while Senn nosed out Evanston for third place with 13 points.

JOHNNY WEISSMULLER.

In the Central A. A. U. open events, held in conjunction with the prep meet, Johnny Weissmuller of the I. A. hung up a new world mark for the 100 yard back stroke event, making the distance in 1:07 4-5. The former record of 1:08 was held by Warren Keaalo of Honolulu.

In winning the prep meet, New Trier took all four places in the fancy diving event. Lane won the plunge and 100 yard swim events, De Bourge going the tank length in :32 2-5 and Wihr taking the breast stroke event in a handy fashion in 1:19 2-5.

Senn's position in the final standing was due to the performance of Capt. Howard McGillivray, who won the 100 yard back stroke and placed third in the forty yard swim. His sprinting also gave Senn second place in the 160 yard relay.

The Illinois A. C. relay team in beating the Northwestern university team in the 160 yard event stroked the distance in 1:16 3-5, one-fifth of a second faster than the world's record time, but the mark will not be allowed, as Harry McGillivray, the last swimmer for the tri-color team, started before being touched off by the starter.

In the water polo match between two I. A. C. teams the whites won by 9 to 5. Summaries:

PRO GRID TITLE BATTLE SUNDAY

Action by the officials of the National Professional Football league has made it certain that the winner of Sunday's game here at the Cub park, between the Buffalo All-Americans and the Staleys, will be champion. The decision was to make Sunday, Dec. 4, the closing date of the season so far as the championship is concerned. There will doubtless be battles after that, but they will have no bearing on the national pro title.

The officials will take into account victories, defeats, and ties. The Buffalos have won all their games and have had two ties. The Staleys have lost only one and have had no ties. This means they will be champs if they defeat Buffalo Sunday, as the ties will figure.

This return battle is expected to be the fiercest fought of the season, with open play and punting predominating.

IRVINE TO LEAD BELOIT IN 1922

Beloit, Wis., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Robert Irvine, star end, was elected captain of the 1922 Beloit college eleven at the annual football banquet, 200 balls from New York City. He played on the Municipal pier team which claimed the national championship in 1918. He served in the navy two years and was discharged with the rank of ensign. He rowed on the college crew at Oxford university, England.

U. S. TREATS LENGLEN CASE WITH DIPLOMACY

New York, Dec. 1.—Stating that they felt the public was fully aware of the facts relating to Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen's visit to this country last summer, officials of the United States Lawn Tennis association today declined to comment upon recent developments in the matter abroad.

Julian S. Myrick, president of the association, issued a statement in which he said he could see no reason for engaging in a controversy concerning an incident he had regarded as closed. He believed, he added, that any further discussion "would involve personalities and details that would lead to misunderstanding and ill feeling."

CARDINALS PLAN AERIAL ATTACK IN AKRON GAME

Realizing the nature of the battle awaiting them when they hook up with the Akron Indians at Normal Park Sunday, Paddy Driscoll and his Chicago Cardinals are working overtime to improve their aerial attack. The Ohioans will present a front wall built of iron, while the flankers are both stars of the first magniture, Bierce of Akron university and Robeson, the dusky whirlwind of Rutgers, filling these berths.

From the Cardinal camp comes word that Capt. Driscoll may shift his base of operations from quarter back to left half back on this occasion.

The Cardinals are bent on squaring accounts with the Indians for a defeat imposed by the visitors in an early contest this season. The kickoff is scheduled for 2 o'clock and tickets are on sale at Spalding's and at Pete's Place, 55th street and Racine avenue.

PIXLEY CHOSEN GRID CAPTAIN AT OHIO STATE

YOST ENDS TALK OF EASTERN GAME

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 1.—Fielding Yost, University of Michigan athletic director, who leaves tomorrow for Chicago for the scheduled meeting of the Big Ten, said today Michigan could not consider a game with an eastern eleven next year, but probably would seek a contest with Vanderbilt or one of the weaker conference elevens. Michigan faces a heavy schedule next year, with return games with Ohio State and Minnesota, and home games with Illinois and Wisconsin.

Winner of Opal, Alverno Clash to Play for Title

The future of both the Opal A. A. and Alverno A. A. football teams depends on the outcome of their game Sunday at Pyott field. The winning team will meet the Boosters in the championship game and will also have Pyott field for the balance of the season. Kickoff at 2 o'clock.

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

COLLEGE DEPARTMENT.

FRIEND HARVEY: What's the matter with the Maroon band? We old timers come back to Stagg field year after year and see with a sad heart the obvious superiority of visiting bands. Here's the reason:

The Maroon band is not supported by the athletic department. Giving its greatest service to the promotion of school spirit at athletic games and rallies, it receives praise, but no money.

Recently on the campus, approved by the student council with the permission of the faculty, a tag day was held to raise money for uniforms. Think of it! The richest university in the west making its band an object of student charity! A gate of nearly $75,000 at the Ohio game and the band begging for uniforms!

Ex-Daily Maroon.

If you pick an All-Conference eleven and the position of "Hell Diver" is open, I nominate Johnny Stuart of Ohio, the best heavier than air machine seen on Stagg field this season. O. H.

Some Minnesota alumni seem to think Doc Williams has not kept up with the modern game, especially on open formations. I noted that against Michigan he had a wide open eleven.

Sometimes we wonder whether that 28 to 0 trimming handed Ohio State by California last winter has anything to do with the prejudice against postseason games on the part of many football elevens invited by the Native Sons.

No football squad of this section, however, can keep in training until New Year's day, make the overland trip, and be anywhere near its best form. The attempt, against anything but a weak eleven, which California is not, is simply to court defeat.

* *

Home and home games between Pacific coast elevens and Big Ten squads during the normal period of training would be interesting and give a pretty fair line on their prowess.

W. & J. ELEVEN PICKED TO PLAY ON THE COAST?

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 1.—Invitations were telegraphed tonight to the Washington and Jefferson college and the University of California football teams to meet here Jan. 2 in the annual east vs. west gridiron classic, it was officially announced by W. F. Creller, chairman of the athletic committee of the Tournament of Roses association.

It was believed the extending of the invitations met their acceptance, as the tournament of roses officials have made it a practice to learn the attitude of the institutions involved before issuing formal invitations.

IOWA OFFICIALS OPPOSE CONTEST NEW YEAR'S DAY

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 1.—University of Iowa officials probably will not request permission of the Big Ten conference to play California in the tournament of roses game New Year's day at Pasadena, it became known today. It is understood that Iowa's athletic board is opposed to the consideration of such a game in view of the fact that post-season battles are contrary to the rules of the Western conference.

The possibility of an Iowa-Yale game next season is now entirely in the hands of Iowa athletic officials, it was learned tonight. According to advices received from Yale, Iowa probably will play in New Haven previous to Yale's trip to Princeton. The date has been held open for the Iowa eleven and they only have to arrange their schedule properly if they wish to accept the date.

PLAY SEMI-FINALS FOR GRID TITLE

The Chicago Boosters and the Evanston team will play in the semi-finals for the heavyweight football championship of Cook county Sunday at Logan Square ball park. Capt. Purple Alumni Club to Hold Banquet Tomorrow

The Chicago club of Northwestern alumni will hold its annual banquet at the University club tomorrow night and prep school athletes of Chicago and suburbs will be the guests. Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois; Abram W. SLURS ON CENTRE TEAM PREVENT TILT WITH GEORGIA TECH FOR 1922

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 1.—Anonymous letters and telegrams from Atlanta, containing "sneers and insults" to Centre college, have prevented Georgia Tech and Centre from arranging a football game for 1922 in Atlanta, it was said tonight by Dr. S. S. Wallace of the Georgia Tech athletic committee.

Dr. Wallace made public excerpts from a letter from J. B. Wood of Chicago, alumni manager of Centre athletics, saying, "This fall we have been receiving regularly letters, telegrams, marked copies of papers, covered with sneers, insults, and the like."

Mr. Wood added, according to Dr. Wallace, that "in justice to Tech, I should say they are most likely in no way responsible," but that it was felt it would be best to defer a game in Atlanta until "this spirit among the followers and sympathizers has undergone a change."

Dr. Wallace issued a statement, saying no one connected with Georgia Tech and no friend of the school had anything to do with sending such communications to Centre college authorities.

BIG 10 COACHES MEET TO ARRANGE INDOOR DATES

Gymnastic, fencing, and wrestling instructors of western conference universities will meet this morning at the Auditorium hotel to arrange a series of meets for the indoor season.

Mat coaches will discuss changes in the rules, while those in charge of gymnastics will arrange a schedule whereby individual and team champions can be determined at the close of the year.

Athletic directors football, baseball, track, and swimming coaches of Big Ten institutions will gather at the same place tomorrow morning to arrange schedules for the coming year.

Basketball coaches and officials agreed upon for the winter contests will also gather for a rules interpretation meeting.

While these sessions are in progress the faculty committee of the conference will hold its annual session to dispose of important matters.

Dates for the indoor and outdoor track and field meets will be set along with the swimming championships. Iowa may request permission to go to the coast to meet California in a post-season football game.

Purple Basket Team to Play Armour Tomorrow

With prospects bright for a successful season the Purple basketball team goes into action tomorrow night at Patten gymnasium against the Armour institute five in the first pre-conference battle of the year. Coach Evans has cut his squad to twenty candidates and he plans making another cut before the opening of the conference season.

Good News for Golfers

It is with pleasure that we take the lead in the reduction of the price on golf balls. The United States Government, through its recent elimination of the 10 per cent tax on golf, effective January 1st, has contributed towards this.

We shall make even further reductions:

Our best golf balls will be reduced from $1.00 each to 75 cents each, available on January 1st.

Spalding Golf Balls during 1921 made an unparalleled record, winning practically every important tournament in the United States, Britain and France.

We shall furnish to the golfers of America new golf balls for 1922 which are superior in every way to any ever produced by us, with particular emphasis placed on Durability.

Our golf balls for the coming year will be formally announced in January.

LOCAL STABLES RIBBON WINNERS AT HORSE SHOW

Stage Close Races with "Foreign" Strings.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Chicago and Kansas City stables clashed again last night in the five gaited class at the horse show held in connection with the International Live Stock exposition. Easter Star, the chestnut gelding of O. W. Lehmann's stable, took first. Judge Thurman of the Long string, Kansas City, with John Hookup, captured second. Tom Bass, riding Over The Top, another "show me" product, won third place.

In the five gaited contest there was not only a battle between some of the best horses that have been in this season's shows, but it was a fight between the best riders in the country. Old timers hanging over the rim called it the greatest display of good horsemanship they had seen in years.

Chicago Horses Win.

The Windy City turf enthusiasts found plenty of reasons for leaving their seats when the riding teams came into the ring. Both first and second prizes were won by Chicago horses. Sonya and Flashlight, the team in which Mrs. S. Harris rode, got first. Teammates, Gasconade and Mildred Star, the latter being ridden by Mrs. O. W. Lehmann, won second. Again real skill was displayed by both men and women. Ann Andrews and Busy Lassie, an Ohio pair, owned by A. C. Long and Joe Davis, placed third.

John R. Thompson's Ebony King won first in a hot contest of trotters, shown to a speed wagon, where fast driving was the feature. St. Mesrob trotted into second place. This stallion is owned by George J. Peak of Winchester, Ill. Peter Handsome, also of the Peak string, captured third, and Tin Lizzie, entered by J. Lemon of Winnipeg, Canada, took fourth place.

Polo Game Breathless.

Last night's indoor polo game was the closest and most thrilling contest that has been staged during the horse show. For thirty minutes 30,000 spectators held their breath, except for an occasional pause to join in the hand-clapping contest of 60,000 palms. The North Shore Polo and Hunt club won last night for the second time, opposing the Onwentsia Polo club. It was a close fight, resulting in a score of 3 to 2. The North Shore team has won two games and the Army three. The final game which will determine the indoor championship of the show will be played Saturday night between the teams with the most games to their credit.

Uncle Southdown, a Cedar Crest farm entry, won first in the pony class, and Bouncing Bantam, one of Wednesday night's winners, took second, adding another laurel to the W. E. Dee string. The Cedar Crest farm came in again for the winnings, taking third in the pony class with Hawthorne Sylph.

The thrilling climax came late in the evening when the triple bar jumpers came out. Surefire lived up to his name and slid over the bars into first place, clearing the pole at 4 feet, racking up another score for the Chicago horses. Surefire is owned by O. W. Lehmann. Miss Bunty, another Chicago jumper, owned by Mrs. William E. Swift, placed second. O. W. Lehmann's Landslide was third and Watch Me, entered by Mrs. J. Hertz, placed fourth.

Meat to Disarm Meet.

John Hubly's international grand champion car lot of black steers will be made into beef and served to the British, French, Chinese, Dutch, Belgians, Italian, Japanese, and American delegates at the disarmament conference. At the International Live Stock show yesterday the fifteen grand champion Aberdeen-Angus steers were sold at 40 cents a pound. Half of them went to the Dutches Market company at Washington and the other half to the Sullivan Brothers, Boston.

Bidders at this year's auction of the grand champion pinched their dimes compared with the buyers of previous champions. Lula Mayflower was started at 50 cents a pound and 10 cent bids kept piling up until the hammer fell at $1.10.

Tonight the six horse teams will be judged and the blue ribboners will be picked. Thomas E. Wilson's six horses that are in the contest are valued at $100,000. Teams from both New York and Chicago are entered.

THOMPSON NOT FIT FOR OFFICE, LAWYER ASSERTS

Tribune to Force Trial of $500,000 Suit.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Attorney Weymouth Kirkland, representing THE TRIBUNE, charged in open court yesterday that Mayor Thompson's war record—particularly those utterances which "gave aid and comfort to the enemy"—proved him unfit for any office of trust in any community in the United States.

With this declaration he announced his intention to force a trial of the $500,000 libel suit filed by the mayor against THE TRIBUNE more than four years ago. In justification of the article upon which the suit was based THE TRIBUNE has filed pleas which include various alleged disloyal utterances ascribed to Mayor Thompson. To those pleas the plaintiff filed a demurrer upon which arguments now are being heard before Judge David A. Brothers in the Circuit court.

Right of Comment Argument.

During the afternoon session Attorney Charles F. Rathbun, for the newspaper, finished his argument upon the justification of the articles upon which the suit was based, and Attorney Kirkland began his argument upon "the right of fair comment" as a defense against the libel charge.

He had only begun upon the technical outline of what he was going to say when swerved into a discussion of the general aspects of the case.

"It does seem to me," he said, "that it would be almost impossible for any red-blooded American to sit and listen to the utterances of the plaintiff in this case during a time when the existence of the nation was at stake without coming to the irresistible and only logical conclusion that he could reach—that that man was a seditionist.

"Was Not Fit."

"And I will go further and say that any red-blooded American who heard the things read from this plea would say that that man was not fit to hold a position of trust in this community or any other place in the United States of America.

"Now, I want to call your attention to this before I forget it. The American people are prone to forget. We forget more quickly than any other nation of people in this world. And I think a great many people in Chicago are forgotten what the real war record of William Hale Thompson is.

"Perhaps it would be a good thing for future generations not to pick this up. Perhaps it would be a good thing for future generations to believe that every man who held a position of trust in the United States in the years 1917 and 1918 was a patriot, a loyal citizen, and not a man who lent aid and comfort to the cause of the enemy.

Promises Revelations.

"But these gentlemen say they are anxious for trial. And I want to assure you and them that they are not one-half as anxious for trial as our client is. And I want to assure you that when this case is tried—and it will be tried if we have anything to say about it—that we intend to let the people of this community know not what this man's real war record is.

"We intend to show this gentleman up in his real light as a man who gave aid and comfort to the enemy for the purpose of enhancing his own public political fortunes—as Mr. Rathbun says, about the basest, vilest, and most despicable motive that any man could have. If they want a trial they will get it."

Cites Other Cases.

Returned to his discussion of court rulings upon the extent to which "fair comment and criticism" may go, but upon his most technical argument was interrupted by shots at the defendant. Among them were these:

"You remember the case of the man Kreutzinger, who was tried by a military court for disloyalty and gave his reasons for not obeying the law, saying that he had read the utterances of William Hale Thompson. I say if William Hale Thompson just caused one man to desert or evade the draft by that alone made him a disloyal citizen, made him a seditionist, and a traitor to his country, and no jury of twelve men in this community will say to the contrary.

And "That Jubilee."

"When a committee waited on him and asked permission to sell Liberty bonds in the city hall he said he had to wait and see what his predecessors had done. I wonder if last spring, when they sold tickets to the 'jubilee' at Riverview park, he had to see what his predecessors did before they sold one there? I wonder if, when an assistant corporation counsel made a speech to civil service employés telling them they had to subscribe to the Republican, the mayor had to see what his predecessors did.

"But they say that delay—three days—didn't make any difference. But it made this difference. The raising of money, the raising of an army, the building of battleships, merchant ships, and airplanes, the making of munitions every extra minute spent in getting those things ready meant a human life. The sooner they got the money, the sooner they would get the soldiers over there.' It meant that Armistice Day was one day nearer. If the armistice had been signed one day sooner, you can figure out for yourself how many lives would have been saved."

German Propagandist, Charge.

During his argument Attorney Rathbun charged that Mayor Thompson circulated four distinct pieces of German propaganda, as follows.

1. That England was our traditional enemy.
2. That the war was a rich man's war.
3. That Washington had warned against "entangling alliances."
4. That our real danger lay in Mexico.

He wound up with the "parallel" by reading the extracts from Mayor Thompson's writings and speeches and articles in the Republican.

Attorney Kirkland will continue his argument this morning.

Bessie McCoy Returns; News of the Theaters

BY SHEPPARD BUTLER.

TIME seems to have stood still for Bessie McCoy Davis. She is still the engaging tomboy personality we knew in "Three Twins," more years ago than anybody cares to remember, and in her current offering at the Apollo she dances with the same leisurely grace and talks her songs with the same droll aplomb as of yore. A sort of feminine Eddie Foy she is, with a touch of poetry about her and an elfin something that eludes definition.

BESSIE McCOY DAVIS. [Copyright: Moffett.]

There is variety aplenty in the tasks she sets herself. A picturesque soft shoe dance contrasts piquantly with a waltz in billowy skirts and a cloud of tulle; you get a thrill when she pulls out an old cap with a pompon on it and drifts into her famous "Yama Yama" number, and there is real beauty in her glowing finale—something about "Castles in the Air," all soft lights and silver tissue.

Two long, lean, and nimble dancers are with her, and the three of them submit a spirited interlude that should help the prestige of Shubert vaudeville considerably. It would be better if they did not try so hard to make it a travesty.

Among others at the Apollo are:

Bard and Pearl—A comic pair out of the erstwhile "Whirl of New York," in amusing assaults on the English language. Mr. Pearl's moist sneeze is inelegant, but there is something wrong with you if it doesn't make you laugh.

Tameo Kajiyama—He listens, thinks, talks, reads, and writes upside down and backwards at the same time. One of those amazing "mental prodigies" of whom there are not many left.

Brendel and Burt—The same funny Swede and dimpled beauty who helped start the vaudeville ball rolling at the Apollo some weeks ago. Brendel has rosy cheeks, the expression of a mildly intoxicated fish, and a keen flair for comedy.

Du Callon—From the London 'alls, performing on a ladder and talking incessantly. They like him at home, but he is a bit of a bore here.

Georgie Price—In imitations and wise cracks, without a ladder.

Next week in vaudeville—Miss Ethel Levey [the former Mrs. George M. Cohan] at the Majestic; the Watson Sisters at the Palace, and Miss Emily Ann Wellman at the Apollo.

"Marie Antoinette," Miss Grace George's new play, has joined the growing list of failures and will be sent to the storehouse after tomorrow night's performance in New York. It will then have had a career of precisely two weeks.

Robert Ames, one of the good actors with Richard Bennett in the late lamented play called "The Hero," is headed in this direction. On Sunday night he will replace Rod La Rocque as Miss Larrimore's leading man in "Nice People," at the Cort. He has played the rôle before.

Higher Fares Fail to Yield Dividends on "L"

Despite the higher fares under which it operated during eleven months of the fiscal year ended June 30 last, the Chicago Elevated roads earned only $102,015 in excess of fixed charges, including bond interest, according to a report just issued. As this surplus did not meet dividend requirements, it was carried to profit and loss surplus and no dividends were paid. For the year gross operating revenue increased $2,691,174, but operating expenses increased $2,532,961. Net income increased only $4,198 over the preceding fiscal year.

BEG YOUR PARDON

It was reported in yesterday's TRIBUNE that Crane heavyweights defeated Wendell Phillips, 24 to 0. The score should have read: Crane, 24; Phillips, 12.

In THE TRIBUNE of Wednesday it was stated that Frank Loza, who was arrested and fined $600 for inducing young girls to pose for indecent photographs, was a janitor in the employ of the Oak Park Y. M. C. A., and that the posing took place in the basement of the Y. M. C. A. William A. Douglass, president of the Y. M. C. A., says, "Loza was not janitor of the Y. M. C. A. He only worked there at odd jobs, and was employed as janitor of the apartment building to the north of the Y. M. C. A." Mr. Douglass also denies that the pictures were posed in the basement of the Y. M. C. A.

DOCTORS LISTEN CHEERILY AS DRY LAW IS PANNED

Medics Hear Both Sides of the Question.

If the violence and duration of applause be taken as a truthful gauge of an audience's sentiments, those present at the meeting of the north side branch of the Chicago Medical society last night at the Virginia hotel set their seal of approval upon the use of alcohol both as a medicine and a beverage content when used in moderation.

The same gathering which evinced its approval of a scientific paper read by Dr. Arthur A. Small upholding alcohol as a therapeutic agent, applauded enthusiastically the remarks of Attorney Clarence Darrow, Lincoln Steffens, and Horace Bridges, who variously pictured the prohibition amendment as a farcical law generally ignored, one of the "most dangerous pieces of class legislation ever enacted," and even as a menace to the continued stability of industry and of the government itself

Preble and Sadler for "Dry" Side.

On the other side the prohibition law was upheld by Dr. Robert B. Preble and State Senator Frank P. Sadler, both of whom urgently pleaded for its stricter enforcement.

Dr. Samuel C. Henry, secretary of the National Association of Retail Druggists, asked for the hearty cooperation of the medical profession in combatting attempts by certain politicians at Washington to enact legislation requiring the medication of all alcohol before it is withdrawn from a bonded warehouse.

"Such a law would cripple every pharmacy in the United States," he said. "You know a man cannot prepare medicines in the interest of the public through your services unless he can get alcohol. All sorts of restrictions have been placed upon us, and I ask you as American citizens if we are going to sit idly by and allow greater restrictions to be placed in our way?"

Has a Medicinal Value.

After pointing to the value of a moderate quantity of alcohol as a food or source of heat and vital energy, Dr. Small attested to its value as a hypnotic, an anodyne, an anesthetic, an anti-pyretic, a diaphoretic, and a diuretic, citing various illnesses in which it had been employed efficaciously.

"As to the use of alcohol in moderate quantities by healthy persons," he said, "we see two extremes of opinion. It is violently condemned by extreme total abstinence advocates and allowed with apparently as reasonable argument by others. Personally, I am of the opinion that a moderate amount of alcohol with the evening meal reduces the mental and physical tension following the hard work of the day and renders that individual more fit for his next day's labor."

In his argument Senator Sadler pointed to the decrease in number of inmates at the bridewell as proof of the benefits of prohibition, but admitted there had been considerable crime, attributing this to the effect of the war and the automobile, which he characterized as "the greatest contributor and the greatest invention ever made as an aid to robbery." This point was quickly seized by Mr. Darrow, who followed.

"Prohibit Autos?"

"The logic is very obvious," he said. "There should be a law for the prohibition of automobiles, so that those who enjoy them may be restrained in order to prevent others from using them wrongly.

Mr. Darrow traced the source of the prohibition movement to the puritanical idea that "all pleasure is sin." He asserted the entire country is in the throes of a revival of every kind of blue law with "such brainy philosophers at its head as Billy Bryan and Billy Sunday." The next move, he predicted, would be no Sunday theaters or Sunday motoring.

Not an Honest Movement.

"This entire prohibition movement," he declared, "has not been an honest movement but a law forced on the statute books by holding our legislators and congressmen in terror of lost votes. Men cannot be men unless they are free to exercise both good judgment and bad judgment. Unless they are free they cannot be men."

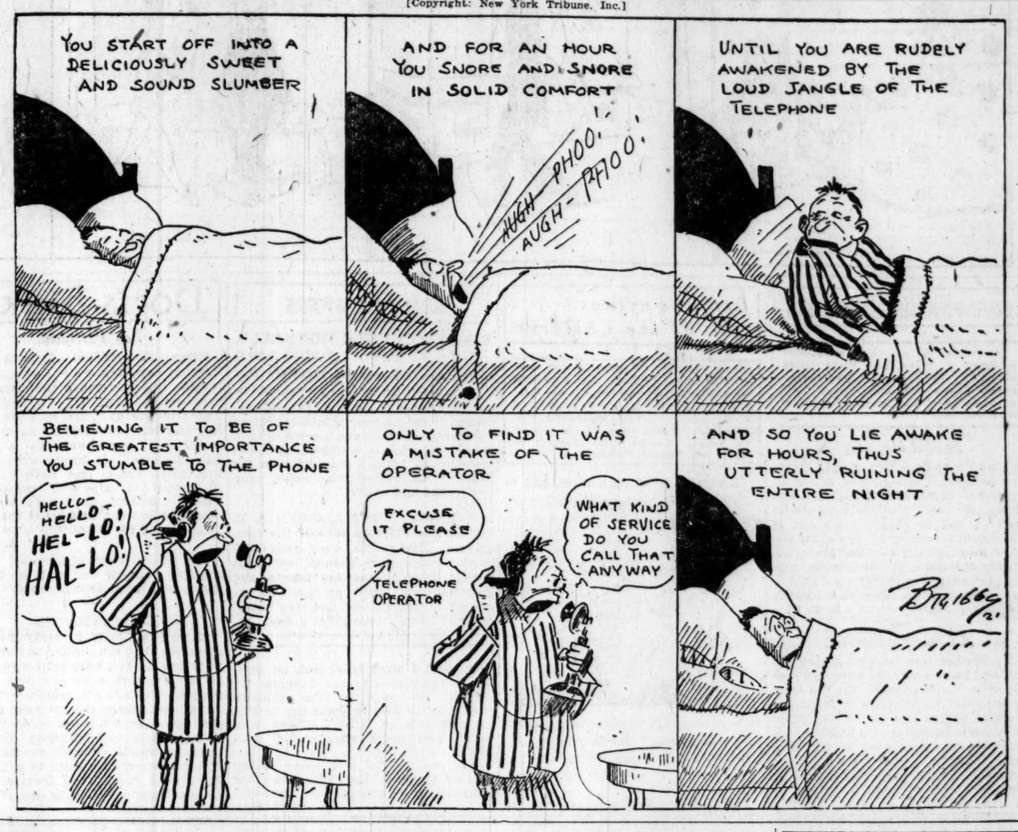

A study of the Russian revolution, Mr. Steffens said, showed prohibition of intoxicants by the czar to have been one of the chief contributing causes.

Mr. Bridges insisted there had been fifty-seven ways in which the liquor question could have been dealt with.

"But we have picked out the one course that was, is, and forever will be impractical," he said. "To destroy that free obedience to the law upon which free governments and democracies are founded is a dangerous thing. When people are treating the violation of a law as a jest there has been done a thing of deadly import."

Blue Ribbon Fiction

HER PHANTOM LOVER

by ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

Blue Ribbon Fiction

SYNOPSIS.

Doria Westhaven kills her husband's cousin, Andrew Mandell, when he tries to make love to her. Westhaven, who resembles Mandell, assumes the dead man's name and goes to prison in Nevada as the "slayer of Westhaven," aiding the fact that he owns the English shipbuilding firm of Westhaven's. Ten years later, pardoned, he returns to England as "Ronald Barry." He finds Doria a fashionable butterfly and Ted, their son, in possession of the title of Lord Westhaven.

Crystal Marwood, niece of Martin Drake, manager of the Westhaven estate, and Andrew Crouch, a workman for Westhaven's, are in love. Drake and Doria forbid the match. The pair plans to elope. Doria learns that Crouch's father was Mandell, the man she killed, heir to the Westhaven titles and estate. Thus Andrew, the carpenter, is the legal Lord Westhaven. Neither Crouch nor his mother, however, are aware of their fortune.

Mrs. Crouch finds an old paper, in which she is astounded to read that "Andrew Crouch," who "killed Ronald Mandell, heir of Lord Westhaven," has been pardoned. Pietro Noni, wood carver, wishes to marry her. She becomes ill and young Andrew delays his elopement.

Doria tells Drake she suspects Crystal is preparing to elope. She also admits that she loves—and hates—Ronald. Drake intercepts Andrew's letter to Crystal and reads of the elopement plans. After a scene, Crystal agrees not to see Andrew for six months and Doria takes her to London. There Doria becomes a reigning social queen, hoping to reawaken Ronald's love, and Crystal quietly prepares to "become a poor man's wife." Alf Rugg, his jealousy of Andrew aroused by Letty Price, whom Andrew has scorned, creeps into West haven's shipyards at night, armed with a crowbar, with the intention of killing Andrew.

INSTALLMENT LIX.

THE FACE AT THE WINDOW.

The sound of the wind helped to deaden his footsteps and he crept up to see what the watchman was going to do, now; dallying with the idea of two murders instead of one.

It looked cozy in the tight little lodge. There was a perforated bucketful of live coals, and over this the watchman was preparing to grill a generous slice of beefsteak, while the rest of his midnight meal was spread in a newspaper on his lap. But first he took a heavy revolver from his pocket and laid it on a stool close to his right hand.

Rugg decided not to tackle him. He was a burly enough looking customer even without the revolver, a bearded ex-sailor with a red scar slicing one cheek, tattooed hands, and a gold ring piercing the thick lobe of his left ear.

He returned to the office building, which was some little distance from the watchman's lodge, and completely hidden from it by Pietro Noni's studio. The watchman could be relied upon to make the most of his steak. Say, twenty minutes at the least, and that was quite long enough.

Peering again at the office window, carelessly this time, Rugg saw that Andrew was preparing to leave. He grinned evilly, pressing his face against the pane, and twined his fingers about the cold iron weapon. Just a moment in which to gloat over his victim.

He saw Andrew remove the paper protectors from the sleeves of his coat and put them into a drawer, together with the eye shade. Then he gathered up the blue prints and consigned them to the steel safe in the corner.

So they let him have the combination of the safe. No doubt it contained things much more valuable than the blue prints. Andrew had not yet closed the safe door when he became aware of the flat face pressed to the window.

It leered at him out of the darkness and something cold seemed to trickle down his spine. At first he did not recognize the face for Alf Rugg's. It did not look like a human countenance at all, but like something nebulous in form but definite in evil seen in a dream.

There had been much public discussion of spiritualism that winter, and Andrew had secretly scoffed at it, but just for a moment he thought he was seeing something supernatural as well as indescribably ugly.

It was altogether peaceful in the office. The student's lamp, which he had substituted for the electric light, burned with a steady yellow flame. The big round faced clock on the wall ticked seconds into eternity with indifferent monotony. The fire was white hot; in another half hour it would fall to ashes. By that time Andrew expected to be comfortably in bed in his little room over the kitchen.

Like a fugitive shadow the face at the window was gone, but still Andrew did not reach for his cap and overcoat. By this time common sense had told him that it must have been a human face, and that it did not belong to the night watchman. Some one was waiting outside to waylay him, and he made a good guess as to the fellow's identity.

It is scarcely necessary to state that Andrew Crouch was no coward. At the same time there is a quality in the unknown which bids the bravest of men go cautiously. He was not going to walk out of that door into darkness and a possible trap.

There was an alarm connecting with the watchman's lodge, but before he could get to it Alf Rugg rushed in upon him, swinging the crowbar.

"I've got you where I want you. Better say your prayers, my pretty lad. It's the last time you'll get the chance."

It took Andrew but a second to realize that he was in a desperate situation. He dodged behind the big table, keeping an eye on his would be assailant, and at the same time looking for a likely weapon to offset the crowbar. He could not reach the fire irons.

After his first triumphant outburst, Rugg became grimly silent, and the two men circled the table warily. As an athlete Andrew far outmatched him, and he soon saw that unless he chanced a fling of the crowbar he was not likely to get near enough to Andrew to fell him.

Sweating and panting, 'round and 'round they went watching each other's slightest movement with the ferocity of prowling cats.

This game endured for neither of them knew how long, and then Alf Rugg had a brilliant inspiration. The same thing had occurred to Andrew, but the latter had preferred to risk his life rather than choose a weapon which could easily, in such a wind, destroy not only Rugg but the whole of Westhaven's.

Andrew dodged and in that second was lost. The crowbar caught and felled him.

But the lamp had not gone out, and now a flash of blazing oil lit up the scene luridly.

Rugg was convinced that his enemy was dead, but he dared not wait to make sure. He leaped over the still body and out into the night with the sound of crackling flames in his ears.

In his excitement he dropped the bloodstained crowbar, and crouching low made for the forge, where he crept out to the rope and let himself down into his boat.

A yellow red finger of flame shot up into the night from the direction of Westhaven's, and simultaneously the great fire alarm sounded.

Rugg bent to the oars, his breath coming hard and fast. When he reached the landing stage he did not trouble to make the boat fast, but jumped ashore and let it drift. Then he ran as quickly as he could back to his own house.

Unfortunately he did not get there soon enough. His pal, who had said good night to him about an hour before was on the step banging at the door.

"Alf, get up—the yards are on fire!" he bawled. "Get up, you lazy sinner!"

Rugg thrust his hands into his pockets and his lower jaw stuck out ominously.

"Shut your row," he breathed. "Got eyes in my 'ead, 'aven't I?"

By this time the whole sky was red.

"Well, I'm blowed!" exclaimed his friend. "Left you in your nightie, I did. 'Ow did you 'ear so quick? The brigade's only just out. I was coming along Joe's place and I'll swear I was the fust to see, even before the alarm went."

Rugg grasped his arm with a mighty hand that trembled.

"Come on. We might as well go down and see the fun," he said, as nonchalantly as possible. "I came back for my overcoat," he added as an afterthought. But he made no move to enter the house to get it.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

Question.

At what age do you want to die?

Where Asked:

In front of THE TRIBUNE'S Rotogravue plant, 427 East Ontario steet.

Mrs. Ada Guthard, 4846 North Central Park avenue, housewife.—Not until my time comes. I certainly have no desire to leave this world before I have to. The old world has treated me well, and I think I ought to show my appreciation by staying here as long as possible.

W. Dresser, 1128 Wrightwood avenue, mechanic.—I have been out of work four months, and I don't see any chance of getting a job. I'd just as soon jump off now as any time. I don't want to seem pessimistic, but life isn't offering me an awful lot just at present.

O. D. Watkins, 53 East Ontario street, chef.—Any age. It doesn't make any difference to me. I want to die as I've lived. Just make me up into a nice brown roast and carry me out, feet first. It's all down in the big book when I'm going to die, and I haven't anything to say about it.

G. J. Nape, 3762 Ward street, mailer.—I hope to live to be 100 years old, so I can see Chicago with a subway. Then I can lie down and die in peace, safe in the assurance that all straphangers have seats. I'm 32 years old now. That makes only sixty-eight years more.

Mrs. Ivan Arbogust, 216 East Superior street, housewife.—I will be satisfied to leave this world at 65. I think that is long enough for anybody to live on this earth. I think that any one can get their share of troubles in sixty-five years in this vale of tears.

Peeper Is Discovered at Evanston Girls' School

The Evanston police are searching for a man who was seen last night walking on the fire escape outside the dormitory of the Marywood school for girls in Ridge avenue, Evanston. The alarm spread through the school and the frightened students notified Sister Superior Mary St. Claire. The police were called, but were unable to find the annoyer.

JOLIET CAR LINE GETS AUTHORITY TO REDUCE FARES

Makes Request on Plea It Will Benefit City.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The Joliet Street Railway company asked from the Illinois commerce commission the privilege of reducing its fare from 10 to 6½ cents to regular daily riders. Chairman Smith commended the company, and later the commission granted the request.

On the heels of that will come the hearing today in the federal court injunction on the merits of reducing the Chicago surface car fare from 8 to 5 cents. That rate the companies claim is confiscatory, and in addition assert that the issuance of the order violated the Illinois law.

Federal Judges George A. Carpenter of Illinois, Francis E. Baker of Indiana, and Ferdinand A. Geiger of Wisconsin, will decided whether the injunction shall be dissolved, modified, or made permanent. Their decision will have influence throughout the country on car fares.

Acts to Benefit City.

The Joliet request originated with its city commissioners. They appealed to the management of this local railway. They argued that wages had been reduced from 10 to 25 per cent and that a fare reduction would benefit Joliet, just as THE TRIBUNE has urged that a 5 cent fare would be of material advantage to Chicago.

General Manager J. R. Blackhall agreed. He represented to the commerce commission yesterday that the company in twenty-one years of operation had not paid a dividend. This year, he said, it will lack about $212,000 of paying cost of operation and fixed charges, and by the fare reduction will reduce its gross income next year about $50,000.

But he frankly stated that he contemplated a wage reduction. At the peak he paid his trainmen 60 cents an hour, then reduced them to 55 cents, and contemplates another reduction of 5 cents or more.

Iowa Fare Plan.

His plan for reduced fares is that which is said to have been tested in Mason City, Ia. Blackhall will sell a ticket for 75 cents each month and then the car rider will pay 5 cents a ride. If he rides twice a day for 25 days the rider will pay in one month $2.50 in nickels, 75 cents for his card, a total of $3.25—or 6½ cents a ride.

The Joliet company will collect less than 4,500,000 fares this year, which is only a trifle more than two days' business on the Chicago surface lines.

It is evident, therefore, there is little or nothing that is comparable in the Chicago and Joliet companies, but the contrast of the community, company, and city spirit may indicate what is lacking in the Chicago situation.

NEW GAS RATE

Donald R. Richberg has represented to the Illinois commerce commission that 90 cents per 1,000 cubic feet is "a reasonable cost for gas" in Chicago. Chairman Smith of the commission calculated that 88.98 cents last month represents the same item of cost for which the old utilities commission allowed 96.16 cents when the gas rate was fixed at $1.15 to the consumer.

To this conclusion Attorney George A. Cooke objected strenuously. He asserted that the actual cost last month was 92.85 cents and for the last ten months has been 95.93 cents. On the October figures the difference is represented by 1.34 cents for stock adjustments, 3.53 cents for rentals, and about 2 cents for income taxes of $525,000.

It is reasonably certain the commission will not insist upon the gas consumers paying the income taxes of the gas company's stockholders. Whether other items will be allowed as proper operating charges remain to be determined.

The hearing adjourned until Dec. 13.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY FRANK RIDGWAY

REFILLING MAKES ONE SILO DO WORK OF TWO.

Expensive building material has prevented beef and dairy cattle men from building silos during the last few years, and in many cases where two silos are needed farmers have only one. Refilling silos in midwinter has consequently become a necessity to supply enough silage to finish beef steers or carry dairy herds through to grass.

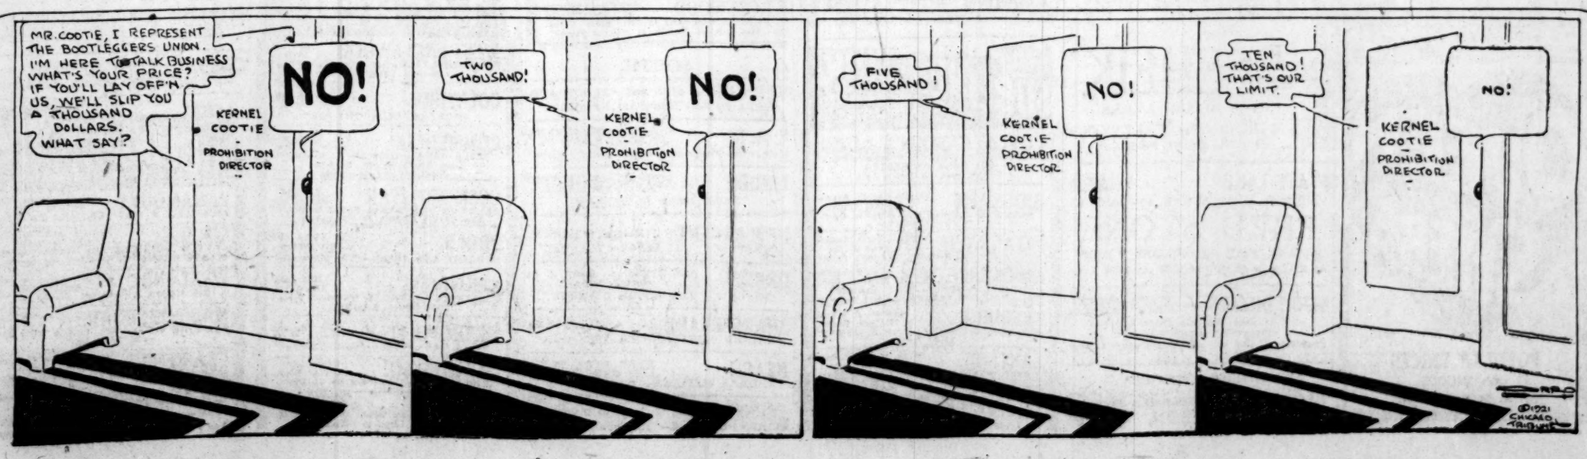

Making one silo do the work of two has brought new problems. Silage coming from refilled silos is not as valuable as the first crop, and allowance must be made for this in feeding. In spite of the fact that corn fodder made into silage is not as valuable as silage made from the green corn plants, the value of the dry stalks and blades may be greatly increased by storing them in the silo. There is much less waste where fodder is made into silage.

Fortunately the refilling season comes when fields are usually frozen and fodder can be easily hauled out. Most refilling is done in December and January and not later than the last of February.

In refilling, an abundance of water is needed, because the blades and stalks of corn that come direct from the shocks are dry and must be moistened when cut up and blown into the silo. Fifty-fifty is the rule to follow—100 pounds of water to every 100 pounds of fodder. There is little danger of getting too much water. Lack of water usually is the cause of silage spoiling when it is made from fodder. The ears may be broken off or left on.

Where there is a water system the water may be added with a hose as the chopped up fodder passes through the blower, or the water may be added with a bucket after the material is blown into the silo. The principal object is to see that the water is added uniformly. The silage will mold where there is an insufficient amount of moisture.

KERNEL COOTIE—THE TEMPTER

Mr. Holt Scores in His Initial Starring Venture

"THE CALL OF THE NORTH."
Produced by Paramount.
Directed by Joseph Henabery.
THE CAST.
Ned Trent .....Jack Holt
Virginia Albret.....Madge Bellamy
Galen Albret .....Noah Beery
Achille Picard .....Francis MacDonald

By Mae Tinée.

"The Call of the North" is Jack Holt's first starring picture. In it he proves indisputably his right to a place amongst the folks whose names go in big type and electric lights. Not a sensational lead. Just a nice, clean cut, sensible chap who does his "bit" as a real man would.

The story he has is the kind that will please the males of the species. The scenes are laid in the north country at the time when the Hudson Bay company was lord of the trappers and its factors monarchs absolute. A stern factor, a factor's beautiful motherless daughter, and a free trapper bent on revenging the father that factor had one time wronged are the principal characters.

Everybody does good work, including the director. The scenery is beautiful. (So is Madge Bellamy.)

Congratulations and good wishes to Mr. Holt.

CLOSEUPS.

Galsworthy's "The Skin Game" has been made into a picture by the London Pathé company. It is claimed that the producers went to great lengths to "produce the deep, dark past of the leading lady, which in the spoken play is just mentioned."

Ella Hall, formerly with Universal, expects to return to the screen after an absence of three years. Miss Hall is Mrs. Emory Johnson, you know, and she's been awfully busy taking care of her two babies. Her husband will produce the picture she will be featured in. In the cast will be Johnny Walker and Ralph Lewis.

HAROLD TEEN—OH, YES! FISH DAY!

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Address Embarrassing Moments, Chicago Tribune. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscript returned.

Spoiled Her Day.

I had never been to a formal luncheon, so when I was invited to one in a private home I took my hat and gloves off. As I was the first one to arrive I had to endure the sight of sixty guests coming in, one after the other, keeping their hats and gloves on. Finally the sister of the hostess, taking pity on me, tactfully took off her hat also, but the day was already spoiled for me. E. F. K.

A Charming Surprise.

My brother was married during the war and he and his wife went to Texas where he was stationed. On the train he happened to meet his bride on one occasion at the end of the car when no one was in sight. According to his own account, they were folded in a fond embrace, when they heard chuckles. There were two officers in uniform, a private, and a couple of civilians waiting to get past. R. T.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $1 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Please write on one side of the paper. Address Bright Sayings to Aunty Bee, Tribune, Chicago.

Bazie, who lived on a farm, had to help his father plant potatoes. Toward evening he got rather tired and his father heard him consoling himself with the remark, "But they taste good when you put grazy on 'em!"

B. A. D.

We had but recently moved into the town, and I went to church on Sunday, accompanied by my daughter.

After the services the minister rushed to the door to shake hands with us, and said to Hilda. "And why didn't you bring your daddy with you?"

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

B. G.: FOR PEOPLE WHO LEAD sedentary lives, special exercises that require about fifteen minutes should be part of the day to keep one in good condition. I have a neat course in setting up exercises, which you are welcome to for the return of a stamped, addressed envelope, and which done daily for the required amount of time would keep you young and active.

BERNICE: SEND ALONG S. A. E. for the pamphlet on care of the complexion. Meanwhile, keep your face clean, watch your eating, leave out sweets, fried things, hot breads, and pastries. And drink as much as six glasses of water a day. Get nine hours' sleep and walk three miles a day.

Doris Blake

Too Persistent.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have been keeping company with a young man for the last two years and I think a great deal of him. He is a gentleman and trustworthy. He says he loves me, and has proved it up to the last month. He now acts in a peculiar manner. I have written to him three times, and have received no answer. I value his friendship so much. As soon as I have received your advice I shall act upon the same in obtaining his friendship once more. "A. N."

My advice, dear girl, would be to consider yourself out of it as far as this young man is concerned.

Daily Horoscope.

If your birthday is today you are reserved. You are content to live within yourself. You keep your own counsel and neither seek nor give confidences. You are not selfish, however, for when success crowns your efforts your goodness of heart leads you to share with the less fortunate. But you have to watch yourself so that you will not become so much of a recluse as to shut yourself off from a wider companionship, which is one of your particular needs.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

I want to be the medium through which the friend in deed and the friend in need may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which has not outgrown its usefulness that will make some less fortunate one happy, and you would gladly give it if you knew how to go about it. Write to me and I shall be only too happy to be of service to you. Please write on one side of the paper.

When information is wanted by mail, a stamped, addressed envelope should accompany the request. Please do not send parcels to The Tribune, but write for the address of the applicant and send direct.

Crutches to Give.

"I have a pair of crutches, woman's shoes—sizes 5B and 7AA—and some odds and ends of clothing. Would be glad to pass them on to some deserving person. Mrs. D. M. R."

The address of this generous cornerite is on file for the first applicant.

Rent Is Due.

"My husband has been seriously ill for months. We have no money, food, or clothing for our six children. The baby is three months old, the eldest a girl of 11. I would greatly appreciate help of any kind. The children are kept from school because they have no clothes. The rent is due, and unless we get help we will be forced out of doors. "Mrs. M. P."

I do not think it necessary to add any words of my own to this appeal. A mother of six children in want is sufficient to those disposed to help. I hope with all my heart that the address of Mrs. M. P. will be asked for soon.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Hominy Souffle.

A good many incidents have convinced the writer that big hominy or samp, most commonly labeled pearl hominy, as one of the daintiest of the corn products has not come into its own in the diet of our countrymen at large. It is appreciated and used continually in a certain section of the country. When well cooked it is much easier to digest than beans, and costs less, usually. The home cooked costs only one-eighth or one-tenth what that in cans costs, and the latter has none of that fresh cooked, dainty, almost vanillalike flavor of the fresh cooked.

It is not necessary to soak big hominy over night. Wash one cup of it, after picking it over carefully, and add to it eight cups of cold water. Put on stove in covered kettle and bring slowly—remember, slowly—to a boil, and cook anywhere from three to eight hours thereafter gently in the covered kettle.

This is palatable with no seasoning except salt, but it may be eaten when hot with butter or when cold with milk alone. It may be heated up for a hot breakfast cereal. It may be drained and the liquid used for a soup, a cream of corn soup, or make a hominy souffle.

One cup of cold hominy with the jellied liquid in which it was cooked, two eggs, one-fourth cup of sugar, or sugar to taste, nutmeg, or other flavoring. Beat whites and yolks separately. Sweeten yolks and stir in hominy, then fold in the whites thoroughly. Pour into hot and buttered baking dish and bake from twenty to thirty minutes in a hot oven, or one just entering the hot stage of 350 degrees. Only a little of the jellied liquid should be used, but when the hominy has swelled all it will in cooking, any taken up in a cup of the whole will not be too wet for the souffle.

By Corinne Lowe.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—When the high C's of Galli Curci ushered in the high season of New York society there were four or five points of costuming noted by all who leveled their glasses at the resplendent horseshoe bend. One of these was the popularity of the white evening gown. Another was the popularity of the geranium and rose shades of red, the latter fact exemplified, not only by gowns but by magnificent velvet wraps. Blues ranging from turquoise to sapphire also stippled the canvas of color.

Aside from color, the slimness of the silhouette impressed all those concerned with the fate of the bouffante skirt. As to the diagonal line of corsage, this was evidenced on every side. Mingled with these impressions one got a sense of a jungle of coq fans and of interminable pairs of long white glace gloves.

Although the wrap of ermine and chinchilla will always be sponsored, the scarcity of such evening wraps has been notable throughout the first weeks of opera season. One sees much more of the wrap of velvet or of brocade. A stunning model presented today is in geranium red velvet with enormous collar of chinchilla and a bloused effect at the back accompanied by bands of gold tissue. And, by the way, a number of the most impressive velvet evening wraps have either embroidery designs or bands of metallic tissue circling the garment.

ORIENTAL Superstition?—Perhaps so—but at least an interesting relic of Asiatic Antiquity. Alleged by the Chinese to be almost uncanny in its power to bring to the wearer, GOOD LUCK—Health, Happiness, Prosperity, and Long Life.
This odd looking ring excites great interest when observed on your finger. An unusual gift. Go to your jeweler's at once and ask to see this odd CHINESE GOOD LUCK RING.

Musical and Cards Aid U. S. Committee for Serving France

The American committee for devastated France was the beneficiary of two interesting affairs at the Drake yesterday, a musical in the morning and an auction bridge tournament in the afternoon. The musicale was the second in a series being given under the auspices of Mrs. Edward Kent Miller and the tournament was part of a nation-wide one played in cities from the Atlantic to the Pacific for the same charity. A new system of bridge, devised by Milton C. Work of the New York Whist club, was tried out, in which cards, marked with arrows indicating to which player they should be dealt, were used. In a week or two all players will receive booklets from Mr. Work showing exactly how their hands should have been played. Among those who attended one or both of the benefits were Mrs. George W. Dixon, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Mrs. Milan H. Hulbert, Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, Mrs. Frederick T. Vaux, Mrs. William D. Clarke, Mrs. William H. Scriven, Mrs. Harold F. McCormick, Mrs. Morley M. The first assembly ball of the season will be held this evening at the Blackstone, and, as usual, will be one of the most fashionable affairs of the season. Receiving will be Mrs. Arthur Meeker, whose husband is president of the board of governors; Mrs. C. Morse Ely, Mrs. Watson F. Blair, Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, and Mrs. John Alden Spoor. Many dinner parties will precede the ball and among those who will entertain at the Blackstone will be Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Carton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. SOCIETY AT OPERA

Considering the state of the weather and the fact that last night's opera was a repeat performance, society did right well by itself in sending a smart audience to hear "La Boheme."

One of the most attractive parties was the one at which Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer were hosts for Mrs. Palmer's sister, Mrs. Roger Shepherd of St. Paul. Their box and that of the John Bordens adjoining had as occupants the hosts and their guest, also Mrs. John Borden, Miss Bertha Honoré, Mrs. Frank Hibbard, David Adler, Arthur Heun, and John V. Farwell III.

Mrs. Richard T. Crane and Mr. and Mrs. Livingston Fairbank were with Miss Muriel McCormick. Mr. and Mrs. J. Lewis Cochran had with them Mr. and Mrs. J. Lewis Cochran Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Hibbard Casselberry.

Mrs. Harold F. McCormick had with her Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scribner Eaton, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Laing, and John Alden Carpenter.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wrigley and Mr. and Mrs. James Frier were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick D. Countiss. Charles H. Morse Jr. was host to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Taft, Miss Marcia Warren, Miss Alice Gerstenberg, and Charles H. Swift.

With Mrs. Philip D. Armour III. were Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hutchins, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Borland, and Gerald Cudahy.

Mr. and Mrs. Wirth S. Dunham had with them Mr. and Mrs. John W. Scott and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Smith.

Sale of Playthings Made by Crippled Kiddies Dec. 6

Sitting in a rocker on the country club veranda and knitting a silk sweater helps pass the time. But it's so fatiguing. Bridge is a good game. But bending over the table does give one a backache. Even the most comfortable of motors cramps one's body. It's nice to economize and do the family sewing, but it makes one nervous.

MRS. WILLIAM J. CHALMERS.

What about the hundreds of children in Chicago with twisted spines, crippled legs, paralyzed backs, deformed hips, and bent arms? Do they get nervous and tired and "achey"?

Perhaps. But the boys and girls at the Country Home for Convalescent Children, a home and farm at Prince Crossing, Ill., dedicated to the care, cure, and education of crippled children, haven't time for nerves.

A boy with one leg bends over a work bench and makes a red wagon for some boy with two legs to chase up and down the block. A little girl in a wheel chair paints a large golden hair doll that really walks and wonders how it feels not to be carried. Another girl with a twisted body dresses a baby doll whose arms and legs are straight and firm and strong.

Hand made animals, furniture for the well equipped nursery, doll houses, wonderful wooden elephants, embroidered linen towels: they will all be ready for the annual sale of such work to be held at the Drake hotel Tuesday, Dec. 6, from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m., under the direction of Mrs. William J. Chalmers, president of the board of directors. The children receive a share of the profits of their work at this sale. The remainder goes toward material for the coming year.

Music Recitals and Opera Make Up Busy Day for Reviewer

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Yesterday's musical events began in the morning and continued till late at night. The first in point of time was a joint recital by Hans Kindler, cellist, and Lucy Gates, coloratura soprano. It was held at the Drake hotel.

Mr. Kindler, an excellent cellist, was heard in Boellman's Symphonic Variations and a group of shorter numbers. He draws an accomplished bow, evoking with suave, finished tone melodies from the works of ancient and modern composers and giving them warm, rhythmic, and vital presentation.

Miss Gates, whose coloratura used to be pronounced by Walter Damrosch better than Galli-Curci's, gave utterance to it in "Una voce poco fa," from "The Barber of Seville." It is sure to be a success when expertly done, and Miss Gates demonstrated that she can succeed with the best of them. She also appeared in some songs which did credit to her as a singer and as a student of how to project the English language.

In the afternoon Mr. Stock and the Chicago Symphony orchestra delighted a capacity audience at Orchestra hall with a children's program. The different compositions were illustrated and explained before being played, thereby administering to the youthful audience the most pleasant and instructive music lesson they are likely to get.

The evening produced two attractions, one a concert by the Edison Symphony orchestra at Orchestra hall. These events take place each month, always to a devoted patronage, who with justification find Conductor Morgan L. Eastman's programs very much worth while. Olive June Lacey, soprano, was on the program as soloist.

Finally the opera company gave another performance of "La Bohême" at the Auditorium. Claire Dux was the Mimi to the Rodolfo of Tino Pattiera, the Marcello of Giacomo Rimini, and the Musetta of Irene Pavloska. Angelo Ferrari conducted.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mrs. Albert Straub of 5955 Winthrop avenue announces the engagement of her daughter, Mila, to John V. Houston, son of Judge and Mrs. John W. Houston. No date has been set for the wedding.

The engagement is announced of Miss Virginia Gertrude Grassell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Grassell of 4944 Woodlawn avenue, to Robert David Mathias, son of Mrs. Grant Mathias.

IF YOU'RE FREE FROM CONSTIPATION SHOW THIS TO SOME SUFFERER!

One of the greatest benefits to humanity that has been made available to every man, woman and child in America is Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled. Kellogg's Bran will relieve constipation permanently if it is eaten regularly. If people of this nation generally would eat Kellogg's Bran nine-tenths of all sickness would be eliminated.

Physicians indorse Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, for constipation because constipation is naturally relieved through proper food. We guarantee Kellogg's Bran will relieve constipation if at least two tablespoonfuls are eaten daily. We advise as much as necessary for chronic cases.

Kellogg's Bran acts as a sweeper, cleansing and purifying. But it is not a "remedy"; rather a nature food! Unlike pills and cathartics, which are not only irritating to the delicate intestinal tract, and afford but temporary relief at best—bran is not habit-forming. Effects of pills and cathartics wear off and it is necessary for the sufferer to find some new and more violent bowel-agitator. Kellogg's Bran never ceases its regular work.

Kellogg's Bran at the same time will clear a pimply complexion and sweeten the breath.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is one of the most delicious cereals you ever ate. Its nut-like flavor is delightful. Or sprinkle it on your favorite cereal and use it in various foods such as bran bread, muffins, pancakes, gravies, etc. Recipes are printed on each package.

WALLACE ISSUES NEW RULES FOR MEAT INDUSTRY

Grocers Fight Changes in Packers' Act.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace today issued general rules and regulations carrying out the provisions of the packers and stockyards acts with respect to stockyard owners, market agencies and dealers.

Each owner and market agency is required to register with the packers and stockyards administration in Washington, scheduling rates and charges and other terms and conditions of service. Stockyard owners and registrants must furnish any information under oath which may be required "to carry out the provisions of the act."

Provides for Inspection.

Any representative of the administration is to be permitted to inspect any property or records, but shall not divulge any information so obtained except to the government, unless directed to do so by the secretary of agriculture or a court of competent juridiction.

True copies of all contracts or changes therein by stockyard owners and packing, rendering, serum, fertilizer, and other establishments relating to the stockyards of such owners are to be furnished as soon as practicable. Accurate records of receipts, shipment, and disposal of live stock are to be kept.

Any change in the control or ownership is to be reported within ten days.

"A stockyard owner or registrant," the rules provide, "shall not make, issue, or circulate any false or misleading report, record, or representation concerning live stock market conditions or the price or sale of any live stock."

Grocers Fear "Food Trust."

Fear that the "Big Five" meat packers will obtain control of the distribution of all food products if permitted to reënter the grocery business was expressed by half a dozen witnesses today before the department of justice committee which is considering the advisability of a modification of the court decree affecting the packers.

The witnesses included Walter J. Tancill, representing the St. Louis Wholesale Grocers' association; Edward W. Hoffman of Milwaukee, a wholesale grocer; E. B. Hawks, Bloomington, Ill., president of the Illinois Wholesale Grocers' association; and Alfred H. Beckman, representing the National Chain Store Grocers' association.

Fear Serious Consequences.

All expressed the belief that if the big meat packers get control of food distribution it would be of serious consequence to the wholesale grocers.

Methods of "Big Five" meat packers were attacked in a statement by Mr. Tancill.

"The record of the interests which would benefit by the reopening of this decree," he said, "is one filled with examples of the most ruthless practices in stifling competitive endeavor. Their record of illegal and unlawful practices, their repeated violations of both law and commercial ethics, is a striking commentary upon the government's inability to cope with their industry."

LEGION NOTES

Harold A. Taylor post No. 47 will hold its monthly business meeting and annual election of officers and trustees tonight at 8:15 at its headquarters, 1358 North Clark street.

Beverly Hills post will give a vaudeville entertainment at the Ridge Park field house tomorrow evening. On Sunday, Dec. 4, at 2:30 o'clock the post, together with other organizations, will plant a group of memory trees in Ridge Park at 97th street and Longwood drive, at which time Judge K. M. Landis will make a short address.

All members of the 311th engineers' auxiliary and ex-service men of the 311th engineers are requested to attend a meeting tonight in room 1124 county building.

ACQUITTED OF EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGE

Frederick J. Halton, formerly of Honolulu, was found not guilty of embezzling $8,000 by a jury late yesterday. Complaint was made by the Universal Marine agency of Honolulu, operated by Frank Scott, dealers in steamship tickets.

GOAT AROMA CASE LEADS TO WRIT AGAINST DOCTOR

The squabble between Samuel P. Thrasher, head of the Committee of Fifteen, backed by a number of neighbors, and Dr. Mark White, 5035 Lake Park avenue, over the aroma of a number of goats the doctor claimed he was using in the manufacture of a serum, culminated yesterday in a warrant for his arrest on the charge of practicing medicine without a license.

The warrant was turned over to detectives, who were told at the doctor's home that he had left the city.

John W. Follmer of the state department of registration and education said the Springfield registration office had wired him that White was refused a license in 1919 because of insufficient medical education and has no right to practice in this state.

BOY HELD FOR 29 ROBBERIES.

Charles Gryss, 18 years old, 628 West 14th street, alleged head of a band of boy burglars and himself charged with robbing twenty-nine places, was held to the grand jury in $4,000 bonds yesterday by Judge Morgan in the Boys' court.

Naturally, it has required considerable time to weigh every slogan carefully and choose the ones which, from every standpoint, have been found by the judges to be the best. The prizes have already been mailed to the winners. A great many slogans which are not among the prize winners are still deserving of honorable mention, and we take this occasion to thank every contestant for the interest shown. Likewise we express our appreciation to the judges for their part in making this contest a complete success.

You would never guess that she suffered from chronic costiveness—that she had disfiguring pimples, bad breath, a torpid liver, sick headaches, and indigestion.

All that is a thing of the past now. She's as healthy as she looks. Her beauty is charming and it is largely due to a regular use of Dilaxin, the tablets which really relieve constipation. They are made from the same formula as the famous Dilaxin prescription, so you know that they are effective.

PROFIT TAKING CHECKS SHARP WHEAT ADVANCE

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

While wheat advanced to a new high the present movement yesterday the best figures were not maintained due to profit taking on reports of scattered rains in the eastern sections of Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas and the closing was ¼@1c lower with May selling.

Corn was unchanged to ⅜c lower, December showing the most strength, while oats were unchanged to ¼c higher and rye unchanged to 1c lower.

The early news was generally favorable to higher prices but at $1.18 for May there was free selling by an Omaha leader who was a good buyer the previous day, which checked the advance for a time, but the offerings were absorbed later by commission houses and the pit element and an advance to $1.19 followed. The latter price showed 12c over the recent low and a realizing movement set in that carried values off to $1.16½ with the finish within ¼c of the top.

Deliveries on December contracts of 21,000 bu failed to find a ready lodging place, but cash houses were persistent buyers of December and sellers of May and the differences narrowed to 3¼c. There was also buying of May and selling of July at 7@8c difference, trading in the latter being on for the first time.

Export Demand Fair.

Export demand was fair with some indications of business in domestic grains. Foreign markets were firmer with Liverpool 1¾d higher and Buenos Aires unchanged to ¼c higher with beneficial rains in the southern part of Argentina while dry and warm weather is needed in the north where harvesting is on. Foreign crop reports on the whole were favorable.

Rains in the southwest generally were light and fell in sections that needed moisture the least, with the forecast for generally fair and colder. Cash demand was slow in all markets, deliveries of 500,000 bu at Kansas City going to mills who have ordered it out, and they are said to be long 500,000 bu more December and want the cash grain.

Cash Interests Buy Corn.

Corn showed a firm undertone the greater part of the day with cash interests persistent buyers of December and the discount under the May narrowed 5c after some changing was done early at 7c difference. The general run of the news was bullish, country offerings being limited and outside points continue to outbid Chicago while exporters were after cash grain from here both all rail and c. i. f. Buffalo.

The gulf bid equal to 1½c over spot prices for No. 2 yellow at Omaha. Weather conditions were unfavorable for the movement, and it is expected that a freeze up will be necessary before Illinois farmers can haul.

The December-May oats spread narrowed to 5¼c despite deliveries of 2,610,000 bu at Chicago, and at one time the difference was only 5½c against 6c the previous day. Cash houses bought December and sold the May. Eastern demand was fair and country offerings light.

Exporters were after rye here and there was persistent buying of futures by local and eastern interests, but this was offset by selling orders from the northwest and the close was rather easy. Deliveries of 130,000 bu were taken by shippers. Export bids were advanced ½c to 13½c over December, track Baltimore, and some sales were said to have been made at better figures, although quantities were not given. No. 2 on spot was nominally 1@1½c over December.

Provisions Trade Light.

Provisions held within narrow limits, trade being very small. The strength in grains offset the effect of a decline in hogs. Export demand has fallen off materially and the domestic trade is only fair with sales of 50,000 lbs leaf lard at 8¼c. Sentiment generally remains rather bearish. Prices follow:

·WORLD'S·GRAIN·MARKET·NEWS·

Wheat is a weather market as a majority of traders see it, and the course of prices today is expected to be governed to a great extent by whether the large producing sections of central and western Kansas and Oklahoma received rain. Late reports yesterday indicated that the moisture occurred mainly in the eastern sections where it was needed the least. There was a great deal of evening up on the part of local operators during the day, and should official reports show no precipitation where most needed an upturn would not be a surprise to many traders. Commission houses generally took the view that wheat was a purchase on the declines.

It is understood in reliable quarters that there is a strong possibility of a large export business in domestic wheat with Russia. The business is not being transacted through the regular trade channels but by interests who expect to exchange the grain for other commodities, shipment in both instances to be made via Germany, with the wheat to be milled in the latter country and the flour sent on. One lot of around 3,500,000 bu is being figured on. The business is held up at the present time on account of the Russians being unable to accumulate sufficient other commodities to exchange for the flour.

"I do not believe that the trade generally understands the cause for the persistent buying of corn by Germany and other European countries," said a leading local cash handler yesterday in the past, as well as other countries, has secured its requirements of starch from potatoes. This year the potato crop was short, as were the hay and other fodder crops in consequence they have started to take corn in volume and this will probably continue. Around 5,000,000 bu corn was recently bought for shipment to Russia for famine relief work, and a good part of it has already been milled in this country. One industry I know of has made large sales of starch to Germany and is grinding to capacity."

"I feel very friendly to the corn market," the same man said, "and while there may be some recession in values when the usual winter run gets under way, the trade is likely to be surprised at its short duration. The producer is being educated to hold back his corn and, after his experience with forced liquidation of wheat and oats, he is not likely to want to flood the market with corn, especially when the war finance corporation is now loaning money freely to relieve the situation."

In summarizing the wheat situation east of the Rockies, J. E. Carney, with Bartlett Frazier company, estimates that exports from that section from July 1 to Nov. 26 are 155,000,000 bu, or 42,000,000 bu in excess of the theoretical amount it had to spare.

Clearances of wheat from Fort William and Port Arthur Wednesday were 4,400,000 bu; of oats nearly 1,000,000 bu, the largest for one day on record. Boats were waiting at the elevators yesterday for 2,500,000 bu wheat. Charters were made at Chicago for 1,000,000 bu, any grain, to load and hold here until the opening of navigation at 3½c per bu.

The O'Neill [Neb.] Electric Light and Power company yesterday started to use corn in place of coal for fuel, experiments having proven it to be satisfactory. The board of supervisors of Pocahontas county, Ia., have ordered that corn be used in place of coal as fuel in county buildings under their control.

A point in the coarse grain situation made by a local trader is that practically all feeding stuffs are selling, pound for pound, above the price of corn and oats. Bran prices have advanced $6@6.50 per ton from the recent low, while gluten feed is up $7 in ten days and brings $31 per ton.

It is expected that part of the Northwestern elevator which was wrecked by an explosion some time ago will be ready for operation on Feb. 1.

RAILROAD NOTES

The directors of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy voted for the adoption of a pension plan to include all employes. The plan will involve the outlay of a large sum of money, but the details of the method have not been worked out. They will be ready in time to make the plan operative as of Jan. 1 next.

Otto H. Kahn and Mortimer L. Schiff resigned from the board of directors of the Union Pacific railroad. It was understood they withdrew because of the provisions of the Clayton act prohibiting interlocking directorates.

The interstate commerce commission authorized a loan of $240,000 to the Chicago, Great Western Railroad company for one year from Dec. 1. The money will be used by the company in meeting maturing indebtedness.

Reduced rates on coal which Henry Ford attempted to put into effect on his railroad, the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton, were further suspended by the interstate commerce commission to Jan. 31.

The Texas and Pacific railway company has given notice of a reduction in the salaries of all officers and employes, effective Jan. 1.

Seiberling Rubber.

J. L. H., Massillon, O.: The Seiberling Rubber company was incorporated at $55,000,000 Nov. 16, 1921, at Dover, Del. It was organized by F. A. Seiberling, former president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company. The new company has announced its intention of issuing 50,000 shares of preferred stock of $100 par and 500,000 of common stock of no par value, the latter to be sold at $10 a share. The company plans to acquire the Lehigh Rubber company, purchased by Seiberling, and possibly the Star Rubber company, Portage Rubber company (in receivership), and several other small concerns. It is stated that $750,000 Seiberling Rubber company stock is to be set aside for sale to Portage stockholders. It was reported that plans were to begin production on the basis of 5,000 tires and 6,000 tubes a day if the Portage plant was obtained. Arrangements were reported Nov. 17, 1921, being completed for a new tire of Mr. Seiberling's design. Five of the seven directors of the new company, including Mr Seiberling, were formerly with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company. Stock in this new company would represent participation in a business venture.

Situations Wanted Women—Girls.

Many girls and women will be interested to know that employers use the Situations Wanted columns of The Tribune as they would an employment agency, preferring to hire women of initiative!

An old fashioned cook is what you want? Find her with a Want Ad in next Sunday's Tribune!

MORE STUDENTS

is what you want, if INSTRUCTION is your metier. Get them by means of Want Advertising in the Sunday Tribune. A multitude of subjects, from piano to public speaking, comes in for attention in this classification. These teacher-advertisers get good results from their Want Ads. Whatever you teach, if you're looking for more students, use Sunday Tribune Want Ads in INSTRUCTION.

REAL ESTATE

The Tribune carries more Real Estate advertising than all the other Chicago newspapers combined. Sell Real Estate—NOW—with Sunday Tribune Want Ads!

"My daddy has a car. Yours hasn't."

"Well, we had one, but one day papa put something in The Tribune and a man came to our house and papa took him for a ride and now we haven't got a car any more. But mama has a new fur coat!"

THERE are bound to be occasions when the thing for you to do is—use a Sunday Tribune Want Ad! So, in the interest of your convenience and your pocketbook, be familiar with what The Tribune Want Ad Section offers!

SELL

your auto with a Sunday Tribune Want Ad! The automobile columns of The Sunday Tribune Want Ad Section constitute a vast market, rich in prospects, fertile in inquiry, and highly productive of buyers! Auto dealers use The Sunday Tribune regularly to sell used cars—indicating it's a good way to sell your car!

STOVES

If you wish to buy or sell a stove, do so with a Sunday Tribune Want Ad. Look up this classification next Sunday. See the bargains lined up in this column. Better still, use the "Stoves" classification this Sunday!

Want Ads serve in all three phases of your daily life. The personal equation is often solved by the timely use of a Tribune Want Ad. (Lost and Found, Personal, Barter and Exchange, etc.)

Then there is much that Want Advertising does for business: huge markets are covered, vast resources plumbed, tremendous aggregate values bought, sold and exchanged. (Business Chances, Building Material, Light and Heavy Manufacturing, Financial, Office Devices, etc.)

And then there's the household usefulness of the Want Ad. Buy or sell anything around the house! (Household Goods, Arts and Antiques, Rooms to Rent, Stoves, Used Clothing, etc.)

WANDERING WANT AD

The Wandering Want Ad surveyed the "guest room" critically. "My advice to you, my dear Madam," said he, in his best floor-walkerian manner, "would be to sell that old fashioned dresser, get a new one, put a more pleasant looking rug in here, and rent the room. It has a comfortable, home-like air, and I could find you some very satisfactory people from whom you could choose a tenant."

"And what," he continued, as he strolled into the dining room, "is the idea of the trick combination of mission finish woodwork and mahogany furniture? You really ought to make more use of the Household Goods classification. I see where I'm going to be of considerable help around here."

BARTER & EXCHANGE

The place to go, the thing to do, whenever you feel like swapping something for something else—Barter and Exchange! A diamond for a fur coat, furniture for a flivver. Barter and Exchange is a happy arrangement. The lack of ready money often prevents you from getting what you want as quickly as you want it. Use Sunday Tribune Want Ads in Barter and Exchange!

WOMEN—

There's a special department for women advertisers in the big Want Ad store in The Tribune Building (main floor) at Madison and Dearborn. It is called the Women's Service Bureau. If you want a Want Ad for this Sunday's Tribune, come in today!

Business Chances

To buy or sell a business use Sunday Tribune Want Ads. Or if you wish to secure new brains or backing for your present business, to buy out or sell into another line, use Tribune Want Ads, in Business Chances!

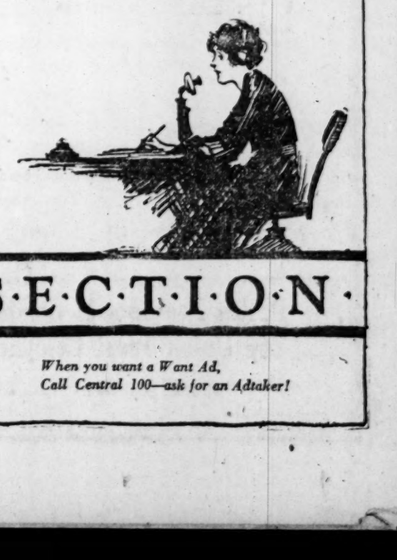

Barter and Exchange

To make all editions of The Sunday Tribune your Want Ad must be in by NINE o'clock Friday evening. To make all CITY editions, you have until 2 o'clock Saturday!

Excessive hog supplies caused a 5@10c break in values, with a third of the 50,000 received left in the pens. Shippers purchased freely from the start, while packers generally held off until late, making a topheavy finish in the trade. Day's top, $7.10 for 150 lbs average, with practical top $7 for heavyweights, and the general average at $6.85.

"Show" Cattle Sell High.

The grand champion heifer of the International show, weighing 1,220 lbs, sold in the auction yesterday at $1.10 per lb. The championship load of Angus steers averaging 1,078 lbs brought $40 per hundred, and the championship load of hogs went at $11.35. A year ago the individual champion steer sold at $1.75 per lb, the load of grand champion steers at $30.00 per 100, and hogs at $15.00 per 100.

Seven western markets received 24,000 cattle, 91,000 hogs, and 84,000 sheep, against 25,000 cattle, 92,000 hogs, and 28,000 sheep the corresponding Thursday a year ago.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 3,000 cattle, 32,000 hogs, and 12,000 sheep, against 5,581 cattle, 29,145 hogs, and 11,135 sheep the corresponding Friday a year ago.

RESERVE BANKS' REPORTS SHOW DEBT REDUCTION

BY O. A. MATHER.

The business of the country appears again to have entered a dull period following the spurt of early autumn, but liquidation continues its orderly course and the financial situation shows further improvement. Moreover, this reduction of debt is proceeding at the height of the season which ordinarily brings enlarged demands on credit.

These facts are to be deduced from the weekly statement of the federal reserve system. Loans are now less than half the total of a year ago, while reserve note circulation, which forms a large part of the paper currency, aggregates only about two-thirds of the maximum amount reached last December. Withal, the reserve position of the system is the strongest since September, 1917.

Consolidated Statement.

The consolidated statement of the twelve federal reserve banks shows gold and total reserves increased $14,168,000 and $19,814,000, respectively. Loans declined $22,869,000, those on government obligations increasing $9,197,000 but those on commercial paper receding $32,-066,000. The New York Times.

New York, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—All other movements in today's markets were overshadowed by the rise in foreign exchange. This advance carried sterling to $4.07⅝, the highest price reached since it passed that figure on the down grade in November, 1919. It brought the German mark to 57⅝ one-hundredths of a cent, the highest since last October, and it raised the rates on France and Italy respectively to the best figures touched since Nov. 4 and Sept. 9.

The day's sterling rate was no farther below the lowest quotation touched in September, 1915, than it was above last September's figure. At less than ⅝c, the German mark experienced a rise of nearly 75 per cent from the price of not quite a month ago.

In view of recent cabled news the rise today was alternately ascribed to a possible effort at "stabilizing" exchange and to a possible announcement of the allies' plans regarding Germany.

Prices of stocks recovered irregularly with a few sharp advances, mostly in the industrial shares. The bond market continued its halt after the recent prolonged advance, but the rise in United States war loans continued; Victory 4¾s touching par again and the 4¼ per cents of 1918 getting closer to the highest open market price of their history.

After a progressive reduction of 1,400,-000,000 francs in the seven weeks prior to Nov. 24, the French bank's paper circulation increased 152,500,000 francs in the last week. It still remains 3,100,-000,000 below its high point, reached in November of 1920, a decrease of about 8 per cent, and expansion in this autumn period is usual, but it has been pretty clearly intimated at Paris that another and a very large reduction will be made around the year end.

TRADES CHICAGO APARTMENTS FOR MAYWOOD HOUSE

BY AL CHASE.

A reported $325,000, subject to $200,000, was paid by Edward F. Brizzolara to Fred Becklenberg for the forty-four flats at 5740-48 Winthrop avenue. He gave in part payment his Maywood residence on the Des Plaines river at 2d avenue and North 10th street, valued at $125,000, where Mr. Becklenberg will make his home.

Some other deals by Lino Brothers, who claim to have sold more than half a million in north side realty in the last two weeks, are: Six flats at 1134-36 Farwell avenue, by Lillian Cohn to Benjamin Fisher, $62,000, subject to $16,000; six apartments at 5244-46 Kenmore, Abraham Branower to Edward Newberger, $45,000, subject to $17,000.

Watch the Bulletin Board!

Here's a suggestion to brokers: Keep your eye on the bulletin board in the Chicago Real Estate board rooms. J. Soule Warterfield, new business manager, yesterday became assistant to the president for December only, and decided to post all out of town inquiries on the board, giving every broker an even chance. Yesterday, for instance, a letter was received from a Canadian who wanted to trade 8,000 acres of land for a Chicago flat building; also an Indiana man wanted to buy a Chicago meat market. Executive Secretary Cole has left for a month's vacation, to be spent in Florida.

The B.-W. Construction company, and not the Northwestern Construction company, are masons and carpenters on the garage at 3731 Broadway, incorrectly announced in yesterday's TRIBUNE from figures supplied by the City News bureau.

Hyde Park Sales.

Michael E. Mickelsen has bought from Theodore Sedlmayr, general manager of the Fleischmann Yeast company, the eighteen flats at 5427-31 Harper avenue, 100x165, through Fred Lorish of W. K. Young & Bro., for a reported $65,000, subject to $34,000.

An indicated $107,500, subject to $67,500, was paid by Gertrude E. Burns to Daniel E. Frost for the eighteen flats at the northeast corner of Kenwood and 53d, 160x70. A six flat building at 1411-13 East 50th street, valued at $35,000, was given as part payment. H. C. Moylan of J. J. Carroll & Co. and E. B. Beatty were brokers.

Building Permits

Eighteen building permits were issued yesterday, among them being the following: 3141 Bernard-st.; 2 story brick residence; E. Hammarlund, owner; L. E. Stanhope, arch., mason, and carp., $12,000
4145 W. Grand-av.; 1 story brick addition to bakery; Paul's Bake shop, owner; R. Griesset, arch.; G. Thomson & Son, mason and carp., 13,000

PRODUCE MARKETS

Demand for butter was fair, but offerings were not large, and prices in the leading markets advanced ½@1c. Sales of 84 cars of storage standards for December delivery were made at Chicago at 38@38½c and 36 cars of January at 39@40c. Local receipts, 4,453 tubs. Cheese trade remains limited, and Fond du Lac quoted daisies ½c and longhorns ¼c lower.

No change was reported in the price of fresh eggs, although storage lots advanced 1c on spot. December delivery sales were 156 cars at unchanged prices, ranging from 42 to 42½c. Fresh receipts, 1,492 cases.

Spring chickens were quoted 1c lower in the poultry market, but other kinds were unchanged. Receipts, 7 cars and 970 coops. While wet weather checked trading in potatoes, the undertone was firm. Receipts, 33 cars, and supply on track reduced to 262 cars.

BUSINESS NEWS IN BRIEF

[Copyright: 1921: By Fairchild News Service.]

BERLIN.—Sensational strengthening of the mark affected few American buyers here. Most purchases must be paid for in dollars. Merchandise speculators, who had failed to cover on marks, however, are demoralized.

NEW YORK.—Lower primary market prices for finished cotton goods are following changed conditions in raw cotton. The trade looks for reductions in other bleached goods following a decline on bleached muslin.

ST. LOUIS.—Raw fur prices are slipping perceptibly. Arrivals from trapping centers are larger than normal. A decline from peak prices is estimated at from 15 to 25 per cent.

NEW YORK.—High price stubbornness of woolen and worsted yarns is causing cloth manufacturers to look to Europe. It is reported that imports marked at "attractive figures" are arriving.

NEW YORK.—Despite low prices, shirt manufacturers report retailers are continually cancelling orders previously placed. Undercutting by competing manufacturers is blamed for this condition.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Retailers are ordering lower priced luggage and leather goods. Popular retail price for Christmas gift traveling bags this year is $15, judging by orders placed.

NEW YORK.—Reduced retail prices on costume blouses are spreading. It is believed that these sale offerings came from manufacturers making up job lots from old stocks on hand. Manufacturers, however, claim that no job lots exist in market.

NEW YORK.—Rising prices of raw and broad silk are not affecting silk shirt prices. A renewed wave of retail price cutting is apparent as dealers attempt to unload stocks during Christmas shopping.

NEW YORK.—Despite little activity in print cloths today. Some small sales were made of 38½ inch, 64x60, 5.35 yards to the pound, at 8⅝ cents, and of 39 inch, 68x72, 4.75 yard, at 9⅝ cents, close to a half cent concession, but most mills held out for 8½ and 9½ cents, respectively. Sheetings were quiet, although small lots of 37 inch, 48x40, 4.00 yard, were sold at 9 cents.

NEW YORK.—The sweeping character of the injunction restraining cloak and suit manufacturers from conspiring to break their contract with the union was not modified today. Council for the manufacturers failed to appear to argue the case.

DRY GOODS MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Cotton goods markets quiet today, with a weaker tendency, following a further cotton decline. Yarns quiet; raw silk, higher; Cantons, up 8c lb. Wool goods quiet and burlaps easier.

BENTON HARBOR is located in Berrien County, in the southwestern part of the State. It is the center of one of the most important fruit growing districts in the State, and is the most important fruit shipping point on Lake Michigan.

The city has a distinct economic advantage in its transportation facilities. Its excellent harbor permits direct, low-cost boat service to Chicago and Milwaukee, and in addition the city is served by the Pere Marquette, C. C. C. & St. L. and the Michigan Central Railroads.

These issues constitute a direct general obligation of the city, all taxable property therein being subject to direct taxation.

CADILLAC 8, TYPE 59, SUBURBAN SEDAN. This is one of the late series that has had most wonderful care. The original purchaser has availed himself of our Service Department, and for this reason the purchaser of this car will be able to obtain a Cadillac Sedan in way above the average condition. Special for this sale, $1,250.

CADILLAC 8, TYPE 57, BROUGHAM SEDAN. Has just been refinished and has the appearance of a new car. Has excellent set of cord tires, one extra, and bumper. The velour upholstering in this car shows practically no wear. As this model has been very popular and this price low, your immediate action will be necessary. Special for this sale, $2,500.

TRIBUNE PAPER MILLS SWAMPED BY NEW DEMAND

Unprecedented Sale of the W. G. N. Is Reason.

THE TRIBUNE'S purchasing agent was forced to go out into the open market yesterday to buy print paper. That in itself is one of the most remarkable events in TRIBUNE history.

The overwhelming rush of circulation the inundating call for copies of the paper, the unprecedented demand for THE TRIBUNE, particularly since the opening of the Christmas Cheer distribution, is to blame.

Reserve Dwindles Low.

The bonus giving plan was announced. The cry for TRIBUNES—already in demand beyond anything known in United States morning newspaper history—went up. The reserve supply of print paper dwindled dangerously low. Special trains from THE TRIBUNE'S paper mills could not stem the tide. Frantic efforts by the papermakers in the company's own mills supplied only part of the new demand.

More paper must be had.

So THE TRIBUNE'S purchasing agent has gone to the open market to satisfy the demand.

When the contest was announced last week the makers of this newspaper first saw the danger of a print paper shortage. Telegrams, then telephone calls, went through to the paper mills in Canada. The men in charge at the paper manufacturing plant responded heartily.

Night forces were started to work. The machines were accelerated. Paper machines were soon working faster than ever before in history. The wheels roared and screamed. The big machines groaned under the load.

Employ Traffic Experts.

Special trains were loaded and started toward Chicago. On each train a traffic expert presided. When the locomotives stopped, the traffic men went ahead and straightened out the trouble. The trains moved on to Chicago. Carload after carload of paper was trucked from the cars on the siding at The Tribune Plant into the pressroom. The emptied cars were switched off the tracks to make room for loaded cars.

But yesterday morning the men in charge of the paper mills threw up the sponge. They said, over long distance wires, that they couldn't fill the demand. They would continue their mad pace, they said, but it was a mechanical impossibility to make sufficient print paper to meet the demand of TRIBUNE pressmen.

So the purchasing agent started at once to look for paper on the open market.

KINLEY RAPS U. S. ENCROACHMENT ON EDUCATION

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 1.—The onward sweep of federal control, which is one of the most astonishing facts in our history, is the most important question of internal administration before the American people today, Dr. David Kinley told an audience of educators in an address following his installation as president of the University of Illinois here tonight. The listeners were presidents and deans of most of the important American colleges and universities attending a conference on "The Relation of Federal Government to Education."

DR. DAVID KINLEY.

"Education is one of the matters not delegated to the federal government by the constitution. It is a state function," said President Kinley.

"The provision that the states will match the federal appropriations with equal amounts contains within itself the germ of a power that, when developed, will determine the character and extent of our education. It has in it the possibility of destroying the initiative and independence of every school district in the country."

CLASS AT LAST! MISS FORTUNA IS LUCK DISPENSER

Routs Toro from Luck Business.

night, X-10, 99150, wins, in addition to its regular $10 prize, a special prize of $500.

The lowest number drawn, Z-4, 1057, stacks up a special $500 bonus with its $50 check.

And while new fortunes were being made with every swish of rain against the score board, day-old fortunes were being discussed by the winners who called yesterday at THE TRIBUNE plant, 431 North Michigan avenue.

Law courts, cheese factories, laundries, homes, bricklayers' unions, fashionable schools; they all sent representatives to THE TRIBUNE.

The clothing trade scored the bull's eye of the day when Thomas F. Shea, 2121 South Crawford street, proprietor of a clothing store at 306 West Madison street, cashed his Cheer check for $1,000. The money goes into the bank; most of it. The wife and three children get the rest.

Cottage cheese was only half as successful. A $500 check was won by A. N. Paden, 2057 Warren avenue, wholesale cheese merchant (cottage variety, he stipulated). He'll "never forget THE TRIBUNE," and he's going to "split fifty-fifty with the wife." She waited outside for him.

Even though a woman's place is in the home, it's good to let her do the shopping. Mrs. W. J. Collins, Indiana Harbor, made a purchase at a drug store the other day and received a check. Yesterday she collected $500. Yes, she needs the money. Her husband is an ex-service man and they have, "O, so many bills."

Thirteen Is Lucky Once.

In the milk business is Joseph Sefcik Jr., 1344 West 18th place, who won another $500. He was born on the 13th of the month and can't understand his luck.

A cement finisher is Jack Wendt, Elgin, who says the $500 check which he discovered just two hours before its expiration date, would save his life. He, too, is an ex-service man, with "plenty of war debts."

Formerly a restaurant cook, George McCauley, 732 North State street, was thrown out of work eight months ago because of paralysis of the arms. Since then he has worried because his wife had to spend her time at the restaurant, over a hot range, in order to pay his doctor's bills. The lucky $100 is going to help.

Office boys, chauffeurs, clerks, a facial expert, an Illinois Central flagman, housekeepers, home makers, students, school children, babies, grandfathers, laborers, another office boy, a Waukegan junk peddler, and a number of "unemployed, waiting for work," they formed the line in front of the paying teller and received coin of the realm.

Big Show for Today.

And for those who didn't win yesterday there's a tomorrow. And that tomorrow is today. All ready for another big show, the first to be instituted by Miss Fortuna, put on with Olympian grandeur at Morris & Co.'s Exchange street office at the Stock Yards.

Today at 2:30 sharp two wild, roaring, hell raising western cow punchers, vested in Wyoming's best bibs and tuckers, will mount Morris & Co.'s refrigerating motor truck, the largest in the world. From the hurricane deck of this mammoth cold proposition in the stockyards these red blooded Americans will draw and draw.

BANKS CHECK OUT MILLIONS TO OLD MANSANTACLAUS

Huge Christmas Deposits Now Being Drawn.

Several million dollars in Christmas savings deposits will be distributed by Chicago banks to patrons in the next two weeks. Loop banks alone will pay over approximately $1,000,000, and it is said that such deposits in scores of outlying banks amount to at least two or three times as much more.

Still others have the plans because, they declare, such methods induce systematic savings—they teach the people to come to the bank each week and thus teach them how to save. There is a fourth group of banks which have the Christmas savings plan simply because of a public demand.

The People's Trust and Savings bank leads the loop institutions in number of accounts and deposits. This bank will pay over to 8,000 odd depositors this year approximately half a million dollars.

"We find it a good plan," said R. R. Olson, assistant cashier in charge of the savings department. "We are making preparations for 10,000 accounts next year. We think it is an excellent way to teach people to save."

Make Them Permanent.

The Illinois Trust and Savings bank, the only other big loop bank which has been operating a bona fide Christmas savings plan, comes next with 5,500 depositors and deposits of $320,000.

The Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank, at North Michigan avenue and Ohio street, has a number of Christmas savings plans. Officials of this bank declare the number of depositors saving money under this plan is steadily growing.

"And what is more," said one of the officials, "we have been able to induce many of our patrons to turn these accounts into permanent savings accounts instead of drawing them out at Christmas time."

The Harris Trust and Savings and the Fort Dearborn Trust and Savings banks have had similar savings plans. The former is inaugurating a regular Christmas savings department for next year "because the people want it," explains E. L. Johnson, who will be in charge.

Other Saving Plans.

The latter has a plan whereby the depositor may save against the coming due of insurance premiums, taxes, or other expenses at various times of the year. This plan will be continued.

The Continental and Commercial National bank and the Merchants Loan and Trust company are two banks which will open Christmas savings departments for next year. D. E. Jones, in charge for the former, and C. A. Gade, advertising manager for the latter, state "the public wants it and we are giving it to them."

Among the loop banks which will not have Christmas savings plans are the First Trust and Savings, the Corn Exchange, the Northern Trust company, the Greenebaum bank, and the Chicago Savings Bank and Trust company.

A Better Way to Save

The Merchants Loan "Monthly Statement Savings Plan" meets with continued favor from our depositors as being a material aid toward systematic, regular saving.

Our plan possesses these unusual features:

1. You do not have to depend upon your memory and your determination in order to save regularly.
2. You do not have to come to the Bank unless you want to.
3. You decide when to begin, how much to save, and how long to continue.
4. You save the money in a way that you miss it least.
5. You put the matter of saving on an efficient, business-like basis.
6. You save regularly and consistently, which is the only sure way to make a success of saving.

Our circular describing this savings system is mailed to any address upon request.

Interest will be allowed from the first of the month on all savings deposits made on or before Tuesday, December 6th.

Real Rest Depends Largely Upon the Depth of Your Sleep

A warning to "light" or "poor" sleepers

The deeper and sounder you sleep the better you feel. Five hours sound refreshing sleep does you more actual good than ten hours restless, disturbed sleep.

This is because the final conversion of food into vital tissue and nerve cells goes on more rapidly when the physical and mental forces are at rest.

You can't get sound, refreshing sleep if your nerves are agitated with tea or coffee. Both these drinks contain caffeine, which is sometimes very irritating to the brain and nervous system.

If you want to know the joy, vigor and stamina that comes to the person who gets sound, healthful sleep, why not stop taking tea or coffee for a while, and drink delicious, invigorating Postum instead.

Thousands of people everywhere have found that this was the only thing they needed in order to bring about these very happy results.

Order Postum from your grocer today. Drink this delightful cereal beverage of coffee-like flavor, for a week. Perhaps, like thousands of others, you'll never be willing to go back to tea or coffee.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

Should you both tell everything before marriage?

"Tell a woman what you must—but don't tell her everything," says an old proverb. Is that right? Or don't you think so?

Would you really want to know all about your husband's past—and do you think you'd be happier if he knew yours?

Marian wanted to know all about her husband's past—or thought so—so he told and she told—everything.

And right away came the question: "But darling, you didn't make love to any of them!"

What happened after that might happen to you—or anybody. And for the same reasons. Or wouldn't it!

You can answer—maybe—after seeing it. It's a Paramount picture.
